Stang Budget Unopposed; Advice Offered

Khrushchev Criticizes President's Yule Talk

Says U. S. Idea Strange on Geneva

Moscow, Dec. 29 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev today accused President Eisenhower of "crude interference" in the affairs of Communist nations, and dismissed his open skies arms inspection as "nothing more than military intelligence."

He boasted that the Soviet hydrogen bomb "can be considerably increased in power." At the same time he criticized Secretary Dulles as "advocating massive retaliation and other absurdities."

The Communist party chief spoke for two hours before the Supreme Soviet (Parliament).

"SOME WESTERN politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit," he asserted. "They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically."

Khruschchev said he spoke about Eisenhower critically "most unwillingly" because he respected the President "so much." But, he declared, the President's Christmas message to the people of eastern European Communist nations "is quite incompatible with the Geneva spirit."

This referred to a presidential message broadcast by radio Free Europe saying:

"DURING the Christmas season I want you to know that the American people recognize the trials under which you are suffering; join you in your concern for the restoration of individual freedoms and political liberty; and share your faith that right in the end will prevail to bring you once again among the free nations of the world."

Khrushchev criticized Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for a similar message.

"TO PRAY for a change of regime in the people's democracies is crude interference in the internal affairs of those countries and only leads to inciting passions and the arma-

Sales Tax Suggestion Comes Up

Area Expansion Figures in Costs

Reaction at last night's public hearing on a city budget, which Mayor Frederick H. Stang termed "realistic" was more in the vein of suggestion than protest as 11 of about 75 present voiced opinion in the Common Council chamber, city hall.

A raise of $7.96 in the tax rate over that of 1955, the mayor explained, was due largely to a realistic need for salary increases and to increased county charges.

THE HEARING revealed that the mayor will have "something to say" in his annual message next week on proposals that the city consider other means of tax revenue, that additional parking meters will be considered and that "more thought" will be given operation of the municipal auditorium.

A total of $1,996,220.42 to be raised by taxation brought the tax rate to $62.68, as compared to $54.72 for 1955 when the total to be raised by taxation was $1,733,198.59.

Mayor Stang, in explaining the budget, stressed that "We are all cognizant of the fact that Kingston is on the threshold of an industrial expansion."

WITH ANY GROWTH, he said, we have "growing pains" These involve financial growing pains—increased costs all along the line—and municipal government is no exception."

Former Fifth Ward Alderman Matthew J. Lenihan, who made several proposals, opposed elective officials raising their own salaries, and Walter Donnaruma, of 143 Franklin street, proposed a revision of the city charter, consolidation of some city departments and consideration of other means of tax revenue.

Alderman - at - Large Joseph Kelly, who said he was familiar with the operation of the government during several terms, complimented Mayor Stang for "a fine job." Salary increases, he said were necessary to keep them in line with those paid in private industry. New industries coming into the city will

Flood Death Toll Is 52 In 2 States

San Francisco, Dec. 29 (AP)—Relief and reconstruction workers in counties ravaged by California's most destructive floods worked earnestly today to speed the restoration job.

The toll of known dead reached 40 in California and 12 in Oregon. Between 20 and 30 persons still are reported missing and presumed dead in California; 3 in Oregon.

EARLY ESTIMATES on damage—still preliminary—are 150 to 170 million dollars in the widespread flooding of a million acres in the peak inundation on Christmas Eve.

With crisp, clear weather, the runoff slackened in the still swollen Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

Atop Donner summit in the Sierra Nevada the snowpack reached 98 inches, compared with 35 a year ago.)

Ellsworth Bunker, president of the American Red Cross, flew by helicopter today to Stockton and to Santa Cruz. He will fly tomorrow to Yuba City and then to Sacramento to confer with Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

WITH 161 disaster workers mobilized from all over the United States, the Red Cross estimates it will spend five million dollars providing prompt aid to families in immediate need in northern California and southern Oregon.

Gov. Knight, after viewing in Santa Cruz "the worst business property damage" in all the flooded sectors, signed an agreement to supply one million dol-

Lutzin Gets State Position as Youth Division Director

Appointment of Sidney G. Lutzin, formerly of Kingston, as director of the State Youth Commission's Division of Community Organization for Youth was announced today in Albany, according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Lutzin, who now makes his home in Westmere, served 10 years as superintendent of the Kingston Recreation Department. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lutzin of 41 Wurts street.

Mr. Lutzin succeeds Lincoln Daniels, who resigned last month to take a job in the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Mr. Lutzin has been assistant director of recreation for 10 years.

Mr. Lutzin joined the Kingston Recreation Department in the summer of 1936 and served until 1942 when he joined the armed forces. He resumed his post with the department upon discharge from service and served until 1946.

He was given a leave of absence for a year and in 1947 he tendered his resignation after serving for 12 months as recreation supervisor with the New York State Youth Commission.

Mr. Lutzin's appointment was announced by Commission Chairman Mark A. McCloskey.

To Cost $20 Million

Salary Increases Are Asked for State Forces

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Gov. Harriman will ask the Legislature to approve salary increases and a health insurance plan—estimated together to cost more than 20 million dollars annually—for the state's civil servants.

Harriman will make the proposals in his second annual message to the Senate and Assembly Jan. 4, opening day of the 1956 legislative session.

DETAILS of the salary-boost plan have not yet been worked out, but it will take special consideration of civil service employes in the lower pay grades, a source close to the governor said today.

Funds for the salary increase will be requested in the governor's main budget, which must be submitted to the Legislature before Feb. 1.

Those for the prepaid health insurance plan will be sought in the supplemental budget, which the governor usually submits just before final adjournment of the session.

Harriman also plans to take steps to reduce the 44 and 48-hour work weeks that still obtain for about 33,000 civil servants. He intends to strive to bring the work week as close to the 40-hour standard as possible.

MOST OF the state workers on the 44 and 48 hour week are employed at state institutions.

The prepaid health insurance plan envisioned by the governor, it was said, would require both the state and the employe to pay part of each premium.

The governor hopes also to make some arrangement that would permit retired employes to retain some of the benefits assigned to them under the health insurance plan, the source said.

The source said that at present one-half of the state's 67,000 civil servants earn $3,375 a year or less and one-quarter earn less than $2,900.

The governor feels that salaries for many job titles compared unfavorably with those of the federal government, New York city, New Jersey, Michigan and California.

Report Urged From U.S. on Flood Help

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D.-Ark.) called on the administration today to forward promptly its recommendations for flood insurance "if it wishes its proposals to be considered."

Even before he spoke out, the Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) announced it has almost completed a legislative program for what it called flood-disaster indemnity assistance "to present to Congress when it returns in January." It did not refer specifically to flood insurance.

FULBRIGHT IS chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which has held several hearings on the subject. He released today a letter to Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes, dated yesterday in advance of the HHFA announcement.

He said he was being pressed for quick action on the problem of flood insurance protection, contended the administration had several times delayed its recommendations, and urged a prompt report so the committee can plan its work.

"The many persons and organizations who are interested in this legislation, and whose views the committee will be interested in hearing, should have an opportunity to examine what the administration will propose, if anything," Fulbright wrote.

"If the administration wishes to exercise any leadership in this matter, or even if it wishes its proposals to be considered, the

Ulster Grows Sixth of State Apple Crop, Report Reveals

Ulster county apple production which has been on the increase during the past 10 years, and is expected to reach a peak within the next 10 years, amounted to approximately 2,800,000 bushels in 1955.

This accounted for 1/6 of the total crop grown in New York state.

Production in 1949 was 2,000,000 bushels, in 1954 2,550,000 bushels and the prospect for 1956 is for an average crop of about 2,400,000 bushels. The outlook for the next 10 years is a gradual increase to over 3,000,000 bushels and a greater percentage of the state total.

In view of the production and demand prospects for decidious fruits during 1956, Ulster county fruit growers should continue to aim at producing and marketing quality fruit crops efficiently and economically.

This is the opinion of William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, based on information obtained at the annual fruit outlook conference at Cornell recently.

After conferring with Cornell economist Prof. B. A. Dominick, Jr., agent Palmer summarized the 1956 outlook for major fruit crops grown in Ulster county.

APPLES — The New York state 1956 apple crop probably will not be as large as the 17 million bushels grown in 1955. National production, however, will probably be about as large, but production by geographic regions more in line with average. The demand for fresh apples is expected to be strong and some improvement in demand for processing apples is likely.

PEACHES—Dominick advised Palmer that the overall 1956 peach crop is expected to be

Governors Requested to Urge Safety

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP)—The nation's governors have been urged to take drastic, emergency measures to cut the traffic toll over the New Year's weekend.

The action was asked yesterday by the National Safety Council in view of the record toll of 609 traffic deaths over the Christmas weekend.

The governors were asked to "use every resource at your command to step up traffic enforcement in your state over the holiday."

THE COUNCIL predicted 420 persons will be killed in traffic mishaps Friday night, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. That would be a record toll for a New Year holiday period.

The council had forecast a toll of 560 for the three-day Christ-

To Propose 10-Year Aid

Friendly Nations Are Considered in Program

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration was said today to be planning to ask Congress for authority to commit the United States to a 10-year program of economic aid to friendly nations.

The sum for any country would vary, depending on the size of the project to be backed. A maximum ranging from half a billion to a billion dollars is being considered, with the money to be parceled out in annual installments.

SUCH A REQUEST would be virtually certain to stir up new opposition among members of Congress already critical of the administration's plan to boost its 1956 request for new foreign aid funds to nearly five billion dollars. Congress voted $2,700,000,000 this year.

Without reference to the new long-term commitment the administration is reported to want, Sen. George (D.-Ga.) said today he believes "there will have to be a very serious reappraisal" by Congress of the foreign aid situation.

George, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, told newsmen in reply to a question that "sentiment has been growing in Congress to trim economic aid way down" since many free world countries, particularly in Europe, have shown excellent economic progress.

BROADLY SPEAKING, there has been considerably more opposition in Congress to continued assistance for economic purposes than to that for arms.

In the past Congress has normally insisted that economic aid be granted strictly on a year-to-year basis, without any long term commitments. One reason for this stand is the argument that one Congress cannot bind a succeeding one to any specific course of action.

Strike Time Loss Is Up 24 Per Cent

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Labor Department estimated today that 4,200 strikes caused 28 million man-days of idleness in 1955.

The number of work stoppages was 21 per cent greater than the 3,468 reported in 1954. Lost time in 1955 was nearly 24 per cent more than last year.

THE REVIEW noted that while idleness this year exceeded 1954, it was the third best year since the end of World War 2. The number of strikes in 1955 was about 20 per cent less than the postwar peak of 5,117 stoppages recorded in 1952.

Approximately 2¾ million workers were involved in the 1955 stoppages, nearly 80 per cent more than the 1,530,000 in 1954. The department said a substantial part of the increase resulted from one or two-day work stoppages in the steel and automobile industries at the time of contract negotiations.

The 1955 estimates were given in a preliminary review of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

PARTLY as a result of long-term agreements expiring during this year, the number of work stoppages involving 10,000

Railroad Loses Its Appeal On Binnewater Crossing

Back in February, 1949 the New York Central Railroad built a barrier over a crossing on the Wallkill Valley branch line at Binnewater which had been used as a route to Williams Lake and to bungalows owned by numerous persons on the lake, shutting that route to the premises.

Owners of property who had been using the railroad crossing for many years brought an action in Supreme Court seeking an injunction to enjoin the railroad from closing the crossing and to restore its use.

That action, brought by N. LeVan Haver as attorney for the plaintiffs, and defended on the part of the railroad by H. H. Flemming and later Connelly and Connelly, was finally tried before Christopher H. Heffernan, official referee.

Science Teacher Shortage Weakens Nation's Defense

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

Atlanta, Dec. 29 (AP) — A big weakness in national defense and a better future may well be in your own home town and high school, scientists said today.

They said the nation is suffering a critical shortage of scientists, stemming greatly from a crucial shortage of science teachers, especially in high schools.

Russia is graduating twice as many technical specialists in some fields as we are, said Dr. Alan T. Walterman, director of the National Science Foundation, at Washington, D. C.

Science more and more is building the defenses and weapons of war, and leading peacetime progress, he and other scientists told a symposium of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

The need for scientists is far outstripping supply, and the demand for science teachers who can teach students and direct them into science careers is critical, Dr. Waterman said.

Good teachers often are underpaid, leave for better jobs in industry, of are simply unavailable, he said.

Each local community can best take action to fill the gap, he said.

Only one-fifth of the teachers needed in science are coming each year from colleges, he said And one-fourth of high schools don't even offer courses in either physics or chemistry. The need for physicists and chemists is especially great, and so is the need for men and women to fill jobs in the expanding age of electronics and atomic energy.

Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, director of the Scientific Manpower Commission at Washington, said a survey in 1954 showed that schools in 30 states needed 1,810 mathematic teachers that year, but only 1,065 were obtained. Some math courses had to be taught by music teachers or athletic directors in high schools.

Belief that science courses are tough or dull, or that taking science makes you scorned as a "brain," are some reasons why high school students shy from science courses said Dr. Meyerhoff and Dr. Paul Klopsteg of the National Science Foundation.

McDonald Quits Revenue Post to Join Tax Firm

Philip F. McDonald, former division chief of the local U. S. Internal Revenue Service, has resigned to enter the practice of public accounting and tax consultants in association with James V. Geary, 296 Wall street.

Mr. McDonald, whose resignation became effective Dec. 23, was division chief of the Kingston office for four years when it covered the counties of Ulster and Greene prior to the consolidation of the Kingston, Middletown and Newburgh offices.

He was the oldest employe in point of service in the local office, having been employed by the Internal Revenue Service for 15 years, part of which was spent in the armed services during World War 2. During his army service, Mr. McDonald was assigned to the finance instructor's staff, Army Finance School, Fort Harrison, Ind.

Fraternally Mr. McDonald, a former star athlete at Kingston High School in the late twenties, is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Kingston Archery Club, American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, St. Joseph's Holy Name Society and the Phoenicia Fish and Game Association. He is a member of the Boy Scout committee of St. Joseph's Church.

Mr. McDonald established a considerable reputation in football, basketball and track while at Kingston High School and was All-DUSO tackle in 1928. He later played with a semi-pro football team, the Yellow Jackets, well-known throughout the Hudson valley and the east.

He is married to the former Lucille O'Milion of Hartford, Conn., and they have four children. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald make their home at 307 Main street.

Mr. Geary, with whom Mr. McDonald will be associated, is also a former employe of the Internal Revenue Service.

TIME OUT FOR DIPLOMACY—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles puts aside government duties to blow up a balloon in the diplomatic reception room in Washington, Dec. 28. Joining him in the balloon blowing is six-year-old Marie Pamela Hunt of Washington, who had polio when she was seven months old. The occasion is the launching of the 1956 "March of Dimes" campaign to aid polio victims. (AP Wirephoto)

To Propose 10-Year Aid

Friendly Nations Are Considered in Program

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration was said today to be planning to ask Congress for authority to commit the United States to a 10-year program of economic aid to friendly nations.

The sum for any country would vary, depending on the size of the project to be backed. A maximum ranging from half a billion to a billion dollars is being considered, with the money to be parceled out in annual installments.

SUCH A REQUEST would be virtually certain to stir up new opposition among members of Congress already critical of the administration's plan to boost its 1956 request for new foreign aid funds to nearly five billion dollars. Congress voted $2,700,000,000 this year.

Without reference to the new long-term commitment the administration is reported to want, Sen. George (D.-Ga.) said today he believes "there will have to be a very serious reappraisal" by Congress of the foreign aid situation.

George, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, told newsmen in reply to a question that "sentiment has been growing in Congress to trim economic aid way down" since many free world countries, particularly in Europe, have shown excellent economic progress.

BROADLY SPEAKING, there has been considerably more opposition in Congress to continued assistance for economic purposes than to that for arms.

In the past Congress has normally insisted that economic aid be granted strictly on a year-to-year basis, without any long term commitments. One reason for this stand is the argument that one Congress cannot bind a succeeding one to any specific course of action.

Strike Time Loss Is Up 24 Per Cent

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Labor Department estimated today that 4,200 strikes caused 28 million man-days of idleness in 1955.

The number of work stoppages was 21 per cent greater than the 3,468 reported in 1954. Lost time in 1955 was nearly 24 per cent more than last year.

THE REVIEW noted that while idleness this year exceeded 1954, it was the third best year since the end of World War 2. The number of strikes in 1955 was about 20 per cent less than the postwar peak of 5,117 stoppages recorded in 1952.

Approximately 2¾ million workers were involved in the 1955 stoppages, nearly 80 per cent more than the 1,530,000 in 1954. The department said a substantial part of the increase resulted from one or two-day work stoppages in the steel and automobile industries at the time of contract negotiations.

The 1955 estimates were given in a preliminary review of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

PARTLY as a result of long-term agreements expiring during this year, the number of work stoppages involving 10,000

Science Teacher Shortage Weakens Nation's Defense

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

Atlanta, Dec. 29 (AP) — A big weakness in national defense and a better future may well be in your own home town and high school, scientists said today.

They said the nation is suffering a critical shortage of scientists, stemming greatly from a crucial shortage of science teachers, especially in high schools.

Russia is graduating twice as many technical specialists in some fields as we are, said Dr. Alan T. Walterman, director of the National Science Foundation, at Washington, D. C.

Science more and more is building the defenses and weapons of war, and leading peacetime progress, he and other scientists told a symposium of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

The need for scientists is far outstripping supply, and the demand for science teachers who can teach students and direct them into science careers is critical, Dr. Waterman said.

Good teachers often are underpaid, leave for better jobs in industry, of are simply unavailable, he said.

Each local community can best take action to fill the gap, he said.

Only one-fifth of the teachers needed in science are coming each year from colleges, he said And one-fourth of high schools don't even offer courses in either physics or chemistry. The need for physicists and chemists is especially great, and so is the need for men and women to fill jobs in the expanding age of electronics and atomic energy.

Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, director of the Scientific Manpower Commission at Washington, said a survey in 1954 showed that schools in 30 states needed 1,810 mathematic teachers that year, but only 1,065 were obtained. Some math courses had to be taught by music teachers or athletic directors in high schools.

Belief that science courses are tough or dull, or that taking science makes you scorned as a "brain," are some reasons why high school students shy from science courses said Dr. Meyerhoff and Dr. Paul Klopsteg of the National Science Foundation.

McDonald Quits Revenue Post to Join Tax Firm

Philip F. McDonald, former division chief of the local U. S. Internal Revenue Service, has resigned to enter the practice of public accounting and tax consultants in association with James V. Geary, 296 Wall street.

Mr. McDonald, whose resignation became effective Dec. 23, was division chief of the Kingston office for four years when it covered the counties of Ulster and Greene prior to the consolidation of the Kingston, Middletown and Newburgh offices.

He was the oldest employe in point of service in the local office, having been employed by the Internal Revenue Service for 15 years, part of which was spent in the armed services during World War 2. During his army service, Mr. McDonald was assigned to the finance instructor's staff, Army Finance School, Fort Harrison, Ind.

Fraternally Mr. McDonald, a former star athlete at Kingston High School in the late twenties, is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Kingston Archery Club, American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, St. Joseph's Holy Name Society and the Phoenicia Fish and Game Association. He is a member of the Boy Scout committee of St. Joseph's Church.

Mr. McDonald established a considerable reputation in football, basketball and track while at Kingston High School and was All-DUSO tackle in 1928. He later played with a semi-pro football team, the Yellow Jackets, well-known throughout the Hudson valley and the east.

He is married to the former Lucille O'Milion of Hartford, Conn., and they have four children. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald make their home at 307 Main street.

Mr. Geary, with whom Mr. McDonald will be associated, is also a former employe of the Internal Revenue Service.

'Hole' Secret of Good Time Is Found in the Doughnut

SOMETHING TO CHEER ABOUT—doughnuts, served with a hot drink. You don't have to wait until next Halloween for this treat.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

During this holiday season, teen-agers home from school on vacation like to meet their friends at informal get-togethers—which lead to the subject of doughnuts.

Every young person welcomes doughnuts—either plain, sugared or frosted. And certainly they make things easy—nearly every food store now carries good ones.

Pile them high on a platter. Serve lots of hot coffee—and let the crowd dunk to their heart's content.

Cider, of course, is welcome at a doughnut party. So is hot chocolate. If you want a fancier way to use doughnuts, try this recipe.

Maple Puff

One tablespoon unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup hot milk, 2 eggs, separated; 1 cup maple syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup chopped nuts, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Soak gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. Add hot milk to slightly beaten egg yolks and cook over low heat until mixture thickens slightly, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and add softened gelatin. Stir until thoroughly dissolved. Add maple syrup, salt and vanilla. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into cooled mixture.

Add chopped nuts. Pour into mold. Chill. As mixture begins to congeal, pour into individual serving dishes over cut up doughnuts.

Serve with whipped cream.

Stolen Whitman Diary Returned

Detroit, Dec. 29 (AP) — The $25,000 Walt Whitman manuscript diary, stolen from a Detroit public library exhibit last March 4, was returned mysteriously by mail today.

Ralph A. Ulveling, library director, said the valuable diary, owned by Charles M. Feinberg of Detroit, was returned to the main library in a plain brown manila envelope. It was postmarked yesterday from suburban St. Clair Shores.

ULVELING said an unsigned note was stuck between the pages. It read:

"Dear Sir,

"This book was not stolen. I am sorry I didn't return it sooner."

The library director said the book was in "good condition."

Feinberg, a Detroit oil executive, reportedly owns the world's largest collection of the works of the noted American poet of the last century. He had loaned the manuscript to the library for an exhibit marking the centennial of the publication of Whitman's poem "Leaves of Grass."

THE DIARY, which covers the years of Whitman's life from 1876 to 1889, is entitled "Commonplace Book." Feinberg said its main value was as source material for scholars.

It was taken from an exhibit case while on public display for the first time.

"Isn't this a fine Christmas present," Feinberg said when informed of the book's recovery.

Handyman Admits Slaying Woman, 33

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Gordon Garvin, a handyman, has admitted killing a 33-year-old French-born woman two weeks ago, police announced, and has been charged with homicide.

Garvin, a 31-year-old Negro, was questioned almost daily about the killing of Mrs. Arlette Collins, police reported. Detective Edward McLean announced last night that the man admitted killing her with a knife and a hammer.

Mrs. Collins' body was discovered by her husband, Frank, 34, a bookkeeper crippled by polio. Clad in a negligee, she was lying on the floor of their Brooklyn apartment with her throat slashed.

Collins, who won five battle stars while serving in the artillery in World War 2, met his wife, a war bride, in Paris in 1946. He was stricken by polio four years ago and now uses crutches.

Gales Lash Britain

London, Dec. 29 (AP)—Savage gales with gusts up to 70 miles an hour lashed the British Isles today, halting ocean liners and sending little ships scuttling for shelter. Blasting winds across the Yorkshire moors overturned a number of trucks and uprooted trees. The roof of a house was blown off in York City. In Bootle, Lancashire, a building previously damaged by fire was blown down, narrowly missing a policeman. Torrential rains caused big traffic tieups in the same county.

Maid of Cotton

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 29 (AP)—A green-eyed private secretary from Raleigh, N. C., was named the 1956 maid of cotton last night. Patricia Anne Cowden, Miss Raleigh of 1955, is 21, 5-7, weighs 125 and has brown hair. She was chosen over 22 other beauties from 13 cotton producing states. The seven judges in the nation's most sedate beauty contest selected Revis Jordan of Lubbock, Texas, first alternate, and another Texan, Minta Curtis of Mission, second. Miss Cowden was selected after two days of public appearance, individual interviews and last night's contest. She succeeds De Lois Faulkner of Sallisaw, Okla.

Poll Says Stevenson Party Choice for 1956 Nomination

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—An overwhelming majority of Democratic leaders believe Adlai Stevenson is now the best bet to win their party's presidential nomination again in 1956.

The Associated Press today toted up the results of a poll of 126 Democratic governors, state chairmen and members of the party's national committee.

THE DEMOCRATS were asked:

"Whom do you consider the leading candidate, in your state, for the presidential nomination?"

Their replies were broken down this way:

Stevenson	76
Kefauver	5
Lausche	3
Harriman	3
Others, or no comment	39

Yes the poll isn't as one-sided as it might seem.

SOME WHO voted for Stevenson stressed that his margin is so slight it may vanish before the convention is held in August.

At least five politicians couldn't make up their minds, and decided the race was a toss-up between Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, an "inactive" candidate so far, got but three votes. One of these was from Carmine G. DeSapio, who, as a national committeeman and chief of Tammny Hall, should have considerable to say about how New York's 96 votes are cast in the convention.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, running both as a favorite son and for the U. S. Senate, picked up a home vote, plus one from Massachusetts and one from Texas.

OTHERS mentioned as presidential possibilities:

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

If the politicians are right, the 1956 race will be a replay of 1952, with Stevenson, the former governor of Illinois, against President Eisenhower, the former general of the army.

Yesterday, in a similar poll of Republicans, the question was asked: Will Eisenhower run again? Their answer, by a big majority, was yes.

SOME SAMPLES of Stevenson's support:

Jack Toole, chairman of the Montana state committee: "I have just finished a tour of the state and I find that Adlai Stevenson is the most popular man right now."

Tom E. Brown, speaking as an individual and not as the New Mexico chairman: "Stevenson is so far out in front that others don't have a look-in in New Mexico."

Monroe Sweetland, Oregon national committeeman: "Stevenson will be nominated on the first ballot."

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine: "I personally lean toward Stevenson."

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia: "I would say Stevenson first and Lausche second and don't even classify the other two"—That is, Kefauver and Harriman.

HERE'S HOW some of the split verdicts looked:

Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma: "I believe it is a tossup in Oklahoma right now between Stevenson and Harriman with Harriman on the gain. Kefauver has some pretty strong support, too."

Ward Clark, South Dakota chairman: "It's a tossup between Stevenson and Kefauver with Stevenson gaining."

Mrs. Inez Scholl, Indiana national committeewoman: "Those I've talked to think it's very even in Indiana between Stevenson, Kefauver and Harriman."

AND THIS is what they're saying about the other candidates:

Mrs. Myrtle McIntyre, New Hampshire national committeewoman: "I don't think anybody can touch Kefauver in New Hampshire."

George Sandlin, Texas state chairman: "Lausche has a slight edge now on Stevenson, with Kefauver third, Harriman fourth."

Michael H. Prendergast, New York state chairman: "The party has many good men and we're proud of them, but I'm convinced that the governor (Harriman) is in the front rank."

AND DOWN in West Point, Miss., Tom Tubb, the state chairman, pondered the question and said:

"Out of that crew (Kefauver, Stevenson, Harriman or Lausche), Stevenson would be the strongest. But I don't think any of them would be the Democratic choice."

Tubb's prediction:

"I sort of look for Sen. Lyndon Johnson or Sen. Richard Russell. Lightning can strike, you know."

POLITICAL FOOTBALL

It is a serious matter when the American farm economy is disturbed. There is no need to detail the important goods and services delivered by those who make their living in agriculture. The very fact of the importance of the farm problem should preclude its being used as a political football. Unfortunately, however, both parties have demonstrated a great willingness to kick it around.

In a two-party political system such as ours bitter fights on big issues are inevitable and healthy. It is on the basic differences between the two parties that the voter must decide. Yet some matters are too important for partisanship in the strict sense of the word. Agriculture's problem calls for Democrats and Republicans to put aside differences and aspirations for the next election and concentrate on how to solve the problem for the next generation.

It is simple to take stands and then prove that you are right by arguments. One clever speaker can make high price supports sound like the ideal answer while another, equally clever, can prove that the cause of the problem is the price support program itself. But arguments and campaign speeches do not solve the farm problem.

In time of war both parties manage to bury differences for the time of emergency and work together for victory. Only the same kind of bipartisan approach with an eye to what is good for the country instead of good for a particular party, can deal effectively with the farm question.

PERSONAL PEACE EFFORT

Americans are all hopeful that the world is approaching a period of international peace when nations can live together without war and bloodshed. But peace is more than the absence of war or the stilling of its noises. Peace is a thing within a man that lets him move in harmony among his neighbors—the ones who live on the same street as well as the ones who live across the oceans.

An individual can do a great deal to promote peace in his own neighborhood. He can refuse to listen to malicious gossip, he can be tolerant of the mistakes and follies of the people he meets and does business with, he can make his life an example of the effectiveness of the religious faith he professes.

Diplomats assemble in the capitals of the world to discuss international peace. We pray for their success. At the same time it is well to realize our responsibility for bringing peace into our own lives and into the lives of those around us.

SUPER-INVENTOR

The government has received from the Edison family a deed to the land and buildings of the Edison laboratory at West Orange, N. J. Next year it will obtain title to the contents of the laboratory. Then it will become a national monument operated by the National Park Service.

Edison's many inventions include a transmitter and receiver for the automatic telegraph, an improved stock-ticker system, the first successful phonograph, the first commercially practical incandescent lamp, with a complete system of electricity distribution to go with it. He developed the first central electric-light power plant in the world.

He synchronized the moving picture with sound, produced a superior storage battery and was the author of inventions which could be listed almost indefinitely. He held over 1,300 patents. It is no wonder that when he died in 1931, he was already an American legend.

When the necessary 25 years after his death have elapsed, he will undoubtedly be elected to the Hall of Fame. But it is likely to be many more years than that before there is another Edison.

Why boil with envy of the neighbor who turns out neat tricks from his home workshop? Get busy, and show him some competition.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

VISAS AND PASSPORTS

If somebody like Paul Robeson cannot get a passport, or if an alien like the Red Dean of Canterbury cannot get a visa, a terrific fuss is made on the subject and it is even written:

"The effect is not only to discourage persons in these countries from visiting the United States, but to discourage from visiting us those very persons who may be best qualified to dispel the misconceptions and fastastic notions about the United States which have been inspired unconsciously by visiting service men and Hollywood and consciously by the Communists and their fellow-travelers."

For the fiscal year 1955, 689,674 immigrants and visitors received visas and 473,703 passports were issued during the first 10 months. Only 401 persons were refused passports for other than the fact that they did not fill out their applications completely and accurately. Of the 401, 13 were refused passports because they are Communists and six because they are engaged in political activities which abroad would be harmful to the United States. The largest number of rejections, 300, were over citizenship, that is, their American citizenship is in doubt or does not exist.

Non-quota visas, issued under the Refuge Relief Act, amounting to 52,072, show an increase up to December 9, 1955.

In all these matters, an element of reciprocity must be considered. For instance, visas have been extended from two to four years when there is reciprocity by the other country. There is no reason why the United States should offer benefits which other countries refuse for Americans.

Immigration to the United States has been on the constant increase since the end of World War II. For instance, in 1946, 337,388 immigrants of all kinds entered this country; for the fiscal year 1955, this figure has reached 689,674. Since World War II, from 1946 through 1955, 5,254,634 persons have entered the United States as visitors or immigrants. Of this number 1,994,828 were either quota or non-quota immigrants. The argument therefore that this country has set up a star-spangled curtain is untenable from the figures.

It is interesting to note that few of the quotas are filled. For instance, Austria, which has a quota of 1,405, sent only 731 immigrants; Italy comes closest to filling its quota of 5,645 by sending 5,093 immigrants. However, Italy sent 7,523 non-quota immigrants, making a total for the fiscal year 1955 of 12,616 immigrants altogether. Soviet Russia has a quota of 2,697 and sent 1,245 quota immigrants and 143 non-quota. It does not say how these immigrants actually got out of Russia.

Many reasons exist for not issuing passports, apart from those already stated; namely, mentally ill, likely to become public charges, habitual criminals, refugees from justice, etc. Cleaning up the passports at the American end serves American citizens because since we are strict, such countries as Great Britain, France, Spain and an increasing number of other countries accept the American passport at face value and do not require a visa. About 500,000 Americans travel abroad every year and this is a convenience for them. If Judge Luther Youngdahl's decision is to prevail, the Passport Office will do no investigating but will become merely an office of issue and the American passport will lost its value almost of a guarantee of fitness to enter another country. At any rate, it is to be presumed that the reason that visas are waived is that other countries do not care who comes into them which is untenable.

There are the passport and visa facts and figures, formally issued by Scott McLeod of the State Department. It is from these figures that any arguments on the subject must arise rather than on emotional reactions to the miseries of the rest of the world. For obviously, it is impossible for the United States to absorb all who are weary and heavy-laden. We could neither feed nor house them. How to restrict the flow to the United States is a debatable question. Some believe in greater restrictions; others in less restriction. Some would temper rigidity of of administration by a more merciful attitude; others fear a dilution of our civilization by the increased admission of persons from other types of civilizations.

All these are arguable positions but the assumption that restrictions at present are stiff or inhumane cannot be established by figures.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CANCER OF THE LUNG

The increased frequency of cancer of the lung represents one of the most pressing problems in modern medical practice. It is certainly clear that in males, at least, there is a striking and steady rise in the number of cases of bronchogenic carcinoma (cancer of the lung). Statisticians have predicted that if the rate of increase shown during the past 20 years should continue for the next 20 years, we would be faced with a real national disaster.

We hear a good deal about the cause of this increase and there is much speculation. All of you, I am sure, are reading about filtered and unfiltered cigarettes, about pollution of the atmosphere, and many theories as to why this increase has occurred. While we are trying to find the cause of this increase, while we are exerting every effort toward prevention, something must be done to salvage those who are now affected and the many who will be affected in the future by this almost uniformly fatal disease. There is at present one cure—surgery. The chances for its success depend in large part on early detection and rapid identification.

Thus, Dr. Leo Rigler, Professor of Radiology at the University of Minnesota Medical School, tells us that for some years he and his associates have been investigating what might be called the past X-ray history of persons known to have cancer of the lung. Examination of chest films made for other reasons than a suspected cancer or during a routine chest survey revealed that carcinoma of the lung is a relatively indolent (causing no pain) tumor more frequently than not—that it may go on, in fact, for a number of years. "In our series, an average of well over two years elapse from the time the first evidences are seen on the X-ray before it is positively identified or anything is done about it. We have also found that carcinoma of the lung exhibits signs in the X-ray film of the chest on an average of nine months or longer before the patient is aware of first symptoms."

Dr. Rigler gives an example of a woman who had cancer of the breast. This was removed and X-rays were taken of the chest to see whether or not the cancer had spread there. These films were taken in 1944 and 1945 and nothing abnormal was observed. In 1946 there appeared for the first time a tiny nodule or density (less than a quarter of an inch in diameter) which was not observed at the time. From 1946 to 1950 there were no X-ray examinations. In 1950, a larger, much more apparent shadow was seen in the same place. In 1951 and 1952 it gradually increased and she was advised to have operation but refused. It was not until 1953, seven years after the first visible X-ray evidence of disease, that she began to have symptoms — cough, spitting of blood, pain and loss of weight.

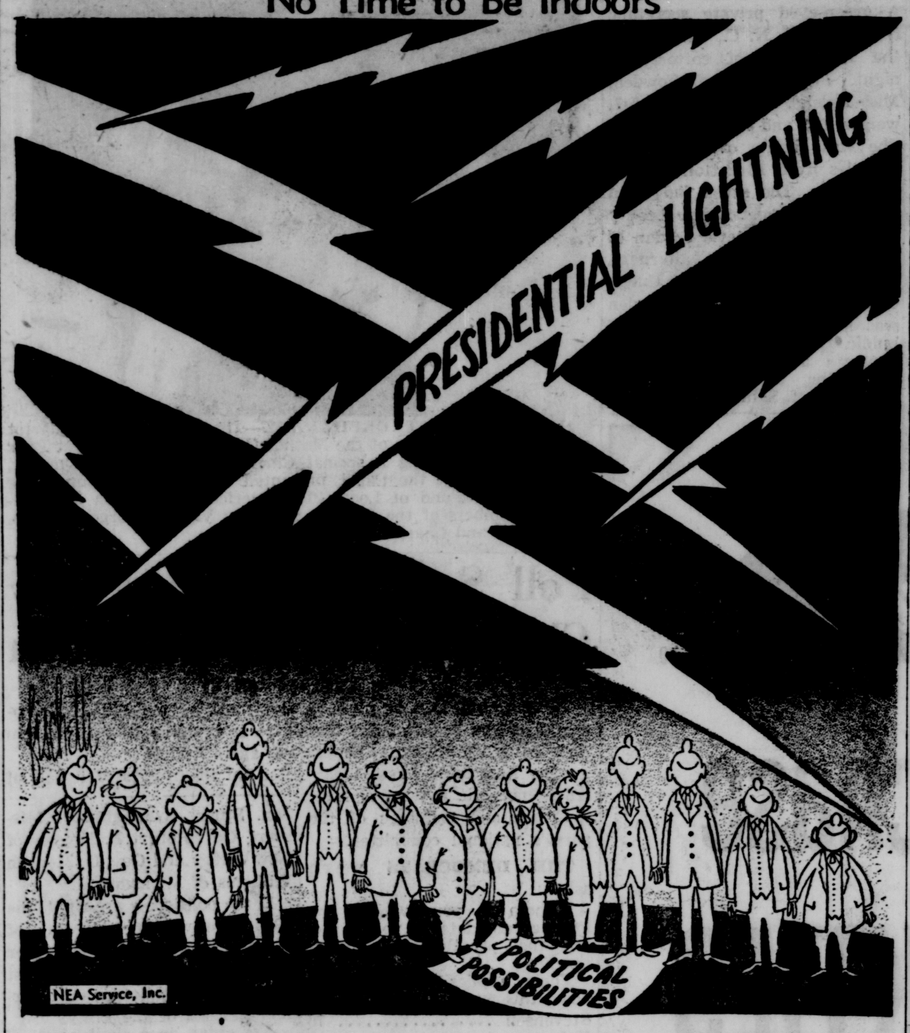

The intense research into the cause or causes of cancer is still being carried out all over the world but in the meantime something must be done for those who already have this disease. Early recognition of cancer of the lung by means of X-ray films means that the patient has a better chance of survival than if he waits until he actually has symptoms.

No Time to Be Indoors

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington —(NEA)— Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom's first press conference—after nearly five months on the job—was in marked contrast to what went on in his department before.

A short prepared announcement was handed out. It summarized what the secretary wanted to say about expanding government programs for aid to medical research next year. But Mr. Folsom assumed the correspondents could read, se he didn't bother to recite it aloud to them.

There were no charts and no elaborate presentations. The secretary sat slumped in his chair, perfectly relaxed and fielded all questions tossed at him. Nothing was barred. He knew all the answers himself and he didn't have to refer tough questions to underlings.

The huge battery of assistant secretaries, counsel and assorted bureaucrats who used to flank former Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby were scattered inconspicuously in the back of the big conference room like mere kibitzers.

AT ONE POINT, Secretary Folsom was asked if he would reaapoint Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele as head of the Public Health Service.

Instead of stalling and thus letting ugly rumors spread, Secretary Folsom said simply that he had found Dr. Scheele able and doing a good job. When his term expired in the spring he would be glad to recommend his reappointment.

Then spotting Dr. Scheele in the back of the room for the first time, Secretary Folsom blushed a rosy red and said with a smile that he hadn't realized he had been talking about the surgeon general in his presence. Scheele took it with a satisfied grin.

Practically all of the national health funds which Secretary Folsom said he would ask the next Congress for will be administered by the surgeon general's office.

Public Health Service research grants will be increased by from 25 to 30 per cent—from 97 million dollars this year to an estimated 125 million dollars for next year.

SECRETARY FOLSOM'S announcement brings into focus what the federal government is already doing in the health field.

It so happens that the Washington office of the American Medical Assn. recently ran a complete check on federal medical spending. It revealed a total outlay of $2,268,800,000 for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1956.

The two largest outlays are 818 million dollars for Department of Defense medical services and 790 million dollars for Veteran's Administration medical care.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare ranks third with a health budget of 526 million dollars for this year. It covers 112 million dollars for hospital construction. Other major items include disease control, research, rehabilitation, the polio program, Food and Drug administration and grants to states for public health.

IN ADDITION to these three big programs, 20 other government agencies spend a total of 131 million dollars on health.

They range from the 30-million-dollar civil defense program down to $130,000 for the President's Commission on Aid for the Handicapped.

The nation's private medical expenses are estimated by Secretary Folsom at 10 billion dollars a year. So the government health services are already costing a fourth of that amount.

When people express concern over the increasing role of government in medical practice, they already have a sizable pimple to complain about.

Tax Reduction Seen Leading To Rise in U.S. Borrowing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 29 — Will Congress vote to borrow money to pay for a reduction in taxes?

This is the biggest question that the 1956 session may have to answer unless there's a windfall in tax receipts and a sudden lessening of international tension so as to permit a curtailment of arms spending.

Politically, it isn't in the cards for members of Congress in prosperous times to vote for a tax reduction in disregard of the fact that there isn't enough revenue being taken in to offset it. The demand for tax reduction is strongest when there's a depression or recession, and the reason given is that it assists in creating purchasing power. This was the point made by Democratic leaders early in 1954, when attention was being called to a rise in unemployment figures, which has since subsided.

THROUGHOUT THE Truman administration, the favorite argument against tax reduction was that in good times the budget must be balanced. Hence, it is certain that the Democratic party in Congress is going to divide on the issue, as will the Republicans. A majority in both Houses against tax reduction would, therefore, be the result of a coalition of responsible members voting against an irresponsible group.

Some idea of the dangers involved in careless handling of the tax-reduction question can be gained by noting that, to increase the individual personal exemption from $600 to $700 would cost the treasury about $2,400,000,000 a year in revenue. Yet the increase in exemption would result in a net benefit to each family in actual tax savings of only about $40 or $50. While there are many needy families to which such a saving might appeal, there are many millions of voters who could be injured by the unbalancing of the Federal budget by $2,400,000,000.

FOR SUCH A deficit would be taken as a signal that inflation has come back to plague the entire economy. Prices would begin to rise, and far more than $50 per taxpayer would have to be paid out to meet the higher costs of things bought in the marketplace.

Inflation is the disease which today threatens the economy of the whole world. European nations are struggling against it, particularly Great Britain, and some progress is being made in the battle. But if America turns to inflation, serious consequences will ensue in the trade between nations. The cost of things bought by Europeans from America would naturally rise. Eventually purchases by foreign nations would be curtailed, and unemployment might begin to show itself in various industries in this country.

IT IS SCARCELY conceivable that the Democratic leadership will wish to take the responsibility for starting another wave of inflation. What is more likely is that there will be pressure for various tax-reduction bills to be passed, with the hope that a presidential veto will kill the idea itself and place on the Republicans the blame for refusing tax reduction. This type of "pop-gun" measure is a device frequently used in Congressional politics. But it is doubtful whether, with the widespread understanding of the dangers of an unbalanced budget and the consequences of inflation, the voters will be inclined to penalize the party in power for exhibiting courage and common sense in rejecting irresponsible legislation.

The Eisenhower administration is not expected to reveal its hand on taxes in the "state of the union" message next month, preferring to wait till April 15, when tax receipts from the exceedingly prosperous year 1955 will in large part have been collected.

THE MOST important reason for not cutting taxes which the administration can give, if the tax receipts are not adequate, is that arms spending and foreign aid must be stepped up to insure a continuance of peace. It now is rather generally understood by the American people that the threat by Communist imperialism has not been lessened despite the heroic effort at conciliation made last summer at Geneva by President Eisenhower.

There is less danger politically in opposing tax reduction than there would be normally. Since, therefore, there are sound financial, economic, international and military reasons for withholding a tax reduction in the face of an unbalanced budget, the chances of enacting any tax legislation affecting taxpayers generally are rather remote.

What is more important to the voter is the prospect of increased income in 1956 due to increased compensation either through the usual improvements of the wage scale or through overtime work. The total take-home pay in 1956 is expected to increase materially despite any omission of tax reduction.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Although Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vt., was thrown into two mad-houses and a New York jail by order of the federal government, her letters describing her experiences reveal unusual literary ability.

Of course a maniac may have rational moments and Mrs. Miller's enemies may invoke that fact to reject the evidence of her letters. However, in view of the great interest recently shown by press and public in the revelations of a young woman student who served as jailer in the New York Women's House of Detention, Mrs. Miller's description of her one night there last May 4 commends itself to public attention. Mrs. Miller was locked up there during an automobile trip from Rutland to Washington, D. C., after federal deputy marshals had driven her and her husband, Manuel, out of their modest Green Mountain home with a tear-gas attack in the night.

Lucille wrote Manuel as follows: "The woman in charge was a stately colored woman. She confiscated my peppermints but gave me back my comb. Then I had a shower to wash the last of the tear-gas off. They handed me two blankets, two sheets, one pillow case, one bag which turned out to be a nightgown and one towel. They took me to the fifth floor.

"The officer, a colored woman, took me into the dining room. All the people had left except a little colored girl and a young white girl, who looked like a country girl, at a small table. As the officer was passing me a tin plate the whole business fell into a chair and splattered. She scooped it up. She said 'I'll get you another,' and cleaned off the table with toilet paper. The stew was fine. The little colored girl asked me my name and 'what you did?' I explained about opposing the draft in peacetime. The white girl eagerly agreed that no one should be forced to go soldiering in peacetime. Probably has a boy friend or brother. Then they fell to discussing Topic A—bail. I did not inquire about their offenses.

"Each was supposed to wash her own plate. The girls ran the water lukewarm because the tin plates were hard to handle when washed in hot water. The grease on the dishes had been defying the lukewarm drizzle a long time. The officer rushed me and my bedding roll into a single cell about 6 by 9. There was a clean little wash bowl but the faucet was set so it couldn't be drunk out of. I asked for a cup, the officer said 'no.' There was nothing to do but 'blip' a drink. My thirst was such that I was sure there had been saltpetre in the stew.

"As darkness fell, the prisoners, who had been running and hooting wildly, were penned in. It was hard to keep the sheets from sliding off the slippery fake-leather mattress. Suddenly there was a great jingling of keys and clanging of gates and the officer shouted 'put her in with that solitary.' My cell door opened, a cot was thrust in and, after it, a skinny, dejected colored girl. There was only two inches between our cots. She had a broken jaw from jumping out a window because her husband bled so from the razor slash she gave him. Johnny Mae had a bad night because we had no pillows for her jaw and I had a thirsty night because I couldn't get to the water without stepping on her.

"My poor little fellow-prisoner was so gentle and miserable that I forgot my thirst in consideration of her woes. In the hospital they had knocked out two teeth so they could feed her. I knew they had pillows because people had been demanding them and getting them earlier. I said I would ask for one but Johnny Mae begged me not to because 'they'll take it out of my hide and I have to be here another week.' She felt cold and her sheet kept falling on the floor faster than I could pick it up. She would turn over on her sore jaw and yell in anguish.

"There was a melee of sounds —strange bangings and whacks. Somebody started crying in great, gusty sobs. Somebody else started going 'ho-hum!' then somebody yelled "stop eet!' one of the Porto Ricans. An officer came striding down. 'Whassamattah?' the stop eet girl said the old lady in the cell with her was washing her face in the toilet. The officer said 'Well, whaddaya know?' senorita stop eet kept scolding and in this clamor came the dawn. All picked up shouting and hollering where they had left off. I have been in one booby-hatch, one jail and several zoos and I have never heard anything like it.

"Whoops, hoots and goat-cries. There were from 85 to 90 Negroes and ten white women. The friends of Johnny Mae would say 'how come you get put in this single cell with her?' But Johnny Mae would say, 'ah dunno, but she's all right; she was real nice to me.' Their puzzled frowns would be replaced by toothy smiles. They offered me cigarettes. A tall Mexican girl from California said she was a federal case—forgery. She said 'you're the one I read about! She expressed urbane indifference concerning my cause but indignation at the commitment of St. Elizabeth's. 'I knew a girl who was put there,' she said. 'God it's hell.'

"The old lady who washed her face in the toilet was a pathetic, tiny creature. She had lived in alleys and on park benches for weeks and was in for vagrancy. The assistant supervisor seemed a little alarmed at the trend of our conversations. She was a brownskin girl of dignity and presence and obviously was working up to an executive career in welfare. I said these were matters of public interest and I represented the public. She said, 'don't we all?'

"They came and got me and I waved good-bye to Johnny Mae."

Rail Income Off $136,965 From 1954

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 29 (AP)—The New Haven Railroad reported today its net income of $867,065 last month was $136,965 less than for a similar period a year ago, mainly because of increased charges and taxes.

The net income for the first 11 months of 1955 was $9,275,497. This compares with net income of $5,269,776 in 1954 between Jan. 1 and Nov. 30.

The figures do not include damage costs stemming from the August and October floods. The New Haven Railroad has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to charge nearly all these costs to profit and loss.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL

It is a serious matter when the American farm economy is disturbed. There is no need to detail the important goods and services delivered by those who make their living in agriculture. The very fact of the importance of the farm problem should preclude its being used as a political football. Unfortunately, however, both parties have demonstrated a great willingness to kick it around.

In a two-party political system such as ours bitter fights on big issues are inevitable and healthy. It is on the basic differences between the two parties that the voter must decide. Yet some matters are too important for partisanship in the strict sense of the word. Agriculture's problem calls for Democrats and Republicans to put aside differences and aspirations for the next election and concentrate on how to solve the problem for the next generation.

It is simple to take stands and then prove that you are right by arguments. One clever speaker can make high price supports sound like the ideal answer while another, equally clever, can prove that the cause of the problem is the price support program itself. But arguments and campaign speeches do not solve the farm problem.

In time of war both parties manage to bury differences for the time of emergency and work together for victory. Only the same kind of bipartisan approach with an eye to what is good for the country instead of good for a particular party, can deal effectively with the farm question.

PERSONAL PEACE EFFORT

Americans are all hopeful that the world is approaching a period of international peace when nations can live together without war and bloodshed. But peace is more than the absence of war or the stilling of its noises. Peace is a thing within a man that lets him move in harmony among his neighbors—the ones who live on the same street as well as the ones who live across the oceans.

An individual can do a great deal to promote peace in his own neighborhood. He can refuse to listen to malicious gossip, he can be tolerant of the mistakes and follies of the people he meets and does business with, he can make his life an example of the effectiveness of the religious faith he professes.

Diplomats assemble in the capitals of the world to discuss international peace. We pray for their success. At the same time it is well to realize our responsibility for bringing peace into our own lives and into the lives of those around us.

SUPER-INVENTOR

The government has received from the Edison family a deed to the land and buildings of the Edison laboratory at West Orange, N. J. Next year it will obtain title to the contents of the laboratory. Then it will become a national monument operated by the National Park Service.

Edison's many inventions include a transmitter and receiver for the automatic telegraph, an improved stock-ticker system, the first successful phonograph, the first commercially practical incandescent lamp, with a complete system of electricity distribution to go with it. He developed the first central electric-light power plant in the world.

He synchronized the moving picture with sound, produced a superior storage battery and was the author of inventions which could be listed almost indefinitely. He held over 1,300 patents. It is no wonder that when he died in 1931, he was already an American legend.

When the necessary 25 years after his death have elapsed, he will undoubtedly be elected to the Hall of Fame. But it is likely to be many more years than that before there is another Edison.

Why boil with envy of the neighbor who turns out neat tricks from his home workshop? Get busy, and show him some competition.

VISAS AND PASSPORTS

If somebody like Paul Robeson cannot get a passport, or if an alien like the Red Dean of Canterbury cannot get a visa, a terrific fuss is made on the subject and it is even written:

"The effect is not only to discourage persons in these countries from visiting the United States, but to discourage from visiting us those very persons who may be best qualified to dispel the misconceptions and fastastic notions about the United States which have been inspired unconsciously by visiting service men and Hollywood and consciously by the Communists and their fellow-travelers."

For the fiscal year 1955, 689,674 immigrants and visitors received visas and 473,703 passports were issued during the first 10 months. Only 401 persons were refused passports for other than the fact that they did not fill out their applications completely and accurately. Of the 401, 13 were refused passports because they are Communists and six because they are engaged in political activities which abroad would be harmful to the United States. The largest number of rejections, 300, were over citizenship, that is, their American citizenship is in doubt or does not exist.

Non-quota visas, issued under the Refuge Relief Act, amounting to 52,072, show an increase up to December 9, 1955.

In all these matters, an element of reciprocity must be considered. For instance, visas have been extended from two to four years when there is reciprocity by the other country. There is no reason why the United States should offer benefits which other countries refuse for Americans.

Immigration to the United States has been on the constant increase since the end of World War II. For instance, in 1946, 337,388 immigrants of all kinds entered this country; for the fiscal year 1955, this figure has reached 689,674. Since World War II, from 1946 through 1955, 5,254,634 persons have entered the United States as visitors or immigrants. Of this number 1,994,828 were either quota or non-quota immigrants. The argument therefore that this country has set up a star-spangled curtain is untenable from the figures.

It is interesting to note that few of the quotas are filled. For instance, Austria, which has a quota of 1,405, sent only 731 immigrants; Italy comes closest to filling its quota of 5,645 by sending 5,093 immigrants. However, Italy sent 7,523 non-quota immigrants, making a total for the fiscal year 1955 of 12,616 immigrants altogether. Soviet Russia has a quota of 2,697 and sent 1,245 quota immigrants and 143 non-quota. It does not say how these immigrants actually got out of Russia.

Many reasons exist for not issuing passports, apart from those already stated; namely, mentally ill, likely to become public charges, habitual criminals, refugees from justice, etc. Cleaning up the passports at the American end serves American citizens because since we are strict, such countries as Great Britain, France, Spain and an increasing number of other countries accept the American passport at face value and do not require a visa. About 500,000 Americans travel abroad every year and this is a convenience for them. If Judge Luther Youngdahl's decision is to prevail, the Passport Office will do no investigating but will become merely an office of issue and the American passport will lost its value almost of a guarantee of fitness to enter another country. At any rate, it is to be presumed that the reason that visas are waived is that other countries do not care who comes into them which is untenable.

There are the passport and visa facts and figures, formally issued by Scott McLeod of the State Department. It is from these figures that any arguments on the subject must arise rather than on emotional reactions to the miseries of the rest of the world. For obviously, it is impossible for the United States to absorb all who are weary and heavy-laden. We could neither feed nor house them. How to restrict the flow to the United States is a debatable question. Some believe in greater restrictions; others in less restriction. Some would temper rigidity of of administration by a more merciful attitude; others fear a dilution of our civilization by the increased admission of persons from other types of civilizations.

All these are arguable positions but the assumption that restrictions at present are stiff or inhumane cannot be established by figures.

CANCER OF THE LUNG

The increased frequency of cancer of the lung represents one of the most pressing problems in modern medical practice. It is certainly clear that in males, at least, there is a striking and steady rise in the number of cases of bronchogenic carcinoma (cancer of the lung). Statisticians have predicted that if the rate of increase shown during the past 20 years should continue for the next 20 years, we would be faced with a real national disaster.

We hear a good deal about the cause of this increase and there is much speculation. All of you, I am sure, are reading about filtered and unfiltered cigarettes, about pollution of the atmosphere, and many theories as to why this increase has occurred. While we are trying to find the cause of this increase, while we are exerting every effort toward prevention, something must be done to salvage those who are now affected and the many who will be affected in the future by this almost uniformly fatal disease. There is at present one cure—surgery. The chances for its success depend in large part on early detection and rapid identification.

Thus, Dr. Leo Rigler, Professor of Radiology at the University of Minnesota Medical School, tells us that for some years he and his associates have been investigating what might be called the past X-ray history of persons known to have cancer of the lung. Examination of chest films made for other reasons than a suspected cancer or during a routine chest survey revealed that carcinoma of the lung is a relatively indolent (causing no pain) tumor more frequently than not—that it may go on, in fact, for a number of years. "In our series, an average of well over two years elapse from the time the first evidences are seen on the X-ray before it is positively identified or anything is done about it. We have also found that carcinoma of the lung exhibits signs in the X-ray film of the chest on an average of nine months or longer before the patient is aware of first symptoms."

Dr. Rigler gives an example of a woman who had cancer of the breast. This was removed and X-rays were taken of the chest to see whether or not the cancer had spread there. These films were taken in 1944 and 1945 and nothing abnormal was observed. In 1946 there appeared for the first time a tiny nodule or density (less than a quarter of an inch in diameter) which was not observed at the time. From 1946 to 1950 there were no X-ray examinations. In 1950, a larger, much more apparent shadow was seen in the same place. In 1951 and 1952 it gradually increased and she was advised to have operation but refused. It was not until 1953, seven years after the first visible X-ray evidence of disease, that she began to have symptoms — cough, spitting of blood, pain and loss of weight.

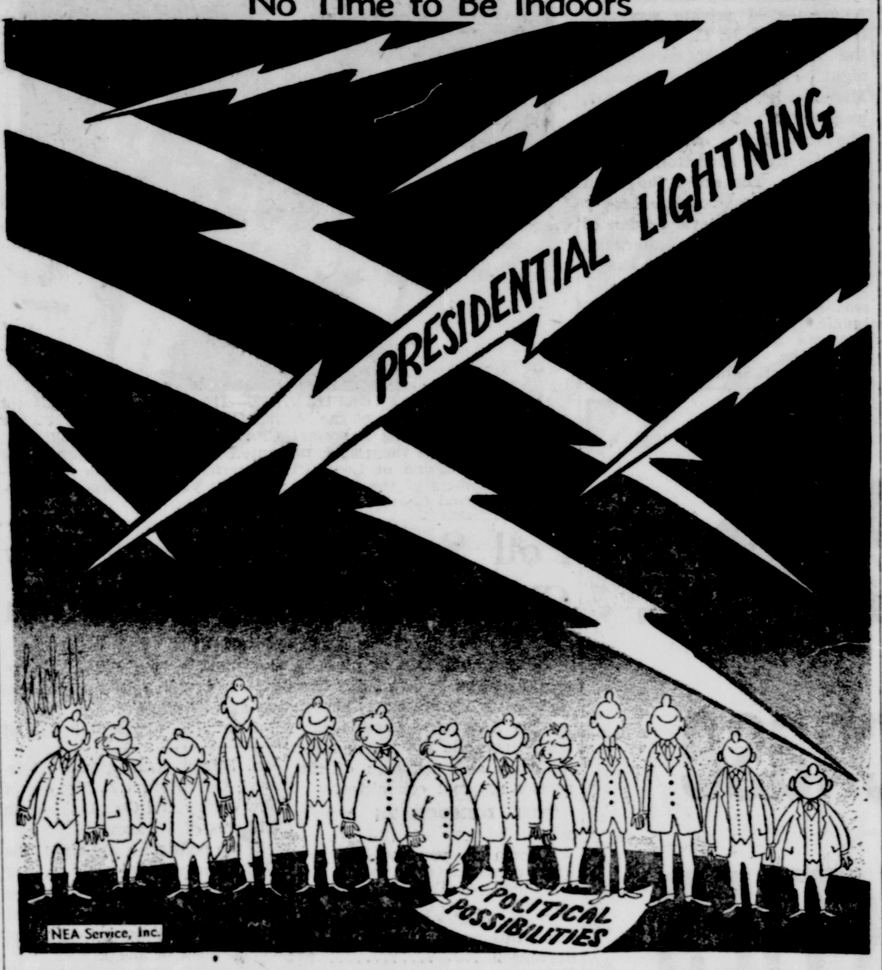

The intense research into the cause or causes of cancer is still being carried out all over the world but in the meantime something must be done for those who already have this disease. Early recognition of cancer of the lung by means of X-ray films means that the patient has a better chance of survival than if he waits until he actually has symptoms.

No Time to Be Indoors

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington —(NEA)— Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom's first press conference—after nearly five months on the job—was in marked contrast to what went on in his department before.

A short prepared announcement was handed out. It summarized what the secretary wanted to say about expanding government programs for aid to medical research next year. But Mr. Folsom assumed the correspondents could read, se he didn't bother to recite it aloud to them.

There were no charts and no elaborate presentations. The secretary sat slumped in his chair, perfectly relaxed and fielded all questions tossed at him. Nothing was barred. He knew all the answers himself and he didn't have to refer tough questions to underlings.

The huge battery of assistant secretaries, counsel and assorted bureaucrats who used to flank former Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby were scattered inconspicuously in the back of the big conference room like mere kibitzers.

AT ONE POINT, Secretary Folsom was asked if he would reaapoint Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele as head of the Public Health Service.

Instead of stalling and thus letting ugly rumors spread, Secretary Folsom said simply that he had found Dr. Scheele able and doing a good job. When his term expired in the spring he would be glad to recommend his reappointment.

Then spotting Dr. Scheele in the back of the room for the first time, Secretary Folsom blushed a rosy red and said with a smile that he hadn't realized he had been talking about the surgeon general in his presence. Scheele took it with a satisfied grin.

Practically all of the national health funds which Secretary Folsom said he would ask the next Congress for will be administered by the surgeon general's office.

Public Health Service research grants will be increased by from 25 to 30 per cent—from 97 million dollars this year to an estimated 125 million dollars for next year.

SECRETARY FOLSOM'S announcement brings into focus what the federal government is already doing in the health field.

It so happens that the Washington office of the American Medical Assn. recently ran a complete check on federal medical spending. It revealed a total outlay of $2,268,800,000 for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1956.

The two largest outlays are 818 million dollars for Department of Defense medical services and 790 million dollars for Veteran's Administration medical care.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare ranks third with a health budget of 526 million dollars for this year. It covers 112 million dollars for hospital construction. Other major items include disease control, research, rehabilitation, the polio program, Food and Drug administration and grants to states for public health.

IN ADDITION to these three big programs, 20 other government agencies spend a total of 131 million dollars on health.

They range from the 30-million-dollar civil defense program down to $130,000 for the President's Commission on Aid for the Handicapped.

The nation's private medical expenses are estimated by Secretary Folsom at 10 billion dollars a year. So the government health services are already costing a fourth of that amount.

When people express concern over the increasing role of government in medical practice, they already have a sizable pimple to complain about.

Tax Reduction Seen Leading To Rise in U.S. Borrowing

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 29 — Will Congress vote to borrow money to pay for a reduction in taxes?

This is the biggest question that the 1956 session may have to answer unless there's a windfall in tax receipts and a sudden lessening of international tension so as to permit a curtailment of arms spending.

Politically, it isn't in the cards for members of Congress in prosperous times to vote for a tax reduction in disregard of the fact that there isn't enough revenue being taken in to offset it. The demand for tax reduction is strongest when there's a depression or recession, and the reason given is that it assists in creating purchasing power. This was the point made by Democratic leaders early in 1954, when attention was being called to a rise in unemployment figures, which has since subsided.

THROUGHOUT THE Truman administration, the favorite argument against tax reduction was that in good times the budget must be balanced. Hence, it is certain that the Democratic party in Congress is going to divide on the issue, as will the Republicans. A majority in both Houses against tax reduction would, therefore, be the result of a coalition of responsible members voting against an irresponsible group.

Some idea of the dangers involved in careless handling of the tax-reduction question can be gained by noting that, to increase the individual personal exemption from $600 to $700 would cost the treasury about $2,400,000,000 a year in revenue. Yet the increase in exemption would result in a net benefit to each family in actual tax savings of only about $40 or $50. While there are many needy families to which such a saving might appeal, there are many millions of voters who could be injured by the unbalancing of the Federal budget by $2,400,000,000.

FOR SUCH A deficit would be taken as a signal that inflation has come back to plague the entire economy. Prices would begin to rise, and far more than $50 per taxpayer would have to be paid out to meet the higher costs of things bought in the marketplace.

Inflation is the disease which today threatens the economy of the whole world. European nations are struggling against it, particularly Great Britain, and some progress is being made in the battle. But if America turns to inflation, serious consequences will ensue in the trade between nations. The cost of things bought by Europeans from America would naturally rise. Eventually purchases by foreign nations would be curtailed, and unemployment might begin to show itself in various industries in this country.

IT IS SCARCELY conceivable that the Democratic leadership will wish to take the responsibility for starting another wave of inflation. What is more likely is that there will be pressure for various tax-reduction bills to be passed, with the hope that a presidential veto will kill the idea itself and place on the Republicans the blame for refusing tax reduction. This type of "pop-gun" measure is a device frequently used in Congressional politics. But it is doubtful whether, with the widespread understanding of the dangers of an unbalanced budget and the consequences of inflation, the voters will be inclined to penalize the party in power for exhibiting courage and common sense in rejecting irresponsible legislation.

The Eisenhower administration is not expected to reveal its hand on taxes in the "state of the union" message next month, preferring to wait till April 15, when tax receipts from the exceedingly prosperous year 1955 will in large part have been collected.

THE MOST important reason for not cutting taxes which the administration can give, if the tax receipts are not adequate, is that arms spending and foreign aid must be stepped up to insure a continuance of peace. It now is rather generally understood by the American people that the threat by Communist imperialism has not been lessened despite the heroic effort at conciliation made last summer at Geneva by President Eisenhower.

There is less danger politically in opposing tax reduction than there would be normally. Since, therefore, there are sound financial, economic, international and military reasons for withholding a tax reduction in the face of an unbalanced budget, the chances of enacting any tax legislation affecting taxpayers generally are rather remote.

What is more important to the voter is the prospect of increased income in 1956 due to increased compensation either through the usual improvements of the wage scale or through overtime work. The total take-home pay in 1956 is expected to increase materially despite any omission of tax reduction.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Although Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vt., was thrown into two mad-houses and a New York jail by order of the federal government, her letters describing her experiences reveal unusual literary ability.

Of course a maniac may have rational moments and Mrs. Miller's enemies may invoke that fact to reject the evidence of her letters. However, in view of the great interest recently shown by press and public in the revelations of a young woman student who served as jailer in the New York Women's House of Detention, Mrs. Miller's description of her one night there last May 4 commends itself to public attention. Mrs. Miller was locked up there during an automobile trip from Rutland to Washington, D. C., after federal deputy marshals had driven her and her husband, Manuel, out of their modest Green Mountain home with a tear-gas attack in the night.

Lucille wrote Manuel as follows: "The woman in charge was a stately colored woman. She confiscated my peppermints but gave me back my comb. Then I had a shower to wash the last of the tear-gas off. They handed me two blankets, two sheets, one pillow case, one bag which turned out to be a nightgown and one towel. They took me to the fifth floor.

"The officer, a colored woman, took me into the dining room. All the people had left except a little colored girl and a young white girl, who looked like a country girl, at a small table. As the officer was passing me a tin plate the whole business fell into a chair and splattered. She scooped it up. She said 'I'll get you another,' and cleaned off the table with toilet paper. The stew was fine. The little colored girl asked me my name and 'what you did?' I explained about opposing the draft in peacetime. The white girl eagerly agreed that no one should be forced to go soldiering in peacetime. Probably has a boy friend or brother. Then they fell to discussing Topic A—bail. I did not inquire about their offenses.

"Each was supposed to wash her own plate. The girls ran the water lukewarm because the tin plates were hard to handle when washed in hot water. The grease on the dishes had been defying the lukewarm drizzle a long time. The officer rushed me and my bedding roll into a single cell about 6 by 9. There was a clean little wash bowl but the faucet was set so it couldn't be drunk out of. I asked for a cup, the officer said 'no.' There was nothing to do but 'blip' a drink. My thirst was such that I was sure there had been saltpetre in the stew.

"As darkness fell, the prisoners, who had been running and hooting wildly, were penned in. It was hard to keep the sheets from sliding off the slippery fake-leather mattress. Suddenly there was a great jingling of keys and clanging of gates and the officer shouted 'put her in with that solitary.' My cell door opened, a cot was thrust in and, after it, a skinny, dejected colored girl. There was only two inches between our cots. She had a broken jaw from jumping out a window because her husband bled so from the razor slash she gave him. Johnny Mae had a bad night because we had no pillows for her jaw and I had a thirsty night because I couldn't get to the water without stepping on her.

"My poor little fellow-prisoner was so gentle and miserable that I forgot my thirst in consideration of her woes. In the hospital they had knocked out two teeth so they could feed her. I knew they had pillows because people had been demanding them and getting them earlier. I said I would ask for one but Johnny Mae begged me not to because 'they'll take it out of my hide and I have to be here another week.' She felt cold and her sheet kept falling on the floor faster than I could pick it up. She would turn over on her sore jaw and yell in anguish.

"There was a melee of sounds —strange bangings and whacks. Somebody started crying in great, gusty sobs. Somebody else started going 'ho-hum!' then somebody yelled "stop eet!' one of the Porto Ricans. An officer came striding down. 'Whassamattah?' the stop eet girl said the old lady in the cell with her was washing her face in the toilet. The officer said 'Well, whaddaya know?' senorita stop eet kept scolding and in this clamor came the dawn. All picked up shouting and hollering where they had left off. I have been in one booby-hatch, one jail and several zoos and I have never heard anything like it.

"Whoops, hoots and goat-cries. There were from 85 to 90 Negroes and ten white women. The friends of Johnny Mae would say 'how come you get put in this single cell with her?' But Johnny Mae would say, 'ah dunno, but she's all right; she was real nice to me.' Their puzzled frowns would be replaced by toothy smiles. They offered me cigarettes. A tall Mexican girl from California said she was a federal case—forgery. She said 'you're the one I read about! She expressed urbane indifference concerning my cause but indignation at the commitment of St. Elizabeth's. 'I knew a girl who was put there,' she said. 'God it's hell.'

"The old lady who washed her face in the toilet was a pathetic, tiny creature. She had lived in alleys and on park benches for weeks and was in for vagrancy. The assistant supervisor seemed a little alarmed at the trend of our conversations. She was a brownskin girl of dignity and presence and obviously was working up to an executive career in welfare. I said these were matters of public interest and I represented the public. She said, 'don't we all?'

"They came and got me and I waved good-bye to Johnny Mae."

Rail Income Off $136,965 From 1954

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 29 (AP)—The New Haven Railroad reported today its net income of $867,065 last month was $136,965 less than for a similar period a year ago, mainly because of increased charges and taxes.

The net income for the first 11 months of 1955 was $9,275,497. This compares with net income of $5,269,776 in 1954 between Jan. 1 and Nov. 30.

The figures do not include damage costs stemming from the August and October floods. The New Haven Railroad has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to charge nearly all these costs to profit and loss.

TALL TOWER TOPPLED—Breaking in two as it falls to the ground, a 763-foot high radio tower, described as the world's eighth highest structure, starts its fall at Tuckerton, N. J., Dec. 28. It was being razed to make room for a real estate development. The tower was originally erected in 1912 by a German firm and legend has it that it was used to radio orders to German submarines to sink the British liner Lusitania in 1915. (AP Wirephoto)

Probationary Cop Captures Four Holding Up Store

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—A probationary policeman captured four holdup men last night after charging into a drugstore where they held 22 persons at bay and had grabbed $1,200.

An employe of the Century Apartment House at Central Park West and 63rd street rushed out to tell patrolman James F. Dougherty, 25, that the apartment house drug store was being held up.

Dougherty, whose probationary period ends Jan. 1, ran into the building and entered the drug store from a rear door. The holdup men, who appeared to be armed, fled through the building.

FEARING that shots might hit bystanders in the lobby, Dougherty chased after the men who ran from the building to a waiting cab. Dougherty commandeered another cab and overtook them three blocks away.

The men were ordered out of the cab and when additional police help arrived Dougherty had them lined up against a parked bus.

Police said the men had been armed with toy guns resembling .45 automatics. In the apartment of one police later found black shoe polish which they said had been used to make the plastic guns look more realistic.

POLICE SAID they believed the men were responsible for at least 20 recent holdups on the West side.

The four were charged with assault and robbery and identified as Richard Shoemaker, 27, James Brakis, 23, Howard Leverette, 29, and John Zapata, 25, all of Manhattan.

News of Our Own Service Folks

JAMES D. KENT, captain in the U. S. Air Force who in 1946 was publisher and editor of a newspaper at Hurley has been named chief of the Office of Information Services at the Air Force Finance Center in Denver according to an announcement by Major General John R. Gilchrist, director of finance for the U. S. Air Force and commander of the center. Captain Kent who resides at 2640 Ivy street, Denver, Colo., with his wife and five children was Air Force representative on the Department of Defense Press Desk, Hq USAF prior to his Denver assignment. During World War 2 he served as Public Relations Officer of the 12th Air Force Service Command in North Africa and Corsica. Following his graduation from Maryville College, Tenn., where he met his wife, he lived in Hurley where he ran the local newspaper. He later received his Headquarters USAF assignment after his recall to active duty early in the Korean Conflict.

Tobacco Growers Vote On Marketing Quotas

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—Growers vote in four separate referenda today on whether federal marketing quotas shall be imposed on that many types of tobacco for the next three years.

Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting in each referendum is required to make the quotas effective on the type covered by that referendum.

The tobacco types included in the proposed controls are burley, Virginia-sun cured, Pennsylvania cigar-filler and Maryland. Quotas already have been approved for next year's production of flue-cured, dark-air-cured, fire-cured and other cigar filler and binder types.

The quotas are designed to prevent accumulation of excessive supplies. Unless they are approved, no government price supports will be provided on the affected types.

Quotas were in effect this year on most types, but growers rejected them for the Pennsylvania cigar-filler and Maryland types.

Colonel Averts Panic

Rome, Dec. 29 (AP)—A U. S. Army colonel's calm assurance to 41 fellow passengers that they had nothing to fear was credited today with averting panic aboard a disabled airliner. Capt. Allen D. Reedy, a native of Tacoma, Wash., captain of the four-engine Pan American Airways DC7, turned back to Rome and landed successfully after one engine caught fire over Italy and dropped off last night. Aboard the plane were 42 passengers and a crew of 6. Airline officials said today that Col. A. D. Chaffin, Jr., a passenger, "did a great job in keeping everyone calm. Then after the landing he persuaded his fellow passengers there was nothing to worry about and they should continue their flight to Brussels and New York. All but seven continued on another flight."

Police Network Opens

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A coast-to-coast police teletype network opens today, joining New York and 33 other states and the District of Columbia. Gov. Harriman was to send the first message (at 12:30 p. m., EST). Supt. Francis Mc Garvey of the state police said yesterday that the remaining 14 states would join the network as soon as their budgets allowed. It extends from Maine to California and from Georgia to Washington state.

Amnesty Talks End

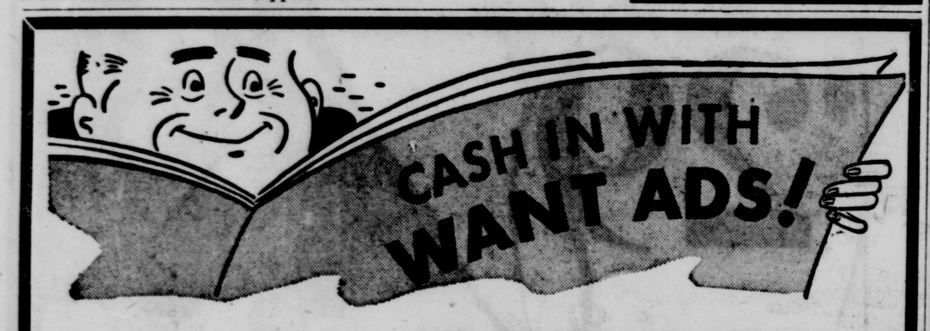

Baling, Malaya, Dec. 29 (AP)—Malayan Communist Chief Chin Peng stalked back into ... gle today, breaking up the talks on amnesty for his forces to end Malaya's 7½ years of guerrilla war. But in walking out the 36-year-old rebel leader offered to end the fighting which has cost 10,000 lives when an "elected" Malayan government takes complete control of its military forces from the British now waging much of the fight. Britain has promised independence or commonwealth membership eventually to the Federation of Malaya, now a protectorate with an elected Legislature over which the British high commissioner has veto power. The island crown colony of Singapore also has been given the same promise.

News of Our Own Service Folks

JAMES D. KENT, captain in the U. S. Air Force who in 1946 was publisher and editor of a newspaper at Hurley has been named chief of the Office of Information Services at the Air Force Finance Center in Denver according to an announcement by Major General John R. Gilchrist, director of finance for the U. S. Air Force and commander of the center. Captain Kent who resides at 2640 Ivy street, Denver, Colo., with his wife and five children was Air Force representative on the Department of Defense Press Desk, Hq USAF prior to his Denver assignment. During World War 2 he served as Public Relations Officer of the 12th Air Force Service Command in North Africa and Corsica. Following his graduation from Maryville College, Tenn., where he met his wife, he lived in Hurley where he ran the local newspaper. He later received his Headquarters USAF assignment after his recall to active duty early in the Korean Conflict.

VINCENT G. WALKER, fireman apprentice, USN, of Willow is attending the navy's metalsmith school at Norfolk, Va. Upon completion of the course, the graduates are ordered to ships and shore bases to acquire practical experience.

The resistance of steel to atmospheric corrosion is improved by the addition of alloying elements such as nickel and copper.

Tobacco Growers Vote On Marketing Quotas

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—Growers vote in four separate referenda today on whether federal marketing quotas shall be imposed on that many types of tobacco for the next three years.

Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting in each referendum is required to make the quotas effective on the type covered by that referendum.

The tobacco types included in the proposed controls are burley, Virginia-sun cured, Pennsylvania cigar-filler and Maryland. Quotas already have been approved for next year's production of flue-cured, dark-air-cured, fire-cured and other cigar filler and binder types.

The quotas are designed to prevent accumulation of excessive supplies. Unless they are approved, no government price supports will be provided on the affected types.

Quotas were in effect this year on most types, but growers rejected them for the Pennsylvania cigar-filler and Maryland types.

Colonel Averts Panic

Rome, Dec. 29 (AP)—A U. S. Army colonel's calm assurance to 41 fellow passengers that they had nothing to fear was credited today with averting panic aboard a disabled airliner. Capt. Allen D. Reedy, a native of Tacoma, Wash., captain of the four-engine Pan American Airways DC7, turned back to Rome and landed successfully after one engine caught fire over Italy and dropped off last night. Aboard the plane were 42 passengers and a crew of 6. Airline officials said today that Col. A. D. Chaffin, Jr., a passenger, "did a great job in keeping everyone calm. Then after the landing he persuaded his fellow passengers there was nothing to worry about and they should continue their flight to Brussels and New York. All but seven continued on another flight."

Police Network Opens

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A coast-to-coast police teletype network opens today, joining New York and 33 other states and the District of Columbia. Gov. Harriman was to send the first message (at 12:30 p. m., EST). Supt. Francis Mc Garvey of the state police said yesterday that the remaining 14 states would join the network as soon as their budgets allowed. It extends from Maine to California and from Georgia to Washington state.

Amnesty Talks End

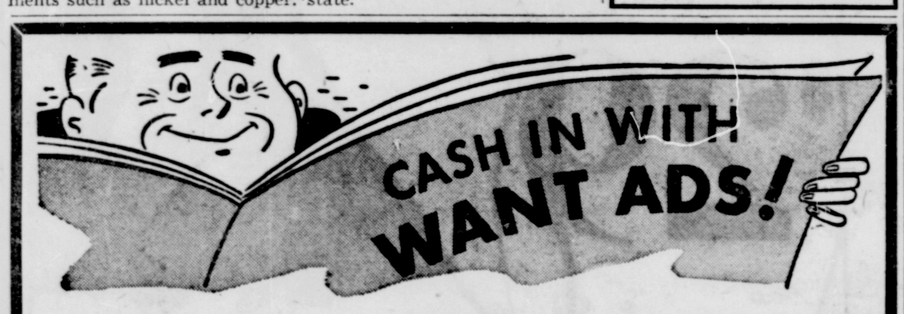

Baling, Malaya, Dec. 29 (AP)—Malayan Communist Chief Chin Peng stalked back into ... gle today, breaking up the talks on amnesty for his forces to end Malaya's 7½ years of guerrilla war. But in walking out the 36-year-old rebel leader offered to end the fighting which has cost 10,000 lives when an "elected" Malayan government takes complete control of its military forces from the British now waging much of the fight. Britain has promised independence or commonwealth membership eventually to the Federation of Malaya, now a protectorate with an elected Legislature over which the British high commissioner has veto power. The island crown colony of Singapore also has been given the same promise.

Woman Is Hurt In 2-Car Mishap Near Rosendale

Miss Jeanette Wells, 29, of 90 DeWitt street, was reported hurt in a two-car collision on Route 32 about a half mile north of Rosendale at 7:50 a. m. today.

Trooper William Shurter said Miss Wells was proceeding south in a 1946 sedan when it was in collision with a 1949 panel truck, owned by Spiesman's Bakeries, Inc., 39 East Union street, operated by Alexander Levy, 52, of 16 Chambers street. The truck was traveling north.

THE TRUCK crossed over the southbound lane, making a left turn into a parking lot and was struck in the right front by the left front of Miss Wells' car, Trooper Shurter said.

The sedan was heavily damaged and had to be towed away.

Miss Wells complained of leg injuries and said she would see her private physician, the trooper reported.

Conditions Are Good

Henry Morton, 50, and his sister, Clara, 42, both of Pine Hill, who were attacked and bitten by their large Irish setter Tuesday afternoon, were reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital. The Mortons had stopped near the Avalon Restaurant on Route 28 to let the dog out for a moment. When it returned to the car the door shut on its tail cutting off the end of it. The animal, enraged with pain, attacked the Mortons viciously.

Quints Plan Visit

Montreal, Dec. 29 (AP)—A spokesman for the Dionne quintuplets says they are staying away from home to prove they want a life of their own, but will visit their parents sometime in January. The spokesman, a businessman friend of the four famous sisters, said they had planned to visit the family home at Callender, Ont., for New Year's until their father, Oliva Dionne, charged publicly that "outsiders" were splitting them away from the family.

Union Head Jailed

New Castle, Ind., Dec. 29 (AP)—Carl Batchfield, president of the United Auto Workers Local 370 during its riot-marked strike against the Perfect Circle Corp., was jailed last night by state police investigating the ambush of a non-striker's car last September. Troopers headed by Detective Capt. Robert Dillon also took into custody John Rothrock, Leonard Shelton and Loren Asberry, all identified as participants in the UAW strike.

Hearing Is Sought

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. today disclosed that it is petitioning the U. S. Supreme Court the second time for a hearing on a patent infringement suit against the firm bought by a former navy optical engineer. B & L Attorney Edward H. Cumpston said he is filing the petition today. A previous request for a Supreme Court review was denied Dec. 5 without explanation.

Woodstock Woman Hurt in Mishap

One person was reported injured in a two-car collision on Albany avenue near Maiden Lane at about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Police said Margaret W. Collins, 25, of Woodstock, reported injuries of the back and neck. She was driving a car, owned by Edward F. White, of 111 Fairmont avenue, south on Albany avenue, when another car struck it in the rear.

The other vehicle, a station wagon, the report said, was operated by Ben Mageldino, of 10 Schryver Court.

Mrs. Collins said she had stopped short to avoid a car ahead. She was treated by a doctor for the injuries.

Furnace Explodes In Stone Ridge Episcopal Church

The oil burner in St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Stone Ridge exploded Wednesday at approximately 8 p. m., causing a fire, according to the Rev. David W. Arnold, priest in charge.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold said that the Stone Ridge Fire Company under the command of Chief Harry Cornish extinguished the blaze by 8:50 p. m.

Damage to the burner and furnace and smoke and soot damage in the church was reported by the Rev. Mr. Arnold.

He said that he expects to have heat in the church and regular services will be held as usual.

Milton Man Is Jailed 60 Days for Assault

James Hayes, 36, of Milton was sentenced to 60 days in the Ulster county jail on Tuesday on a charge of assault third degree in which another man received a cut on the head which required nine stitches.

Hayes was arrested by Highland State Police and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey of Milton.

Troopers said the victim, Charles Cofield, no age listed, of Milton, was taken to Vassar Bros. Hospital, Poughkeepsie for treatment.

GOP Faces Showdown

Batavia, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Western New York Republicans appeared headed for a showdown today in their bitter dispute over the naming of a successor to the late Federal District Judge John M. Knight. The issue was brought to a boil yesterday when Rep. Daniel Reed of Dunkirk announced he had asked GOP Chairman of 17 counties to meet in Batavia tonight to cast a secret ballot nominating a candidate for the $22,500-a-year post. The choice apparently would be between Joseph Rubenstein of Dunkirk, a Reed favorite, and former Assemblyman Justin C. Morgan of Kenmore.

Would Legalize Tagging

Albany, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Desmond says he will introduce a bill to make it clearly legal for a policeman to tag an automobile parked overtime on a city street without proving ownership of the car or seeing it parked. The Newburgh Republican said yesterday his measure was prompted by the recent ruling of Magistrate Charles Solomon of New York city that policemen must prove that they saw the violation committed and must prove ownership of the car. The magistrate since has been transferred from traffic court to other duties.

U. S. Officials Astounded

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—United States officials were astounded at Nikita Khrushchev's direct attack today on President Eisenhower. They thought this action by a top Soviet leader may mean the development of a still tougher line in Russian foreign policy. Experts here found it significant, moreover, that the immediate reason for the person attack was a rather routine Christmas message in which Eisenhower spoke of prayers for freedom in eastern Europe.

Reports Reelection

Vienna, Dec. 29 (AP)—Radio Bucharest reported today the reelection of Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej as first secretary of the Romanian Workers (Communist) party. An official announcement said the party's second Congress ended in Bucharest last night.

Airplane Crashes

Dover, Ohio, Dec. 29 (AP)—A four-motored airplane crashed today near West Chester in southeastern Tuscarawas county, Ohio, the state highway patrol reported. No details were immediately available.

Body Is Found In Fire Ruins

A body believed to be that of George Hauser, 46, a farmhand, was found about noon Wednesday in the burned-out ruins of the small building which he occupied on the Joseph Mannese farm on Route 9W about a half mile north of the village of Marlborough, it was reported today by Coroner Francis J. McCardle.

Although the small farm structure, which consisted of about three rooms, was burned late Saturday night the body was not discovered until Wednesday, the coroner said.

THE BODY was so badly charred that it was originally believed to be that of a farm animal, possibly a goat, it was reported.

James Mannese of Milton, who operates the farm owned by his father, discovered the body yesterday and notified Highland State Police. Troopers in turn called Coroner McCardle.

The coroner and Trooper Michael Lisman, BCI, established the fact that the body was that of a human being. Investigation is continuing, however, to ascertain if the body is that of Hauser who had been employed on the Mannese farm for the past two years.

The body was removed to the Tuthill Funeral Home, Marlborough, where Dr. Bernard Adilman of the Kingston City Lab performed an autopsy authorized by the coroner.

Following the autopsy the coroner issued a verdict of death due to carbon monoxide poisoning as a result of the fire. The autopsy also revealed a sub-dural hemorrhage, he said.

Coroner McCardle said a blood test should make it possible to ascertain if the victim died before or after the fire. Sufficient blood for such a test was obtained from the chest cavity, it was reported.

THE CORONER said Hauser reportedly did not smoke. He found a pack of unopened cigarettes in an unburned pocket of the victim's jacket. This pocket was underneath one hip, which accounts for the fact that it was not burned, the coroner explained.

The fire was discovered about 10:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve. The building, which was of tile construction on the outside, was badly gutted.

Coroner McCardle said Hauser, who came originally from Illinois, had a criminal record and was known under a number of different aliases.

Ike Kept Indoors

Key West, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The sun played hide-and-seek behind rain clouds today and President Eisenhower turned to indoor painting of a Colorado mountain scene. The President came to Key West from Washington yesterday to soak up some sunshine and build his strength for resumption of a full work load next month. He got in some outdoor activity—even hitting a few golf shots—shortly after arriving, and that pleased his doctors. But it rained most of the night, and the skies were still overcast when Eisenhower got out of bed at 7:30 a. m. today.

Credit Curbs Relaxed

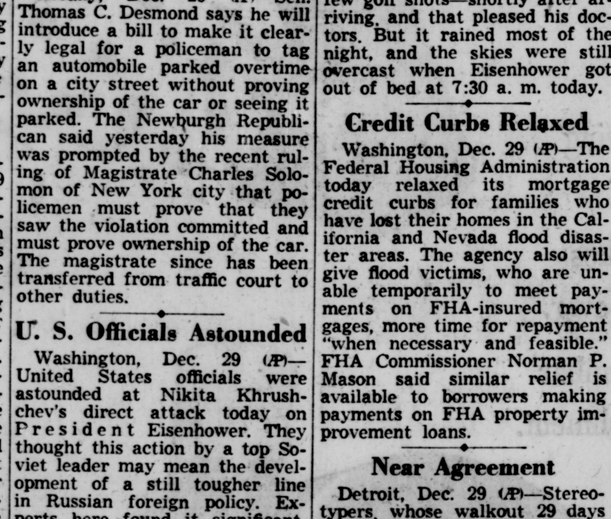

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today relaxed its mortgage credit curbs for families who have lost their homes in the California and Nevada flood disaster areas. The agency also will give flood victims, who are unable temporarily to meet payments on FHA-insured mortgages, more time for repayment "when necessary and feasible." FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason said similar relief is available to borrowers making payments on FHA property improvement loans.

Near Agreement

Detroit, Dec. 29 (AP)—Stereotypers, whose walkout 29 days ago closed Detroit's three metropolitan daily newspapers, and publishers were reported near agreement today. But an immediate agreement between them would not necessarily mean an immediate resumption of publication. Two other unions since have gone on strike, and a third has been authorized to strike, if it desires, by its international union.

Is Named by SLA

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Henry K. Rizzuto, of Rome, N. Y., was appointed today as a deputy commissioner of the State Liquor Authority. Connie C. Jones, of New York city, was appointed an assistant counsel of the Authority. Both men, appointed by Chairman Thomas E. Roman, were sworn into office by Secretary of State Carmine G. DeSapio.

BOOM TO CONTINUE — The amount of money the average American had to spend continued to increase in 1955 Consumers' disposable income has increased steadily since World War II. In 1955's third quarter it was at a record annual rate of 272 billion dollars, 7 per cent above a year earlier According to government experts, the trend will continue upward in 1956, though probably at a slower rate.

SETTLING DOWN TO EAT—This is the nation's first "fly-in" restaurant, located on the edge of a small airport in Augusta, Ga. It is a conventional drive-in on one side and a "fly-in" on the other. "Sky-hop" is shown serving her first customer.

Think It Through

UNCLE SAMSON'S HAIR

A former member of the British Secret Service, E. H. Coolridge, has written a book about Soviet espionage. It is called "THE NET THAT COVERS THE WORLD." The author warns us against being too palsy-walsy about Russian visitors.

The author's thesis is that practically every Russian that visits another country is either a spy, or accompanied by someone who is.

Mr. Hutton

He writes: "Every Soviet football team, every Russian athlete competing in a sports meet, Soviet scientists attending an International convention, etc.—are invariably accompanied by an agent of the Cheka (Soviet Secret Police), or some resident secret agent is detailed to look after them" in the country they visit.

This may be overdrawn. But maybe it is not. It is hard to believe that a Russian collective farm superintendent, who leans on the fence of an Iowa hog lot and chews the fat about feed and breed, is a spy.

But who was it in Moscow who selected him to come here? And to whom must he report when he gets back? It just can't be all beer and skittles — these visits, not while the Moscow gang preaches that every Russian must be loyal to Communist world revolution. Neighbor, until they strike all this stuff out of their books, their smiles may be those of the harlot Delilah cutting off Uncle Samson's hair.

Recreation Department Yule Party Set Friday

The annual Christmas party sponsored by the Recreation Department for the children who use the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, during the winter months will take place Friday at 2 p. m. at the Recreation Center.

The party is open to those youngsters 12 years old or younger. Santa Claus will make an appearance with gifts for the children along with candy, apples, etc.

Hamilton Signs Trimble

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four announced today they had signed Jim Trimble, former coach of the National League's Philadelphia Eagles, as coach for the 1956 season. Terms of contract, signed last night in New York, were not made public. It was reported the contract runs for one year at a figure between $15,000 and $20,000. Trimble, fired from the Eagles two weeks after a losing season, replaces Carl Voyles, who led the Tiger-Cats for six years. Voyles left to take a real estate job with a Toronto financier.

Death Called Suicide

Hancock, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Robert T. Pierce Jr., 34, of Perth Amboy, N. J., shot himself to death yesterday. A passing motorist found Pierce dying in his car, parked on the side of the Cadosia-Apex road about three miles north of Hancock. Pierce died a short time later. A bullet from a 45-caliber pistol had pierced his chest. Dr. L. E. Woolsey, Delaware county coroner, gave a verdict of suicide. He said Pierce, an automobile mechanic, had been ill and under a physician's care at Perth Amboy. He formerly lived in Walton, Delaware county.

Make New Effort

Pittsburgh, Dec. 29 (AP)—Negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Union of Electricial Workers and Westinghouse Electric Corp. made another effort today to settle the 74-day-old strike of 44,000 members at 30 plants of the big electrical manufacturing firm. A deadlock in negotiations continued after the company late yesterday rejected another union proposal that the dispute be submitted to arbitration.

Youth Dies in Crash

Floral Park, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—One youth was killed and four other persons were injured today in a collision of two cars here. Frank Bartol, 19, of (27 Cellar ave.) New Hyde Park, N. Y., one of the drivers, was killed.

SPENDING UP, WILL RISE—Demands of the American people for goods and services was at a record annual rate of 392 billion dollars in 1955, 9 per cent above 1954. Consumer spending rose to the highest level in history and investment by business expanded sharply. Government expenditures—federal, state and local—leveled off. A look ahead to 1956 sees continued strong consumer spending, business investment rising further, federal government purchases about at 1955 level. State and local governments will spend increasing amounts for schools, roads and other facilities.

opportunity for doing so may soon be gone."

HE SAID President Eisenhower had promised in October that specific legislative recommendations would be ready for a committee hearing late that month. At the hearing, Fulbright noted, a budget bureau representative said they would be ready "certainly before Congress reconvenes."

The senator added that "even at this late date, less than a week before Congress reconvenes, they have not been received." Congress meets next Tuesday.

The HHFA announcement, by Acting Administrator Frank J. Meistrell, gave no details of the administration plan. Meistrell said the agency "has done considerable research to determine whether this need can be met through a system of flood insurance or some other more feasible plan." He did not elaborate.

Sen. Lehman (D.-N.Y.), who conducted the Banking Committee hearings on the subject, also called yesterday for action. He released a letter to Eisenhower in which he asked that the program be submitted "within the next few days, if possible."

MEANTIME other relief problems faced the new Congress as a result two major floods in New England and elsewhere in the East and the more recent floods in California, Nevada and Oregon.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) exhausted its disaster loan authority on the New England rehabilitation and said it will need increased funds to help meet needs in the far west. Normal loans at 6 per cent interest are now being made there with the understanding they will be reduced to the 3 per cent disaster rate after Congress acts.

A civil defense spokesman said the President's 25 million dollar emergency fund now has only 5 to 6 millions left, and "apparently will have to be replenished by a supplemental appropriation" from Congress.

Grand Union Earnings

East Paterson, N. J.—Lansing P. Shield, president of the Grand Union Company, announced for the three months ended November 26, 1955, record net earnings after all taxes and depreciation of $948,126 compared with $801,401 in the corresponding quarter a year ago. This is equivalent to 52 cents per share after preferred requirements on the 1,714,603 shares of common stock presently outstanding. No direct comparisons with prior periods are available because of the issuance of common stock during the year in connection with the conversion of debentures, stock split-up, stock dividends, acquisition of subsidiary, and exercise of stock options.

Catholic Charities

In the 1955 annual appeal of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York the parishes and the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity reached a total of $2,542,374.92, the highest in their history, it was announced Wednesday at a meeting of the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity by John A. Coleman, executive chairman, in the Empire State Club, Empire State Building.

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 29 (AP)—Charles O. Booth, 74, of 77 Dogwood road, Peekskill, N. Y., died yesterday in Alexian Brothers Hospital. He had been ill for two weeks. Booth, a retired N. Y. Central Railroad conductor, had been a member of the Van Cortlandtville, N. Y., school board. Funeral services will be held at the Daniel J. Leonard Home at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

Firemen Check Calls

Firemen were called by both telephone and a box alarm this morning for a brush fire off Lawrence street in the Waters' woods area. The first call was at 11:09 a. m., and the box alarm at 11:14 was sounded from Box 2511, Hasbrouck and Delaware avenues. Cornell and Central stations Cordts Hose Company and Wicks Engine Company responded.

January Egg Month

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today designated next month as "January Egg Month" and urged New Yorkers to eat more eggs. He said in a proclamation that poultry flocks in New York state produced about 2½ billion eggs this year and egg sales at the farms approximated 100 million dollars.

Railroad Loses

in which he enjoined the railroad from interfering with the use of the crossing and directing that the crossing be restored. He held in his findings that the crossing had been in use for many years and the plaintiffs had a right to its use.

An appeal was taken by the railroad and the Appellate Division has affirmed the decision of Judge Heffernan and directed the railroad to permit use of the crossing.

The crossing in dispute is that which crosses the Wallkill Valley tracks about a quarter of a mile north of the Binnewater station and was used for years as a part of the Binnewater-Whiteport road over the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Company property and which led to the property previously owned by Binnewater Lake Ice Company and Williams Lake, as well as to several bungalow properties on the Fifth Binnewater or Williams Lake.

These properties are located north and west of the railroad and are owned by Clayton E. Jenkins and wife, Howard H. Grimm and wife, Webb Kniffen and wife, Claude L. Needes, Harry D. Sutton and wife and the Ulster County Construction Company, Inc., which leases its property to Walter Williams, plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs contended the crossing had been in use for many years over the railroad line which had been in operation for over 50 years. They contended the road had existed prior to the building of the railroad and that the route had been continuously in use ever since the railroad was built and that its use for upwards of 50 years gave them right of use under a "claims of right." They contended their right had never been disputed and they had acquired right to use the road, including the crossing over the railroad by prescription.

On February 3, 1949, after a couple of very serious accidents at the crossing which resulted in loss of life, and for which the railroad paid heavy damages, a barrier was placed and the crossing planks taken up.

The action for restoration of use and replacement of the planking was commenced. An injunction to prevent the railroad from closing the crossing was sought.

Claims that the crossing was a private crossing and open only to lands while they were under common ownership were made by the railroad which contended there followed no right to the owners after division of the land.

THE PROPERTY of Ulster County Construction Company, Inc., was acquired by the Williams family in February 1929 and until the crossing was closed in 1949 it had been used as an access to the resort hotel at Williams Lake. The accidents at the crossing were in 1940 and 1943.

On July 16, 1946 the railroad leased to Walter Williams lands on the westerly side of the railroad for a new road which does not cross the tracks. The railroad contended following this transaction there was no longer need for use of the crossing route.

Property owners along the lake contended that their right to use the crossing had not been affected by the acquiring of the alternate route by Williams for access to his premises. They contended their right to use the crossing route still existed and asked its use be restored.

Guests at Williams Lake who occupy bungalows west of the crossing, it was contended had to travel either by foot over the barricaded crossing or travel a long distance over the new route to reach the dining room at the lake resort. Use of the crossing by these people was sought.

IN THE DECISION of the Appellate Division it is held there is no evidence that the use by the plaintiffs was "under a claim of right" and that the evidences does not rebut the presumption that the use by plaintiffs was anything but permissive.

The decision of the Appellate Division holds that "the proof shows beyond dispute that the use was open, notorious and uninterrupted" and that the findings of Official Referee Heffernan were justified and that the respondents have acquired a right of way by prescription and that the crossing should be opened to use.

Judgment is affirmed with costs.

Flood Death

lars in federal funds for immediate rehabilitation aid there.

..TONS OF FOOD was being airlifted there to Humboldt county. Backlogged Christmas mail also was being flown to the Eureka area.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration, which will co-ordinate the "blank check" federal rehabilitation aid assured by President Eisenhower, opened centers at Eureka, Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, Stockton, Yuba City and Reno.

Two Forfeit Bail

Two drivers arrested on traffic charges yesterday forfeited bail through failure to appear in City Court today. Charles Van Laer, 20, of High Falls was arrested at 10:40 p. m., by Officers William Snyder and Michael Mazzuca on a charge that he was speeding on Albany avenue. Nicholas Christodolus, 20, of Rosendale, was arrested at 3:15 p. m., by Officers Floyd Krom and Gurnsey Burger, Jr., on a charge of driving without a license. He was also issued a summons for driving with a faulty muffler.

Nearly 90 per cent of all farm products go to initial markets by motor vehicle.

Woman Is Hurt In 2-Car Mishap Near Rosendale

Miss Jeanette Wells, 29, of 90 DeWitt street, was reported hurt in a two-car collision on Route 32 about a half mile north of Rosendale at 7:50 a. m. today.

Trooper William Shurter said Miss Wells was proceeding south in a 1946 sedan when it was in collision with a 1949 panel truck, owned by Spiesman's Bakeries, Inc., 39 East Union street, operated by Alexander Levy, 52, of 16 Chambers street. The truck was traveling north.

THE TRUCK crossed over the southbound lane, making a left turn into a parking lot and was struck in the right front by the left front of Miss Wells' car, Trooper Shurter said.

The sedan was heavily damaged and had to be towed away.

Miss Wells complained of leg injuries and said she would see her private physician, the trooper reported.

Conditions Are Good

Henry Morton, 50, and his sister, Clara, 42, both of Pine Hill, who were attacked and bitten by their large Irish setter Tuesday afternoon, were reported in good condition today at Kingston Hospital. The Mortons had stopped near the Avalon Restaurant on Route 28 to let the dog out for a moment. When it returned to the car the door shut on its tail cutting off the end of it. The animal, enraged with pain, attacked the Mortons viciously.

Quints Plan Visit

Montreal, Dec. 29 (AP)—A spokesman for the Dionne quintuplets says they are staying away from home to prove they want a life of their own, but will visit their parents sometime in January. The spokesman, a businessman friend of the four famous sisters, said they had planned to visit the family home at Callender, Ont., for New Year's until their father, Oliva Dionne, charged publicly that "outsiders" were splitting them away from the family.

Union Head Jailed

New Castle, Ind., Dec. 29 (AP)—Carl Batchfield, president of the United Auto Workers Local 370 during its riot-marked strike against the Perfect Circle Corp., was jailed last night by state police investigating the ambush of a non-striker's car last September. Troopers headed by Detective Capt. Robert Dillon also took into custody John Rothrock, Leonard Shelton and Loren Asberry, all identified as participants in the UAW strike.

Hearing Is Sought

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Bausch & Lomb Optical Co. today disclosed that it is petitioning the U. S. Supreme Court the second time for a hearing on a patent infringement suit against the firm bought by a former navy optical engineer. B & L Attorney Edward H. Cumpston said he is filing the petition today. A previous request for a Supreme Court review was denied Dec. 5 without explanation.

Woodstock Woman Hurt in Mishap

One person was reported injured in a two-car collision on Albany avenue near Maiden Lane at about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Police said Margaret W. Collins, 25, of Woodstock, reported injuries of the back and neck. She was driving a car, owned by Edward F. White, of 111 Fairmont avenue, south on Albany avenue, when another car struck it in the rear.

The other vehicle, a station wagon, the report said, was operated by Ben Mageldino, of 10 Schryver Court.

Mrs. Collins said she had stopped short to avoid a car ahead. She was treated by a doctor for the injuries.

Furnace Explodes In Stone Ridge Episcopal Church

The oil burner in St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Stone Ridge exploded Wednesday at approximately 8 p. m., causing a fire, according to the Rev. David W. Arnold, priest in charge.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold said that the Stone Ridge Fire Company under the command of Chief Harry Cornish extinguished the blaze by 8:50 p. m.

Damage to the burner and furnace and smoke and soot damage in the church was reported by the Rev. Mr. Arnold.

He said that he expects to have heat in the church and regular services will be held as usual.

Milton Man Is Jailed 60 Days for Assault

James Hayes, 36, of Milton was sentenced to 60 days in the Ulster county jail on Tuesday on a charge of assault third degree in which another man received a cut on the head which required nine stitches.

Hayes was arrested by Highland State Police and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey of Milton.

Troopers said the victim, Charles Cofield, no age listed, of Milton, was taken to Vassar Bros. Hospital, Poughkeepsie for treatment.

GOP Faces Showdown

Batavia, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Western New York Republicans appeared headed for a showdown today in their bitter dispute over the naming of a successor to the late Federal District Judge John M. Knight. The issue was brought to a boil yesterday when Rep. Daniel Reed of Dunkirk announced he had asked GOP Chairman of 17 counties to meet in Batavia tonight to cast a secret ballot nominating a candidate for the $22,500-a-year post. The choice apparently would be between Joseph Rubenstein of Dunkirk, a Reed favorite, and former Assemblyman Justin C. Morgan of Kenmore.

Would Legalize Tagging

Albany, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Desmond says he will introduce a bill to make it clearly legal for a policeman to tag an automobile parked overtime on a city street without proving ownership of the car or seeing it parked. The Newburgh Republican said yesterday his measure was prompted by the recent ruling of Magistrate Charles Solomon of New York city that policemen must prove that they saw the violation committed and must prove ownership of the car. The magistrate since has been transferred from traffic court to other duties.

U. S. Officials Astounded

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—United States officials were astounded at Nikita Khrushchev's direct attack today on President Eisenhower. They thought this action by a top Soviet leader may mean the development of a still tougher line in Russian foreign policy. Experts here found it significant, moreover, that the immediate reason for the person attack was a rather routine Christmas message in which Eisenhower spoke of prayers for freedom in eastern Europe.

Reports Reelection

Vienna, Dec. 29 (AP)—Radio Bucharest reported today the reelection of Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej as first secretary of the Romanian Workers (Communist) party. An official announcement said the party's second Congress ended in Bucharest last night.

Airplane Crashes

Dover, Ohio, Dec. 29 (AP)—A four-motored airplane crashed today near West Chester in southeastern Tuscarawas county, Ohio, the state highway patrol reported. No details were immediately available.

Body Is Found In Fire Ruins

A body believed to be that of George Hauser, 46, a farmhand, was found about noon Wednesday in the burned-out ruins of the small building which he occupied on the Joseph Mannese farm on Route 9W about a half mile north of the village of Marlborough, it was reported today by Coroner Francis J. McCardle.

Although the small farm structure, which consisted of about three rooms, was burned late Saturday night the body was not discovered until Wednesday, the coroner said.

THE BODY was so badly charred that it was originally believed to be that of a farm animal, possibly a goat, it was reported.

James Mannese of Milton, who operates the farm owned by his father, discovered the body yesterday and notified Highland State Police. Troopers in turn called Coroner McCardle.

The coroner and Trooper Michael Lisman, BCI, established the fact that the body was that of a human being. Investigation is continuing, however, to ascertain if the body is that of Hauser who had been employed on the Mannese farm for the past two years.

The body was removed to the Tuthill Funeral Home, Marlborough, where Dr. Bernard Adilman of the Kingston City Lab performed an autopsy authorized by the coroner.

Following the autopsy the coroner issued a verdict of death due to carbon monoxide poisoning as a result of the fire. The autopsy also revealed a sub-dural hemorrhage, he said.

Coroner McCardle said a blood test should make it possible to ascertain if the victim died before or after the fire. Sufficient blood for such a test was obtained from the chest cavity, it was reported.

THE CORONER said Hauser reportedly did not smoke. He found a pack of unopened cigarettes in an unburned pocket of the victim's jacket. This pocket was underneath one hip, which accounts for the fact that it was not burned, the coroner explained.

The fire was discovered about 10:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve. The building, which was of tile construction on the outside, was badly gutted.

Coroner McCardle said Hauser, who came originally from Illinois, had a criminal record and was known under a number of different aliases.

Ike Kept Indoors

Key West, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The sun played hide-and-seek behind rain clouds today and President Eisenhower turned to indoor painting of a Colorado mountain scene. The President came to Key West from Washington yesterday to soak up some sunshine and build his strength for resumption of a full work load next month. He got in some outdoor activity—even hitting a few golf shots—shortly after arriving, and that pleased his doctors. But it rained most of the night, and the skies were still overcast when Eisenhower got out of bed at 7:30 a. m. today.

Credit Curbs Relaxed

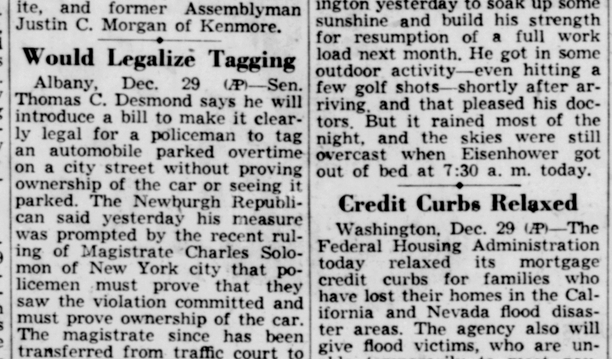

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today relaxed its mortgage credit curbs for families who have lost their homes in the California and Nevada flood disaster areas. The agency also will give flood victims, who are unable temporarily to meet payments on FHA-insured mortgages, more time for repayment "when necessary and feasible." FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason said similar relief is available to borrowers making payments on FHA property improvement loans.

Near Agreement

Detroit, Dec. 29 (AP)—Stereotypers, whose walkout 29 days ago closed Detroit's three metropolitan daily newspapers, and publishers were reported near agreement today. But an immediate agreement between them would not necessarily mean an immediate resumption of publication. Two other unions since have gone on strike, and a third has been authorized to strike, if it desires, by its international union.

Is Named by SLA

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Henry K. Rizzuto, of Rome, N. Y., was appointed today as a deputy commissioner of the State Liquor Authority. Connie C. Jones, of New York city, was appointed an assistant counsel of the Authority. Both men, appointed by Chairman Thomas E. Roman, were sworn into office by Secretary of State Carmine G. DeSapio.

BOOM TO CONTINUE — The amount of money the average American had to spend continued to increase in 1955 Consumers' disposable income has increased steadily since World War II. In 1955's third quarter it was at a record annual rate of 272 billion dollars, 7 per cent above a year earlier According to government experts, the trend will continue upward in 1956, though probably at a slower rate.

Think It Through

UNCLE SAMSON'S HAIR

A former member of the British Secret Service, E. H. Coolridge, has written a book about Soviet espionage. It is called "THE NET THAT COVERS THE WORLD." The author warns us against being too palsy-walsy about Russian visitors.

The author's thesis is that practically every Russian that visits another country is either a spy, or accompanied by someone who is.

Mr. Hutton

He writes: "Every Soviet football team, every Russian athlete competing in a sports meet, Soviet scientists attending an International convention, etc.—are invariably accompanied by an agent of the Cheka (Soviet Secret Police), or some resident secret agent is detailed to look after them" in the country they visit.

This may be overdrawn. But maybe it is not. It is hard to believe that a Russian collective farm superintendent, who leans on the fence of an Iowa hog lot and chews the fat about feed and breed, is a spy.

But who was it in Moscow who selected him to come here? And to whom must he report when he gets back? It just can't be all beer and skittles — these visits, not while the Moscow gang preaches that every Russian must be loyal to Communist world revolution. Neighbor, until they strike all this stuff out of their books, their smiles may be those of the harlot Delilah cutting off Uncle Samson's hair.

Recreation Department Yule Party Set Friday

The annual Christmas party sponsored by the Recreation Department for the children who use the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, during the winter months will take place Friday at 2 p. m. at the Recreation Center.

The party is open to those youngsters 12 years old or younger. Santa Claus will make an appearance with gifts for the children along with candy, apples, etc.

Hamilton Signs Trimble

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four announced today they had signed Jim Trimble, former coach of the National League's Philadelphia Eagles, as coach for the 1956 season. Terms of contract, signed last night in New York, were not made public. It was reported the contract runs for one year at a figure between $15,000 and $20,000. Trimble, fired from the Eagles two weeks after a losing season, replaces Carl Voyles, who led the Tiger-Cats for six years. Voyles left to take a real estate job with a Toronto financier.

Death Called Suicide

Hancock, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Robert T. Pierce Jr., 34, of Perth Amboy, N. J., shot himself to death yesterday. A passing motorist found Pierce dying in his car, parked on the side of the Cadosia-Apex road about three miles north of Hancock. Pierce died a short time later. A bullet from a 45-caliber pistol had pierced his chest. Dr. L. E. Woolsey, Delaware county coroner, gave a verdict of suicide. He said Pierce, an automobile mechanic, had been ill and under a physician's care at Perth Amboy. He formerly lived in Walton, Delaware county.

Make New Effort

Pittsburgh, Dec. 29 (AP)—Negotiators for the AFL-CIO International Union of Electricial Workers and Westinghouse Electric Corp. made another effort today to settle the 74-day-old strike of 44,000 members at 30 plants of the big electrical manufacturing firm. A deadlock in negotiations continued after the company late yesterday rejected another union proposal that the dispute be submitted to arbitration.

Nats Sign Stobbs

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP) — Chuck Stobbs, 26-year-old left handed pitcher, today became the second Washington Senators ballplayer to sign his contract for 1956. Stobbs, a native of Norfolk, Va., won four and lost 14 games last season. Two of his victories were over the champion Yankees and another over the runnerup Cleveland Indians.

A few domestic commodity markets will close at noon on Friday Dec. 30, including New York coffee, sugar, cocoa, and the commodity exchange. All other financial and commodity markets in the United States and Canada will operate a full session on Friday, Dec. 30.

Youth Dies in Crash

Floral Park, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—One youth was killed and four other persons were injured today in a collision of two cars here. Frank Bartol, 19, of (27 Cellar ave.) New Hyde Park, N. Y., one of the drivers, was killed.

SPENDING UP, WILL RISE—Demands of the American people for goods and services was at a record annual rate of 392 billion dollars in 1955, 9 per cent above 1954. Consumer spending rose to the highest level in history and investment by business expanded sharply. Government expenditures—federal, state and local—leveled off. A look ahead to 1956 sees continued strong consumer spending, business investment rising further, federal government purchases about at 1955 level. State and local governments will spend increasing amounts for schools, roads and other facilities.

Report Urged

opportunity for doing so may soon be gone."

HE SAID President Eisenhower had promised in October that specific legislative recommendations would be ready for a committee hearing late that month. At the hearing, Fulbright noted, a budget bureau representative said they would be ready "certainly before Congress reconvenes."

The senator added that "even at this late date, less than a week before Congress reconvenes, they have not been received." Congress meets next Tuesday.

The HHFA announcement, by Acting Administrator Frank J. Meistrell, gave no details of the administration plan. Meistrell said the agency "has done considerable research to determine whether this need can be met through a system of flood insurance or some other more feasible plan." He did not elaborate.

Sen. Lehman (D.-N.Y.), who conducted the Banking Committee hearings on the subject, also called yesterday for action. He released a letter to Eisenhower in which he asked that the program be submitted "within the next few days, if possible."

MEANTIME other relief problems faced the new Congress as a result two major floods in New England and elsewhere in the East and the more recent floods in California, Nevada and Oregon.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) exhausted its disaster loan authority on the New England rehabilitation and said it will need increased funds to help meet needs in the far west. Normal loans at 6 per cent interest are now being made there with the understanding they will be reduced to the 3 per cent disaster rate after Congress acts.

A civil defense spokesman said the President's 25 million dollar emergency fund now has only 5 to 6 millions left, and "apparently will have to be replenished by a supplemental appropriation" from Congress.

Grand Union Earnings

East Paterson, N. J.—Lansing P. Shield, president of the Grand Union Company, announced for the three months ended November 26, 1955, record net earnings after all taxes and depreciation of $948,126 compared with $801,401 in the corresponding quarter a year ago. This is equivalent to 52 cents per share after preferred requirements on the 1,714,603 shares of common stock presently outstanding. No direct comparisons with prior periods are available because of the issuance of common stock during the year in connection with the conversion of debentures, stock split-up, stock dividends, acquisition of subsidiary, and exercise of stock options.

Catholic Charities

In the 1955 annual appeal of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York the parishes and the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity reached a total of $2,542,374.92, the highest in their history, it was announced Wednesday at a meeting of the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity by John A. Coleman, executive chairman, in the Empire State Club, Empire State Building.

Retired Conductor Dies

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 29 (AP)—Charles O. Booth, 74, of 77 Dogwood road, Peekskill, N. Y., died yesterday in Alexian Brothers Hospital. He had been ill for two weeks. Booth, a retired N. Y. Central Railroad conductor, had been a member of the Van Cortlandtville, N. Y., school board. Funeral services will be held at the Daniel J. Leonard Home at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

Firemen Check Calls

Firemen were called by both telephone and a box alarm this morning for a brush fire off Lawrence street in the Waters' woods area. The first call was at 11:09 a. m., and the box alarm at 11:14 was sounded from Box 2511, Hasbrouck and Delaware avenues. Cornell and Central stations Cordts Hose Company and Wicks Engine Company responded.

January Egg Month

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Gov. Harriman today designated next month as "January Egg Month" and urged New Yorkers to eat more eggs. He said in a proclamation that poultry flocks in New York state produced about 2½ billion eggs this year and egg sales at the farms approximated 100 million dollars.

Railroad Loses

in which he enjoined the railroad from interfering with the use of the crossing and directing that the crossing be restored. He held in his findings that the crossing had been in use for many years and the plaintiffs had a right to its use.

An appeal was taken by the railroad and the Appellate Division has affirmed the decision of Judge Heffernan and directed the railroad to permit use of the crossing.

The crossing in dispute is that which crosses the Wallkill Valley tracks about a quarter of a mile north of the Binnewater station and was used for years as a part of the Binnewater-Whiteport road over the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Company property and which led to the property previously owned by Binnewater Lake Ice Company and Williams Lake, as well as to several bungalow properties on the Fifth Binnewater or Williams Lake.

These properties are located north and west of the railroad and are owned by Clayton E. Jenkins and wife, Howard H. Grimm and wife, Webb Kniffen and wife, Claude L. Needes, Harry D. Sutton and wife and the Ulster County Construction Company, Inc., which leases its property to Walter Williams, plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs contended the crossing had been in use for many years over the railroad line which had been in operation for over 50 years. They contended the road had existed prior to the building of the railroad and that the route had been continuously in use ever since the railroad was built and that its use for upwards of 50 years gave them right of use under a "claims of right." They contended their right had never been disputed and they had acquired right to use the road, including the crossing over the railroad by prescription.

On February 3, 1949, after a couple of very serious accidents at the crossing which resulted in loss of life, and for which the railroad paid heavy damages, a barrier was placed and the crossing planks taken up.

The action for restoration of use and replacement of the planking was commenced. An injunction to prevent the railroad from closing the crossing was sought.

Claims that the crossing was a private crossing and open only to lands while they were under common ownership were made by the railroad which contended there followed no right to the owners after division of the land.

THE PROPERTY of Ulster County Construction Company, Inc., was acquired by the Williams family in February 1929 and until the crossing was closed in 1949 it had been used as an access to the resort hotel at Williams Lake. The accidents at the crossing were in 1940 and 1943.

On July 16, 1946 the railroad leased to Walter Williams lands on the westerly side of the railroad for a new road which does not cross the tracks. The railroad contended following this transaction there was no longer need for use of the crossing route.

Property owners along the lake contended that their right to use the crossing had not been affected by the acquiring of the alternate route by Williams for access to his premises. They contended their right to use the crossing route still existed and asked its use be restored.

Guests at Williams Lake who occupy bungalows west of the crossing, it was contended had to travel either by foot over the barricaded crossing or travel a long distance over the new route to reach the dining room at the lake resort. Use of the crossing by these people was sought.

IN THE DECISION of the Appellate Division it is held there is no evidence that the use by the plaintiffs was "under a claim of right" and that the evidences does not rebut the presumption that the use by plaintiffs was anything but permissive.

The decision of the Appellate Division holds that "the proof shows beyond dispute that the use was open, notorious and uninterrupted" and that the findings of Official Referee Heffernan were justified and that the respondents have acquired a right of way by prescription, and that the crossing should be opened to use.

Judgment is affirmed with costs.

Women Taking Over Men's Work

Electronics Are Seen Aid to Once Frail Sex

BY SAM DAWSON

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The frail sex grows steadily stronger—industrially and financially—thanks to electronics and statistics.

With more women working all the time, and at jobs once considered only man's work, making more money and living longer to spend it, business increasingly tilts its products and processes their way.

..AND THE MORE push button the better, as the banks have found in their quest for a stable labor force.

At the other end of the battle move in the insurance game to between the sexes, there's a let women shave three years off their age for premium payment as well as conversational purposes.

In the products field, power steering made its first great appeal to the woman driver. Men liked it but wouldn't admit they weren't strong enough to park a car easily.

Electric typewriters ease the daily toil of the tired stenographer. Prepared and prepackaged foods make homework easier for feminine breadwinners returning from the office or factory.

NOW AUTOMATION may see to it that the female with pushbuttons at her fingertips is the equal of the male in industry.

And the women will tell you it's high time, too. Around one third of the 54 million of the nation's women over 14 years of age are reported working now. Their total number is one third higher than before World War 2.

Some 18 million women at work are under 65 and about a half million others are past that age. In the younger group the greatest percentage are in clerical or sales jobs. In the older group nearly half are in service jobs. But nearly a third of the younger group and a fifth of the older are doing professional, technical or industrial work.

BANKS, FOR INSTANCE, now employ more women than men. And in some sections of the land there are more women bank vault custodians than men, and more women branch bank managers.

Employment problems plague many banks. While the number of employes has grown 65 per cent since 1939, the turnover is a major headache. At present one fourth of the employes leave each year, on average. And the turnover is especially high among women.

Here, as elsewhere, the big reason is marriage. But the banks are trying to overcome the other reasons by making the work more attractive and equalizing opportunities for jobs as between women and men.

PUSHBUTTON BANKS, one of the big trends of the postwar era, appeal increasingly to women.

Since surveys show that in many sections there are more women than men locking away the money at night and taking it out again in the morning, one maker of safes has come up with a pushbutton door for bank vaults. The Hering-Hall-Marvin Safe Co. of Hamilton, Ohio, says that all the woman banker has to do is touch a fingertip to an electronically controlled button, and then things happen automatically: Massive locking bolts are withdrawn, the pressure system is released, the multi-ton door swings open, the foot-bridge is lowered.

And if the electric power fails? Oh, says the company, then the vault can be operated manually—by any man handy.

Since women are slowly getting their hands on much of the nation's wealth and live longer than men to enjoy it, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance statisticians in Hartford, Conn., are among those who figure she could get an age break on insurance premiums. They have a new policy that lets a woman of 35 pay the same premium as a man of 32. Over a 20 year span she is said to save $1,000 in payments compared to a man really her age.

Men, you can't win any more.

Mother Feeds Two Sons 190 Aspirins, Both Are Serious

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—A 40-year-old mother fed her two young sons 190 aspirin tablets last night, police said, and then summoned help when she could no longer stand their suffering.

The two children, Bruce Blackwell, 8, and Keith, 6, were taken to a hospital in serious condition.

Police said the mother, Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell, gave the tablets to the children after she became upset following a quarrel earlier in the evening with her husband, Joseph, a navy seaman.

Then she called police and asked for help.

DETECTIVES quoted the mother as saying she became depressed over marital difficulties.

Not long after her husband left, the detectives said, Mrs. Blackwell fed each of the children 95 aspirin tablets, and they lapsed into comas.

Near midnight, Mrs. Blackwell said the children appeared to be suffering terribly. She said she could not longer stand it and telephoned police.

Detectives said she told them she had planned to take her own life after her children had died.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

(By the Associated Press)

Those traditional New Year's day favorites, smoked ham and fresh ham, head the list of weekend specials in the nation's food stores. Turkeys remain a popular feature, too.

There are numerous other good buys, for that matter. Loins of pork and pork chops continue on the bargain counter. Frying chickens will be down to four cents a pound in some areas. And there will be specials on chuck roast and prime ribs as well as legs of lamb.

EGG PRICES, on the other hand, are headed higher. One chain is upping prices two cents a dozen in New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, three cents in Detroit and eight cents in Chicago.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture comments that "of the many happy prospects for the New Year, the food outlook is one of the brightest." Examining the picture for January, it observes:

"Heavy marketing of pork will keep meat stores well supplied in January. Although supplies may taper off slightly, prices are expected to remain at lower levels during the month. Output of pork for 1956 is expected to be even higher than 1955's large production.

"BEEF OFFERINGS will remain abundant under continued heavy marketings of fed cattle. All kinds of beef will be plentiful, especially the higher grades. Beef output is expected to continue large in 1956.

"Plenty of broilers and fryers will be available for January meals. Good eating at budget prices makes these tender young chickens especially popular after the holidays."

In the vegetable market, potatoes and onions, long among the outstanding buys, moved up a bit this week. Canadian turnips also edged up. However, produce men continue to regard these three as about the best buys available.

ALSO WORTHWHILE purchases are cabbage, bunched carrots, corn, iceberg lettuce, eggplant, peppers, sweet potatoes and bunched beets. Yams are up a little.

Higher-priced vegetables include topped carrots, beans, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, big Boston and Romaine lettuce, peas, escarole, endive, spinach and squash.

You'll find good values in fruits, particularly in oranges, grapefruit, limes, avocadoes, apples and Emperor and Revere grapes.

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot and never brought to mind?" Certainly not, to our way of thinking . . . especially at the turn of the year. This is our time to extend the warm hand of appreciation to all of you whose friendship and confidence we count among our most treasured possessions. To one and all . . . a very Happy New Year!

—from Borden's.
a new idea in coffee!

—for deeper coffee flavor

Here's Borden's completely new coffee. More than that—a new idea in coffee!

We call it "Rich Roast". That's our way of using gentle heat, to draw out full flavor from a very special blend of premium grade coffee. The result is a cup of coffee that's smooth, rich, heart-warming...above all, with a deeper flavor you'll like at once.

We think you'll agree—here's a wonderful new way to true coffee contentment. Pick up a jar or two of Borden's new "Rich Roast", next time you buy coffee—and enjoy deeper coffee flavor.

Teachers Seek Adequate Laws On Job Security

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP)—A campaign for "adequate" teacher job security laws in all states is planned by the American Federation of Teachers.

Carl J. Megel, president of the union, said Wednesday it will seek approval of such legislation by state lawmakers in 1956 and 1957 sessions.

The move, discussed at a meeting of the federation's executive council, is designed to protect teachers from unfair discharge.

AN ADEQUATE law was described as "one which provides that teachers after reasonable probation—two or three years—go under tenure which protects them from being discharged at any time without hearing and proven cause."

Megel said that 75 per cent of the more than one million public school teachers in the United States "are employed from year to year, many without contracts." He added that they "are subject to numerous fringe requirements as well as discharge without notice or hearing."

One of the first things you learn about playing bridge is the importance of preventing the opponents from ruffing away your good tricks. It is impossible however, to learn this lesson too well.

When today's hand was played, West began by leading the king and then the ace of clubs. South ruffed the second club and promptly drew four rounds of trumps in order to prevent anybody from ruffing a diamond.

He had his wish, for nobody ruffed a diamond. When South eventually had to lead diamonds, however, East took the ace of diamonds and returned a club. South didn't have a single trump left to stop the run of the clubs, and the result was quite embarrassing. He failed to make his contract by a rather wide margin.

It was quite correct for South to ruff the second round of clubs, but he shouldn't have been in such a hurry to draw trumps. Instead, he should lead a diamond at once.

This gives East the chance to take the ace of diamonds and return a diamond for West to ruff. The defenders then have three tricks but have no chance to win a fourth. There is no way for West to get back to the East hand for another diamond ruff. The defenders get their one diamond ruff, but South makes his contract.

Portland, Ore. (AP)—For the 35th straight year, Charles Nebergall has been the first person in Multnomah county to pay his taxes. Nebergall doesn't have to go far from his work to make the payment. Blind, he operates the county courthouse cigar store. His taxes, on his home, amounted to $120.

First performance of Tchaikowsky's First Piano Concerto took place in Boston on Oct. 25, 1875, with Hans von Bulow at the piano.

New Hurley

New Hurley, Dec. 29—Roy Denniston, a student at Cornell University, is spending the holiday vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dylewski and daughters, Lois and Dawn, spent the weekend with Mrs. Dylewski's parents at Jeffersonville.

Last Thursday evening a Christmas program was given in the church hall with most of the younger members of the Sunday school taking part. John Paul Tysse and Lois Powell took the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. The program was in charge of Mrs. William Powell and Mrs. Wallace Palen with David Wilkin at the piano. At the close of the program gifts and candy were distributed and an offering was taken for the Dulce Mission.

The services in the New Hurley Reformed Church Sunday morning were largely attended. This service concluded the pastorate of the Rev. John W. Tysse as minister of this church. It began October 1, 1939; and during the 16 years here 161 members were received into the church, 107 children were baptized, and 41 marriages performed. The Rev. Mr. Tysse and family express their grateful thanks to God and the New Hurley Congregation for their loyal and devoted consecration in His service.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. George Sherwood on Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 2:30 p. m.

The Young Women's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Francis Garrison Saturday, Jan. 7, at 2:30 p. m.

At the last congregational meeting, William Tompkins was elected elder and Burton Van Aken a deacon for a term of four years. They will be ordained and installed on Sunday, Jan. 15.

The junior choir, under the direction of Mrs. Wallace Palen, sang during the offertory in the New Hurley Reformed Church Sunday morning.

Cuyler E. Thayer, will preach in the New Hurley Reformed Church Sunday, Jan. 1, at 11 a. m. Mr. Thayer is a senior student in New Brunswick Seminary. His wife will accompany him to New Hurley. His home is in Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell and Miss Barbara Sutton were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright and family New Paltz Monday, Dec. 26.

Miss Reta Dolan, who teaches at the Kendall Central School, is spending the holiday vacation with her mother, Mrs. Myra Dolan.

Nicholas T. Cocks spent the Christmas weekend with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Grill and daughter, Jackuline at Tuckahoe.

Soviet Union Seen Big Victor Over U.S., West

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The outstanding international development of 1955 was the rise and fall of the Geneva spirit.

The balance sheet has yet to be straightened out, but there is not much doubt that in many areas of the cold war, the United States and its western allies lost heavily.

The initiative passed from hand to hand, but at the year's end, it remains firmly in the hands of the Soviet Union, and Moscow is moving with dazzling swiftness.

THE YEAR of the Geneva spirit began with threats, eased into blandishments and wound up with threats. It was a year in which Soviet imperialism adopted a bold new approach, thrusting a foot in the door of the Middle East and stirring up hornet's nests over a broad area of the world.

While there was no fighting that would merit the term "war," in some respects 1955 brought more danger to world peace than any since the perilous days of the Berlin blockade and the beginning of the Korean war. Soviet activity in the Middle East, for example, brought about a situation that could explode into a "little war." Little wars in times like these, fought in such a strategically vital arena, could be extremely dangerous.

THE YEAR BEGAN with threats from Moscow aimed at preventing ratification of the Paris agreements to arm West Germany within NATO. Moscow warned she would annul her friendship treaties with France and Britain. Germany was told ratification would end all hope of unification. Military leaders boasted menacingly of Soviet armed strength. High-ranking members of the Soviet hierarchy accused the United States of preparing for war. It was all to no avail. Ratification went through.

Moscow recognized its failure and changed signals. The smile offensive was on. The Kremlin removed its obstructions to Austrian independence. Communist boss Krushchev and Premier Bulganin humbly made peace with Tito of Yugoslavia. Unification, which the Russians said would die with the Paris pacts, once again was dangled before the West Germans, and Moscow offered to establish diplomatic relations with Chancellor Adenauer's government. India's Nehru and Burma's U Nu, among many others, got red carpet treatment in Moscow. Tourists and delegations crawled all over the Soviet Union. Russian delegations came to the United States—and even said some complimentary things about this country.

THE U. S. S. R. returned the Porkkala base to Finland. Moscow announced it was cutting its armed forces by 640,000—men needed sorely, incidentally, in agriculture and industry. Bulganin announced a "positive attitude" on the west's suggestion for four-power talks, and the "Geneva spirit" was about to be born with the summit meeting of government chiefs.

At Geneva, President Eisenhower scored an initial success with his "open skies" proposal for arms control, which left the Russians flustered. The Russians said they were "studying" it. But in October, the Geneva spirit suffered a rude setback at the foreign ministers conference. It became obvious the Soviet Union would permit a reunified Germany only with the way clear for communism. Toward the year's end the Russians found it safe to blast the Eisenhower air inspection proposal while offering their own idea of atomic weapons control in a form the west could hardly accept.

Tripping through the east, Bulganin and Krushchev made potent propaganda. The initiative was theirs once again.

Would End Service

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Glenn H. Green, operator of three bus routes in east-central New York, has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to go out of business. Green, who started his passenger service by driving a horse-drawn covered wagon for his father, told the commission yesterday that ill health, rising costs and declining revenues made the decision necessary. The routes are from Bloomville to Walton, Walton to Sidney and Oneonta to Richfield Springs.

Holy Name Communion

St. Mary's Holy Name Society will hold its annual Communion and breakfast on Sunday, Jan. 8. The Society will attend the 8 o'clock Mass and the breakfast will follow at Knights of Columbus Hall at 9 o'clock. The Rev. John Fogarty, CSsR, will be guest speaker. He is on vacation from missionary work in Paraguay.

Red Bosses Face Moral Problems In East Europe

BY RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

Vienna, Dec. 29 (AP)—After a decade of control, the Communist governments of Russia's East European satellites confront a rash of moral problems which the Reds always like to ascribe exclusively to the West—alcoholism, juvenile delinquency and prostitution.

Free love and sexual license have brought the satellites a harvest of high venereal disease rates, prostitution and promiscuity.

THE MORAL degeneration is mirrored in occasional outbursts in the Communist press, and further documented and detailed by the reports of hundreds of refugees interviewed by western agencies.

Sexual promiscuity ranks with alcoholism and juvenile delinquency as a plague which the Communist regimes now want to curb.

Mlada Franta, organ of Czechoslovakia's Communist Youth League, says a three-month drive against drunkenness and prostitution in the Czech capital netted 56 boys and 13 girls under the age of 16.

The morals picture is painted especially black in Bulgaria and Poland. Repatriates of Turkish origin say family life in Bulgaria had been sorely disrupted by emancipating youth from parental authority in favor of party allegiance. They report illegitimate births are encouraged by granting support to unwed mothers and their children, who are handed over to the state for a bonus.

HUNGARIAN press reports complain that closing of brothels "did not solve the problem" there.

The port of Szczecin (the former German Stettin) is perhaps the most immoral city in Poland. Dance halls and cafes are crowded with willing pickups.

Conditions prevailing in the camps for harvest and construction workers contribute to immorality, as does the free-and-easy billeting provided youngters at the big youth festivals.

IN LUBLIN, POLAND, an investigation revealed that hundreds of schoolchildren regularly drink alcohol.

In Prague, the Chechoslovak press complains, "Totally drunken nighttime roisterers sleep in stupor on the benches and tables of the central railroad station."

In Hungary, the press complains, "Drunkenness spreads in our Socialist society the anarchy and depravity of a bourgeois life. . . . Alcoholism is a curse."

IN ALL the East European satellite countries, as well as in the Soviet Union, alcoholism is blamed for the loss of millions of manhours in factories and mines and on the farms—a "tremendous damage to the state."

The satellite Communists like to claim that drinking is a curse left by capitalism, but they have a hard time proving it. In Poland, for instance, the Communist press admits that the consumption of alcohol now is twice as great as in prewar capitalist days. And wine consumption is 10 times as great. These statistics were published in Warsaw newspapers.

LOCAL AND partial prohibition of alcohol has been instiuted in Warsaw and Szczecin. Alcohol sales are barred in some cities on paydays and holidays.

The Budapest press complains about drinking youths of 16 or younger. The Czechoslovak press reports forced cures in wide use and says that the district of Liberec alone has eight institutions treating more than 1,000 alcoholics "more than half of whom are chronics."

The press deplores public drunkenness in the streets of such famous spas as Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad) and Marianske Lazne (Marienbad).

IN ROMANIA and Bulgaria, drinking is frequently linked to hooliganism, juvenile delinquency and prostitution.

"Hooliganism" is one of the gravest and most embarrassing problems facing the Communist governments, from Moscow to Prague. Each year tens of thousands of youths are brought into the courts charged with violations ranging from public brawling to bandidtry and murder.

"Hooliganism has become a distressing social plague in our country," wails the Warsaw newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

IN BULGARIA a group of hooligans was caught after a year of attacking and raping women in Sofia. They were sentenced to terms of 7 to 10 years imprisonment.

In Czechoslovakia a special government commission has been appointed to deal with the growing problem of adolescent crime—boys and girls under 15.

And in Mother Russia, hardly a week passes but the press demands stricter police action and new legislation to cope with juvenile crime, which in some places has reached terroristic proportions.

FROM MOSCOW to East Berlin the Reds try to blame their problem on the West. They blame American jazz. They condemn their own "flaming youth" for aping the dress styles of American zoot suiters and English teddy boys. They blame the 'subversive" broadcasts of the Voice of America and the BBC.

And they upbraid their own Communist youth leagues for not whipping the boys and girls into line ideologically, or for not physically chastising the brawlers and boozers.

GE to Export Units

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The General Electric Co. says it will export 19 steam turbine-generator units totaling 648,525 kilowatts in capacity to 11 countries in the coming year.

Area Donations For Coast Flood To Be Voluntary

Ulster county residents will not be asked by the Red Cross to contribute to west coast flood sufferers, but may volunteer funds if they desire to help the organization with its extensive relief program.

It is estimated the Red Cross will spend between four and five million dollars to relieve flood disaster victims in California and other Pacific coast states.

Mrs. William H. Merrill chairman of Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said this area would not be canvassed because of local floods during August and October that did heavy damage.

It cost the local Red Cross more than $220,000 for rehabilitation work in this sector, Mrs. Merrill said.

A telegram from national headquarters advised that previous disaster areas would not be solicited for funds, but said that chapters might accept volunteer contributions.

In the recent floods in California and along the west coast the Red Cross has been giving emergency relief. There have been assigned 115 trained disaster workers to assist chapters, 57 shelters operated over Christmas housing and feeding fore than 20,000 people. Early estimates indicate between 4,000 and 5,000 families will look to Red Cross for long term assistance in getting back on their feet. The estimated cost of this program is between four and five million dollars.

Soviet Union Seen Big Victor Over U.S., West

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The outstanding international development of 1955 was the rise and fall of the Geneva spirit.

The balance sheet has yet to be straightened out, but there is not much doubt that in many areas of the cold war, the United States and its western allies lost heavily.

The initiative passed from hand to hand, but at the year's end, it remains firmly in the hands of the Soviet Union, and Moscow is moving with dazzling swiftness.

THE YEAR of the Geneva spirit began with threats, eased into blandishments and wound up with threats. It was a year in which Soviet imperialism adopted a bold new approach, thrusting a foot in the door of the Middle East and stirring up hornet's nests over a broad area of the world.

While there was no fighting that would merit the term "war," in some respects 1955 brought more danger to world peace than any since the perilous days of the Berlin blockade and the beginning of the Korean war. Soviet activity in the Middle East, for example, brought about a situation that could explode into a "little war." Little wars in times like these, fought in such a strategically vital arena, could be extremely dangerous.

THE YEAR BEGAN with threats from Moscow aimed at preventing ratification of the Paris agreements to arm West Germany within NATO. Moscow warned she would annul her friendship treaties with France and Britain. Germany was told ratification would end all hope of unification. Military leaders boasted menacingly of Soviet armed strength. High-ranking members of the Soviet hierarchy accused the United States of preparing for war. It was all to no avail. Ratification went through.

Moscow recognized its failure and changed signals. The smile offensive was on. The Kremlin removed its obstructions to Austrian independence. Communist boss Krushchev and Premier Bulganin humbly made peace with Tito of Yugoslavia. Unification, which the Russians said would die with the Paris pacts, once again was dangled before the West Germans, and Moscow offered to establish diplomatic relations with Chancellor Adenauer's government. India's Nehru and Burma's U Nu, among many others, got red carpet treatment in Moscow. Tourists and delegations crawled all over the Soviet Union. Russian delegations came to the United States—and even said some complimentary things about this country.

THE U. S. S. R. returned the Porkkala base to Finland. Moscow announced it was cutting its armed forces by 640,000—men needed sorely, incidentally, in agriculture and industry. Bulganin announced a "positive attitude" on the west's suggestion for four-power talks, and the "Geneva spirit" was about to be born with the summit meeting of government chiefs.

At Geneva, President Eisenhower scored an initial success with his "open skies" proposal for arms control, which left the Russians flustered. The Russians said they were "studying" it. But in October, the Geneva spirit suffered a rude setback at the foreign ministers conference. It became obvious the Soviet Union would permit a reunified Germany only with the way clear for communism. Toward the year's end the Russians found it safe to blast the Eisenhower air inspection proposal while offering their own idea of atomic weapons control in a form the west could hardly accept.

Tripping through the east, Bulganin and Krushchev made potent propaganda. The initiative was theirs once again.

Would End Service

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Glenn H. Green, operator of three bus routes in east-central New York, has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to go out of business. Green, who started his passenger service by driving a horse-drawn covered wagon for his father, told the commission yesterday that ill health, rising costs and declining revenues made the decision necessary. The routes are from Bloomville to Walton, Walton to Sidney and Oneonta to Richfield Springs.

Holy Name Communion

St. Mary's Holy Name Society will hold its annual Communion and breakfast on Sunday, Jan. 8. The Society will attend the 8 o'clock Mass and the breakfast will follow at Knights of Columbus Hall at 9 o'clock. The Rev. John Fogarty, CSsR, will be guest speaker. He is on vacation from missionary work in Paraguay.

Red Bosses Face Moral Problems In East Europe

BY RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

Vienna, Dec. 29 (AP)—After a decade of control, the Communist governments of Russia's East European satellites confront a rash of moral problems which the Reds always like to ascribe exclusively to the West—alcoholism, juvenile delinquency and prostitution.

Free love and sexual license have brought the satellites a harvest of high venereal disease rates, prostitution and promiscuity.

THE MORAL degeneration is mirrored in occasional outbursts in the Communist press, and further documented and detailed by the reports of hundreds of refugees interviewed by western agencies.

Sexual promiscuity ranks with alcoholism and juvenile delinquency as a plague which the Communist regimes now want to curb.

Mlada Franta, organ of Czechoslovakia's Communist Youth League, says a three-month drive against drunkenness and prostitution in the Czech capital netted 56 boys and 13 girls under the age of 16.

The morals picture is painted especially black in Bulgaria and Poland. Repatriates of Turkish origin say family life in Bulgaria had been sorely disrupted by emancipating youth from parental authority in favor of party allegiance. They report illegitimate births are encouraged by granting support to unwed mothers and their children, who are handed over to the state for a bonus.

HUNGARIAN press reports complain that closing of brothels "did not solve the problem" there.

The port of Szczecin (the former German Stettin) is perhaps the most immoral city in Poland. Dance halls and cafes are crowded with willing pickups.

Conditions prevailing in the camps for harvest and construction workers contribute to immorality, as does the free-and-easy billeting provided youngsters at the big youth festivals.

IN LUBLIN, POLAND, an investigation revealed that hundreds of schoolchildren regularly drink alcohol.

In Prague, the Chechoslovak press complains, "Totally drunken nighttime roisterers sleep in stupor on the benches and tables of the central railroad station."

In Hungary, the press complains, "Drunkenness spreads in our Socialist society the anarchy and depravity of a bourgeois life. . . . Alcoholism is a curse."

IN ALL the East European satellite countries, as well as in the Soviet Union, alcoholism is blamed for the loss of millions of manhours in factories and mines and on the farms—a "tremendous damage to the state."

The satellite Communists like to claim that drinking is a curse left by capitalism, but they have a hard time proving it. In Poland, for instance, the Communist press admits that the consumption of alcohol now is twice as great as in prewar capitalist days. And wine consumption is 10 times as great. These statistics were published in Warsaw newspapers.

LOCAL AND partial prohibition of alcohol has been instiuted in Warsaw and Szczecin. Alcohol sales are barred in some cities on paydays and holidays.

The Budapest press complains about drinking youths of 16 or younger. The Czechoslovak press reports forced cures in wide use and says that the district of Liberec alone has eight institutions treating more than 1,000 alcoholics "more than half of whom are chronics."

The press deplores public drunkenness in the streets of such famous spas as Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad) and Marianske Lazne (Marienbad).

IN ROMANIA and Bulgaria, drinking is frequently linked to hooliganism, juvenile delinquency and prostitution.

"Hooliganism" is one of the gravest and most embarrassing problems facing the Communist governments, from Moscow to Prague. Each year tens of thousands of youths are brought into the courts charged with violations ranging from public brawling to bandidtry and murder.

"Hooliganism has become a distressing social plague in our country," wails the Warsaw newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

IN BULGARIA a group of hooligans was caught after a year of attacking and raping women in Sofia. They were sentenced to terms of 7 to 10 years imprisonment.

In Czechoslovakia a special government commission has been appointed to deal with the growing problem of adolescent crime—boys and girls under 15.

And in Mother Russia, hardly a week passes but the press demands stricter police action and new legislation to cope with juvenile crime, which in some places has reached terroristic proportions.

FROM MOSCOW to East Berlin the Reds try to blame their problem on the West. They blame American jazz. They condemn their own "flaming youth" for aping the dress styles of American zoot suiters and English teddy boys. They blame the 'subversive" broadcasts of the Voice of America and the BBC.

And they upbraid their own Communist youth leagues for not whipping the boys and girls into line ideologically, or for not physically chastising the brawlers and boozers.

GE to Export Units

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The General Electric Co. says it will export 19 steam turbine-generator units totaling 648,525 kilowatts in capacity to 11 countries in the coming year.

Area Donations For Coast Flood To Be Voluntary

Ulster county residents will not be asked by the Red Cross to contribute to west coast flood sufferers, but may volunteer funds if they desire to help the organization with its extensive relief program.

It is estimated the Red Cross will spend between four and five million dollars to relieve flood disaster victims in California and other Pacific coast states.

Mrs. William H. Merrill chairman of Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said this area would not be canvassed because of local floods during August and October that did heavy damage.

It cost the local Red Cross more than $220,000 for rehabilitation work in this sector, Mrs. Merrill said.

A telegram from national headquarters advised that previous disaster areas would not be solicited for funds, but said that chapters might accept volunteer contributions.

In the recent floods in California and along the west coast the Red Cross has been giving emergency relief. There have been assigned 115 trained disaster workers to assist chapters, 57 shelters operated over Christmas housing and feeding fore than 20,000 people. Early estimates indicate between 4,000 and 5,000 families will look to Red Cross for long term assistance in getting back on their feet. The estimated cost of this program is between four and five million dollars.

Sales Tax . . .

mean more municipal service. The mayor, he said, had done an excellent job in keeping the rate where it is.

OTHERS who spoke and asked questions at the session were Aldermen James K. Ryan, Edwin Radel, William K. Bodenweber, aldermen-elect Frank C. Sass, seventh ward, and Frank J. Zakseski, fourth ward, George Sheldon, Sr., 20 Stephan street, Mrs. Maude Cole, 211 Foxhall avenue, and Wilson V. Boyce, 47 Trenton street.

The audience was composed largely of delegations of city employes including groups from the police and fire departments.

A PRIMARY cause of the higher budget Mayor Stang said was the salary increases. Wages were higher generally he said and those in municipal government were no exception.

"I dare say every man and woman wants to work for a decent wage," he stressed.

"For too long a time," said the mayor, "the salary scale, in our opinion, has been inadequate . . . The city gains immeasurably by having a contented group of employes, and we felt that this year was the time for a realistic budget."

THE SCALE of pay for laborers he said would go up $180 annually, some clerical workers are due to get a $250 raise and others $300, depending upon experience and civil service status. The raise for police department personnel is $420 and for firemen $400.

"We want to have adequate police and fire protection," he said. The pay scale in the past has not been attractive enough to recruits, and he noted that other cities of the size of Kingston are paying more. "At least we have made a start so that we will compare soon with the others."

ACCOUNTING for the tax rate, the breakdown roughly, he said was: county charges $17, debt service $14, deficit 60 cents, library 42 cents, and general government costs $31.

It was noted during the hearing that the salary increases for elective officials amounted to approximately 25 cents.

IN NOTING a new budget arrangement for the recreation department, which now sets it up as an individual department, independent of public works, he said that "we are spending too much for recreation, but we feel that this is a step to some extent toward eliminating juvenile delinquency."

Alderman-elect Sass, the first to speak when the mayor finished, wanted to know about a $3,000 item to be purchased for the city treasurer's office, and the mayor said this was for a new bookkeeping and tabulating machine.

Alderman Ryan, 10th ward, asked if the mayor knew the total amount represented in salary increases alone. The mayor said the figure was not immediately available and Ryan estimated that it was $78,095.20.

THE AMOUNT represented in the tax rate boost through salary increases, it was indicated, was $3.46. Ryan contended that this would not represent 75 per cent of the total increase.

Former Alderman Lenihan said he was speaking as a local property owner and he said he considered it unfair "the way budgets are arrived at," not only on a local but on a national scale.

Lenihan contended that all financial conditions should be made known to the public and he held that elective officials should not be allowed to raise their own salaries because this leaves the way open for other city employes to ask for more pay. He also contended that the city should consider other means of tax revenue such as sales tax or light local taxes on income.

Lenihan said he did not come to the hearing to criticize the mayor and administration politically, but wanted "to ask all to go slow and know what they're doing."

THE FORMER alderman indicated he favored private rather than public housing projects, and he asked the mayor, "Do you think we need the municipal auditorium?" Lenihan said he thought it would be more profitable to the city to dispose of it and "get it back on the tax roll" because he felt it was not being used enough.

That proposal, the mayor said, has been discussed, and there are some who feel that while it is costly to operate, "it fills a public need that the city can well afford." He indicated that more thought would be given to this proposal during the year.

Lenihan said he was not "against recreation" but he wanted to know how it "will work out" as a separate department, and he asked, "Will it be another big department."

THE DEPARTMENT originally started years ago on a small scale, the mayor said, and it has grown. "I think what has been accomplished has been only for the good. You ask if it will grow and grow, and I feel that as the city and its population grows, so must the department grow."

Lenihan wanted to know to what extent the city gains in taxes from the local housing project and, the mayor said only to the extent of the tax value of the land before the buildings were erected.

The former alderman also asked what would happen if, in the future, the housing project became half empty.

If such a situation were to arise, the mayor said, and he deemed it unlikely, the city would be obligated to make up any deficit. Lenihan proposed that the public be advised annually of the financial status of the project. He suggested that the figures be presented in a "half-page ad," in the press, and the mayor noted that the figures "are a matter of public record," and may be inspected by anyone interested.

Alderman-at-large Kelly then asked Mayor Stang "What has the tax rate to do with housing?" and the mayor replied, "Nothing."

Kelly then asked how much of the tax increase was represented in pay boosts for elective officials, and the mayor said abut 25 cents. Then talking on the other pay increases, which he considered urgently necessary Kelly said:

"I THINK we are doing a pretty fair job, despite the fact that there are some complaints. If there were no complaints then something would be wrong."

Kelly then noted that Kingston is a city of 30,000 population and it needs adequate police protection. "Last night," he said, an officer was shot at while investigating a burglary," and this was an example of the kind of work the police are called upon to do.

Then Kelly asked Police Chief Van Buren, who sat near him, "How many patrolmen are on duty tonight?"

The chief replied, "Seven men," and Kelly stressed, "Seven men to protect 30,000 people." Salaries for city employes, Kelly held, must be raised in proportion to those of private industry.

"Now we have more industry coming in. It means more service by the city, and considering this, I think the mayor has done a fine job in keeping the tax rate where it is."

THEN NOTING that all departments are involved in the urgent need for salary boosts, he turned to the mayor and said: "I think you have done a monstrous job in these times when everything is growing."

Public housing, said Kelly, was originally advocated nationally by a party of different political complexion than that of the present city administration. He recalled that when a housing project was first presented it was opposed locally by members of the party which had originally sponsored housing.

Now, he said, the city has a project accommodating 98 families. It costs the city no more than extending sewer and street facilities. "It's a humanitarian program," he said, and now if more is needed downtown, which they are trying to rehabilitate, it will cost the city no more than the other project.

Alderman Ryan wondered how much the city has been growing in population. It seems most of the population growth, he said, is in the town of Ulster. Walter Donnaruma said he felt that the city's population was growing no more than 200 a year.

Mayor Stang said, however, that the city is experiencing much new building, and indicated it is expecting much more in the near future.

George Sheldon Sr., of 20 Stephan street, held that the tax rate would be a burden for a lot of old and middle-aged persons, who work for small wages. He said he thought the rate was ridiculous, and asked: "What are we going to do, lose our homes?"

Wilson Boyce, of 47 Trenton street, asked how much of an increase in the budget did county charges represent. He was told $60,000, and asked why the people out in the county could not be taxed enough to absorb such an increase rather than have it fall on the city.

Under the present theory of government, the mayor said, "we have to help pay for county services which we use, such as the court and county clerk facilities, highway department and others. Boyce said he thought city finances had reached the point where it will be necessary to put parking meters on side streets, and the mayor noted that additional parking meters in the city are to be considered.

Alderman Radel wanted to know about a budget provision calling for the sale of city property for $15,000 and the mayor said the city now owns the Orpheum Theatre building, and it is estimated that its sale will bring at least that price.

Donnarumma wanted to know about the city's future borrowing plans. The mayor said there would be no large amounts, other than for those expenditures which we make every year.

Alderman-elect Zakseski, fourth ward, asked about a "fire-prevention bureau" provision with an estimated $3,500 expenditure. The mayor explained that this was a highly recommended "ounce-of-prevention," move to lessen fire losses.

Many fires are caused by accumulation of refuse and other conditions which are violations of fire laws. The bureau provides for periodical inspections, as a safety measure to prevent violations. Alderman Ryan wanted to know if this was not a building department function, and the mayor said the building department was in charge of installations. Inspections by the new bureau would be made regularly after installations of heating and other units, he said.

It was revealed during the hearing that of the tax rate increase, $1.70 was due to salary increases in the police and fire departments, $1.33 to public works employes, 25 cents to elected officials and 18 cents for pay boosts to city hall employes.

Fugitive Arrested

Alfred L. Van Wyck, 23, of RD 2, Wallkill, was arrested Wednesday by County Investigator Arthur Brown as a fugitive from justice from the state of California. Van Wyck was arraigned before County Judge William A. Kelly and committed to the Ulster county jail in $2,500 bail. Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh said the charges involve issuance of bad checks. Attorney Louis Di Donna was appointed by Judge Kelly to represent Van Wyck. District Attorney Howard C. St. John appeared for The People.

mean more municipal service. The mayor, he said, had done an excellent job in keeping the rate where it is.

OTHERS who spoke and asked questions at the session were Aldermen James K. Ryan, Edwin Radel, William K. Bodenweber, aldermen-elect Frank C. Sass, seventh ward, and Frank J. Zakseski, fourth ward, George Sheldon, Sr., 20 Stephan street, Mrs. Maude Cole, 211 Foxhall avenue, and Wilson V. Boyce, 47 Trenton street.

The audience was composed largely of delegations of city employes including groups from the police and fire departments.

A PRIMARY cause of the higher budget Mayor Stang said was the salary increases. Wages were higher generally he said and those in municipal government were no exception.

"I dare say every man and woman wants to work for a decent wage," he stressed.

"For too long a time," said the mayor, "the salary scale, in our opinion, has been inadequate . . . The city gains immeasurably by having a contented group of employes, and we felt that this year was the time for a realistic budget."

THE SCALE of pay for laborers he said would go up $180 annually, some clerical workers are due to get a $250 raise and others $300, depending upon experience and civil service status. The raise for police department personnel is $420 and for firemen $400.

"We want to have adequate police and fire protection," he said. The pay scale in the past has not been attractive enough to recruits, and he noted that other cities of the size of Kingston are paying more. "At least we have made a start so that we will compare soon with the others."

ACCOUNTING for the tax rate, the breakdown roughly, he said was: county charges $17, debt service $14, deficit 60 cents, library 42 cents, and general government costs $31.

It was noted during the hearing that the salary increases for elective officials amounted to approximately 25 cents.

IN NOTING a new budget arrangement for the recreation department, which now sets it up as an individual department, independent of public works, he said that "we are spending too much for recreation, but we feel that this is a step to some extent toward eliminating juvenile delinquency."

Alderman-elect Sass, the first to speak when the mayor finished, wanted to know about a $3,000 item to be purchased for the city treasurer's office, and the mayor said this was for a new bookkeeping and tabulating machine.

Alderman Ryan, 10th ward, asked if the mayor knew the total amount represented in salary increases alone. The mayor said the figure was not immediately available and Ryan estimated that it was $78,095.20.

THE AMOUNT represented in the tax rate boost through salary increases, it was indicated, was $3.46. Ryan contended that this would not represent 75 per cent of the total increase.

Former Alderman Lenihan said he was speaking as a local property owner and he said he considered it unfair "the way budgets are arrived at," not only on a local but on a national scale.

Lenihan contended that all financial conditions should be made known to the public and he held that elective officials should not be allowed to raise their own salaries because this leaves the way open for other city employes to ask for more pay. He also contended that the city should consider other means of tax revenue such as sales tax or light local taxes on income.

Lenihan said he did not come to the hearing to criticize the mayor and administration politically, but wanted "to ask all to go slow and know what they're doing."

THE FORMER alderman indicated he favored private rather than public housing projects, and he asked the mayor, "Do you think we need the municipal auditorium?" Lenihan said he thought it would be more profitable to the city to dispose of it and "get it back on the tax roll" because he felt it was not being used enough.

That proposal, the mayor said, has been discussed, and there are some who feel that while it is costly to operate, "it fills a public need that the city can well afford." He indicated that more thought would be given to this proposal during the year.

Lenihan said he was not "against recreation" but he wanted to know how it "will work out" as a separate department, and he asked, "Will it be another big department."

THE DEPARTMENT originally started years ago on a small scale, the mayor said, and it has grown. "I think what has been accomplished has been only for the good. You ask if it will grow and grow, and I feel that as the city and its population grows, so must the department grow."

Lenihan wanted to know to what extent the city gains in taxes from the local housing project and, the mayor said only to the extent of the tax value of the land before the buildings were erected.

The former alderman also asked what would happen if, in the future, the housing project became half empty.

If such a situation were to arise, the mayor said, and he deemed it unlikely, the city would be obligated to make up any deficit. Lenihan proposed that the public be advised annually of the financial status of the project. He suggested that the figures be presented in a "half-page ad," in the press, and the mayor noted that the figures "are a matter of public record," and may be inspected by anyone interested.

Alderman-at-large Kelly then asked Mayor Stang "What has the tax rate to do with housing?" and the mayor replied, "Nothing."

Kelly then asked how much of the tax increase was represented in pay boosts for elective officials, and the mayor said abut 25 cents. Then talking on the other pay increases, which he considered urgently necessary Kelly said:

"I THINK we are doing a pretty fair job, despite the fact that there are some complaints. If there were no complaints then something would be wrong."

Kelly then noted that Kingston is a city of 30,000 population and it needs adequate police protection. "Last night," he said, an officer was shot at while investigating a burglary," and this was an example of the kind of work the police are called upon to do.

Then Kelly asked Police Chief Van Buren, who sat near him, "How many patrolmen are on duty tonight?"

The chief replied, "Seven men," and Kelly stressed, "Seven men to protect 30,000 people." Salaries for city employes, Kelly held, must be raised in proportion to those of private industry.

"Now we have more industry coming in. It means more service by the city, and considering this, I think the mayor has done a fine job in keeping the tax rate where it is."

THEN NOTING that all departments are involved in the urgent need for salary boosts, he turned to the mayor and said: "I think you have done a monstrous job in these times when everything is growing."

Public housing, said Kelly, was originally advocated nationally by a party of different political complexion than that of the present city administration. He recalled that when a housing project was first presented it was opposed locally by members of the party which had originally sponsored housing.

Now, he said, the city has a project accommodating 98 families. It costs the city no more than extending sewer and street facilities. "It's a humanitarian program," he said, and now if more is needed downtown, which they are trying to rehabilitate, it will cost the city no more than the other project.

Alderman Ryan wondered how much the city has been growing in population. It seems most of the population growth, he said, is in the town of Ulster. Walter Donnaruma said he felt that the city's population was growing no more than 200 a year.

Mayor Stang said, however, that the city is experiencing much new building, and indicated it is expecting much more in the near future.

George Sheldon Sr., of 20 Stephan street, held that the tax rate would be a burden for a lot of old and middle-aged persons, who work for small wages. He said he thought the rate was ridiculous, and asked: "What are we going to do, lose our homes?"

Wilson Boyce, of 47 Trenton street, asked how much of an increase in the budget did county charges represent. He was told $60,000, and asked why the people out in the county could not be taxed enough to absorb such an increase rather than have it fall on the city.

Under the present theory of government, the mayor said, "we have to help pay for county services which we use, such as the court and county clerk facilities, highway department and others. Boyce said he thought city finances had reached the point where it will be necessary to put parking meters on side streets, and the mayor noted that additional parking meters in the city are to be considered.

Alderman Radel wanted to know about a budget provision calling for the sale of city property for $15,000 and the mayor said the city now owns the Orpheum Theatre building, and it is estimated that its sale will bring at least that price.

Donnarumma wanted to know about the city's future borrowing plans. The mayor said there would be no large amounts, other than for those expenditures which we make every year.

Alderman-elect Zakseski, fourth ward, asked about a "fire-prevention bureau" provision with an estimated $3,500 expenditure. The mayor explained that this was a highly recommended "ounce-of-prevention," move to lessen fire losses.

Many fires are caused by accumulation of refuse and other conditions which are violations of fire laws. The bureau provides for periodical inspections, as a safety measure to prevent violations. Alderman Ryan wanted to know if this was not a building department function, and the mayor said the building department was in charge of installations. Inspections by the new bureau would be made regularly after installations of heating and other units, he said.

It was revealed during the hearing that of the tax rate increase, $1.70 was due to salary increases in the police and fire departments, $1.33 to public works employes, 25 cents to elected officials and 18 cents for pay boosts to city hall employes.

Fugitive Arrested

Alfred L. Van Wyck, 23, of RD 2, Wallkill, was arrested Wednesday by County Investigator Arthur Brown as a fugitive from justice from the state of California. Van Wyck was arraigned before County Judge William A. Kelly and committed to the Ulster county jail in $2,500 bail. Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh said the charges involve issuance of bad checks. Attorney Louis Di Donna was appointed by Judge Kelly to represent Van Wyck. District Attorney Howard C. St. John appeared for The People.

Stengel Would Trade

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Casey Stengel, crusty manager of the New York Yankees, came home from an around-the-world trip today with the comment that he's willing to do some baseball trading but "I won't give my ball club away." "I'm not going to trade that fellow, Mickey Mantle," he said, "or Phil Rizzuto or Yogi (Berra). They have been with me a long time and helped us win a lot of pennants." Then Casey reconsidered and said: "Of course, if Rizzuto could better himself, I wouldn't stand in his way."

Friendly Nations

economic aid to Europe was launched in 1948, however, Congress did approve legislation which set forth the desirability of a four-year program. The actual money to implement it, however, was voted on a year-to-year basis.

INFORMED officials said today the administration has decided to ask again for some kind of long-term pledge to allow greater flexibility in foreign aid planning.

President Eisenhower, they said, probably will mention such a new approach in his State of the Union message Jan. 5, but the detailed administration plan will not be unveiled until later.

Officials who are helping draft it emphasized the administration will seek only the right to make a "moral commitment" to back a specific foreign aid project over a long-term period. Congress still would decide whether to appropriate the funds each year, regardless of any such commitment.

THESE INFORMANTS said further the administration would expect to use any such new authority only when necessary to encourage a country to go ahead with a worthwhile long-range project it might otherwise abandon.

They said, for example, that such authority would allow this country to assure Egypt that American dollars will be forthcoming over a 10-year period to help it with its long-cherished Aswan Dam on the Nile.

IT WOULD ALSO permit the State Department to pledge continuing support to such programs as India's five-year economic development program.

The program to be presented to Congress is not finally drafted but will be completed some time in January, officials said. They added that a 10-year period has been agreed upon as the maximum time commitment, but no firm understanding has yet been reached on the maximum sum to any one nation.

Most officials are reported thinking in terms of a billion-dollar maximum, with authority to spend up to 100 million dollars annually.

Sen. George indicated the foreign aid reappraisal he has in mind should take into account the changes in the international climate which have taken place since Congress adjourned in August.

These changes include the substantial evaporation of the era of world good feeling engendered at the Geneva summit conference and a stepped up Russian program of competitive economic aid to countries in Asia and the Middle East.

mas period. But an Associated Press survey showed the final count was 609—an all-time record for any holiday.

The telegrams to the governors said:

"We feel the toll of more than 600 deaths from highway accidents constitutes a national emergency that must be met just as floods, fires and other major disasters are met—by emergency action.

"THIS NATION cannot afford to experience or tolerate another toll comparable to the one over the last weekend. We believe emergency action can cut the toll over New Year's. Let's all work together to do it."

Such action is being contemplated by several states.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois announced he is considering calling out the National Guard to help patrol the highways. He would have to declare an emergency in the state in order to call out the guard.

Bird Continues Flight South by Plane Ride

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 29 (AP)—A tardy loon will continue its southward journey today after hitching a plane ride here from Syracuse, N. Y.

The 10-pound bird arrived aboard an American Airlines plane last night and was met by Mrs. Fred Laskey, a Nashville birdwatcher.

The loon got its aerial assist after it became stranded Monday and nearly starved on the ice of a lake near Syracuse. The creature—which eats fish and must have open water on which to take off—was turned over to Benjamin Burtt, a Syracuse University professor and bird columnist for the Syracuse Post-Standard.

He aranged the plane trip and communicated with Mrs. Laskey.

Mrs. Laskey said she would free the bird on a lake here today.

Moscow, Dec. 29 (AP)—Cleveland financier Cyrus Eaton has been hailed by Russia's government organ, Izvestia, for his "sensibel observations" on East-West coexistence. Viktor Poltarasky, one of the seven Soviet journalists who toured the United States last fall, wrote of the group's meeting with Eaton. "Millionaire" Eaton, said Poltarasky," looks soberly on what is going on in the world and told us emphatically he supports peaceful coexistence and cultural contacts between the United States and the Soviet Union."

Miss Joan E. Souers Betrothal Announced

JOAN E. SOUERS

(Pennington)

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Souers of Hinsdale street announce the engagement of their daughter, Joan Elizabeth, to Douglas Arthur Buddenhagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buddenhagen of 9 Harrison street.

Miss Souers is a graduate of Kingston High School and St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing and is on the nursing staff of Kingston Hospital.

Her fiance, a graduate of Kingston High School, is a senior at Union College in Schenectady. He is majoring in electrical engineering and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

A June wedding is planned.

Werner-Lessick Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Werner of 23 Chambers street announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith, to Irwin Lessick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lessick, 100 Pearl street.

Miss Werner is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by IBM in Kingston.

Her fiance is the assistant manager of the National Shoe Store in Kingston.

A summer wedding is planned.

DeWitt Introduces Assembly Line Work To Dayton Schools

Mrs. Howard Irvis, wife of the Rev. Howard Irvis, pastor of Mount Tabor AME Zion Church in Catskill, told today how her brother, Donald DeWitt, son of Cornelius DeWitt, former resident of Kingston, introduced the production line system to his industrial arts classes at Wogaman School in Dayton, O.

Mr. DeWitt, who is a graduate of New Paltz High School and Wilberforce University in Xenia, O., believes youngsters should sample the modern methods of manufacturing and so applied the concept of a production line into a Christmas toy project.

The project had a two-fold purpose. The first was to provide youngsters with toys for the holidays and the second was to introduce the eighth grade pupils to the assembly line.

The students made a sleigh and reindeer combination and there were quite a number of parts to the set. Each of the 40 boys enrolled in the class was assigned one operation. One kept the stock rolling, another traced the design while still another cut the rough parts.

Mr. DeWitt feels there is another lesson to be learned from the production line.

"A lesson the pupils learn is that of cooperation, and they also learn the pride of accomplishment," he said.

Thomas DeWitt of 21 Franklin street, uncle of the instructor and a real estate broker, was also proud of his nephew's successful idea.

Donald DeWitt lives at 756 LaSalle drive, Dayton, O., with his wife, the former Geraldine Streibling of Washington, Pa., and his three children, Donald, Karen and Mark.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN G. JOHNSON

(John L. Crosby)

McAlister-Johnson Nuptials Held

Miss Catherine Ruth McAlister, daughter of Mrs. Blanche McAlister of Burlington, Kans. and the late Fred G. McAlister, became the bride of A/1c John Gregory Johnson, son of Mrs. Helen Johnson, 16 West Chester street, Monday, Dec. 26, at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church. The Rev. Alfred Glancy performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Frank Rafferty was at the organ and Nan Kelly sang, Mother at Your Feet Is Kneeling and the Ave Maria.

The bride was given in marriage by James Johnson, brother of the bridegroom.

Miss McAlister wore a gown of white lace over satin and a finger tip veil. Her single strand pearls with teardrop pearl earrings to match were a gift from the bridegroom. Miss McAlister carried a white orchid on a lace covered prayer book.

Mrs. James Johnson, of Mt. Marion, was the matron of honor and she wore an amber colored ballerina length gown and carried a spray of roses.

Best man was Orville Giles of 100 Boulevard and ushers included Bill Haber, 46 Grant street, Walter Meyer, 124 Newkirk avenue.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Helen Johnson, 16 West Chester street for approximately 50 guests.

Miss McAlister is a graduate of Burlington High School, Burlington, Kans. and is employed by Hallmark Card Inc., Topeka, Kans.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Kingston High School and is now stationed at Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kan.

For her wedding trip to New York city, the bride wore a black and green two piece dress with gold and black accessories.

The couple will reside in Topeka.

REIGN OVER YMCA YOUTH CENTER BALL—Pat Brady and Robert Harvey were the reigning king and queen for the first YMCA Youth Center Christmas Ball held Friday, Dec. 23 in the YMCA building. The youth center was beautifully decorated complete with Christmas tree and glowing fireplace. Santa Claus, in the person of Lou Schafer, YMCA general secretary, also joined in the festivities. Calling on Newcomers

A reader tells me: 'You have always said that the older residents are supposed to call on newcomers to the community. I would like to know if this same rule applies when the newcomers are very important people and their neighbors just average middle-class people. A family of high-social position have just moved to this community. Heretofore I have always called on newcomers but I rather hesitate to call on this family for fear of being thought a 'social climber.' On the other hand, I don't want to be unfriendly. Will you please advise me what is proper in this situation?"

It is always entirely proper for the older inhabitants to go and call upon newcomers. That is being friendly and courteous. Whether the friendship develops further depends upon the interests they have in common.

Sweet Sixteen Birthday Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I am having a sweet sixteen party shortly and in order to have an even number of boys and girls, I am asking each girl to bring a boy and each boy to bring a girl. Will you please tell me how I can word the invitations?

Answer: Word your invitations as follows: "Dear Mary (or John), Will you bring a boy (or girl) friend with you and come to my party the 10th of February at eight o'clock."

Business Suit vs. Dinner Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be proper for me to go to a dinner party dressed in a business suit when all the other men will be wearing dinner coats? This is the situation: I received an invitation to a dinner party at a private club. The invitation stipulates "Black Tie." However, I am only visiting in this city and did not bring evening clothes with me. Must I decline the invitation because of this?

Answer: I would say that a dark blue business suit with dark blue bow tie would be permissible with men who are wearing tuxedos, but it would be best to telephone your host (or hostess) and ask for his (or her) approval.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Beatty entertained Mr. and Mrs. Winchell Atkins and children, Mrs. Floyd Davis and Mr. and Mrs. James Cannizzaro at Christmas dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas and son, Martin, of Alabama, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Petersen at 116 Wrentham street. They will return to Alabama on New Year's Day.

Home Extension Service News

LOMONTVILLE UNIT met Thursday, Dec. 22 for its regular business meeting. A Christmas party was held and gifts were exchanged.

Mrs. Gertrude Frances and Mrs. Oscar Kafka were the cohostesses. Present were the Mmes. Carl Dedy, Carlton Bowers, Otto Kern, Stephan Maidl, Raymond LeFevre, Walter Volembo, Gorden Eckert, Julia Johnston, Henry Rygh and Matthew Spireng.

With the coming of the new year, extension service activities in New York state will be conducted under a new name, but the program will remain unchanged according to Miss Everice Parsons, Ulster county home demonstration agent. The county organization will be known as the Ulster County Extension Service Association. In the Home Demonstration Department of this organization, local groups formerly known as home bureau units, will be called home demonstartion units.

"The change in name, made necessary by law, will in no way affect the quality of program offered women who participate in home demonstration work," according to Mrs. Orrilla Butts, state leader of home demonstration agents. "As in the past, subject matter training will be offered to agents and local leaders at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University. Specialists from this college also will continue to conduct training schools in the counties."

In Ulster county, the home demonstration program is guided by Mrs. Millard Davis, Kerhonkson, chairman; Mrs. William Cranston, Kingston, vice-chairman; Mrs. Thomas Powers, Clintondale, secretary; Mrs. Earl Haley, Ellenville; Mrs. William McNamee, West Hurley; Mrs. Carlton Beach, High Falls; Mrs. David Bell, Milton; Mrs. Frank Exman, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Thomas Goodman, Kingston.

This group works closely with the home demonstration agent on program, policy, finances, and organization within the county.

Grange News

LAKE KATRINE GRANGE will meet Tuesday, Jan. 3, instead of the usual meeting night on Monday.

The Grange Christmas party was a special occasion preceded by a covered dish supper, and followed by refreshments for members and visitors, after the meeting and entertainment. Lecturer Virginia Hookey had an excellent program, and Santa Morehouse was his jolly self. There was the usual gift exchange to add to the fun.

The committee for the month will be chairmaned by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Morehouse, with these assisting: Sam Bernstein, Mrs. Linda Dennis, William Elliot, Mrs. Goldie and Clyde Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Parran Gates, Miss Eleanor Morehouse, Mrs. Mary Munier, Mrs. Katherine Roosa, Carmine Sabino, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Troyan.

The lecturer's program will feature Harry Carle. His topic will be the history of Lake Katrine.

Bible Marathan Ends

Wyckoff, N. J., Dec. 29 (AP)—A marathon Bible reading program—a Christmas gift by teenaged members of the Wyckoff Reformed Church—ended today after more than 73 hours. As the last of some 75 youngsters finished reading the final chapter of the Book of Revelation at 12:15 a. m., the church bell rang 66 times, once for each book of the Bible.

Home Extension Service News

LOMONTVILLE UNIT met Thursday, Dec. 22 for its regular business meeting. A Christmas party was held and gifts were exchanged.

Mrs. Gertrude Frances and Mrs. Oscar Kafka were the cohostesses. Present were the Mmes. Carl Dedy, Carlton Bowers, Otto Kern, Stephan Maidl, Raymond LeFevre, Walter Volembo, Gorden Eckert, Julia Johnston, Henry Rygh and Matthew Spireng.

With the coming of the new year, extension service activities in New York state will be conducted under a new name, but the program will remain unchanged according to Miss Everice Parsons, Ulster county home demonstration agent. The county organization will be known as the Ulster County Extension Service Association. In the Home Demonstration Department of this organization, local groups formerly known as home bureau units, will be called home demonstartion units.

"The change in name, made necessary by law, will in no way affect the quality of program offered women who participate in home demonstration work," according to Mrs. Orrilla Butts, state leader of home demonstration agents. "As in the past, subject matter training will be offered to agents and local leaders at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University. Specialists from this college also will continue to conduct training schools in the counties."

In Ulster county, the home demonstration program is guided by Mrs. Millard Davis, Kerhonkson, chairman; Mrs. William Cranston, Kingston, vice-chairman; Mrs. Thomas Powers, Clintondale, secretary; Mrs. Earl Haley, Ellenville; Mrs. William McNamee, West Hurley; Mrs. Carlton Beach, High Falls; Mrs. David Bell, Milton; Mrs. Frank Exman, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Thomas Goodman, Kingston.

Free World Steel Output Ahead of Communist Lands

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The free world widened its superiority in steelmaking over Russia and other Communist-dominated nations in 1955, the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly said today.

The free world poured 223 million tons in 1955 compared with 68 million tons by Red nations whereas the 1954 free nations produced 182 million tons compared with 62 million by Communist lands, it said.

A SURVEY by Iron Age showed that the free nations of Europe, Asia and the United States boosted their steel output in 1955 by 22.5 per cent over 1954 production while Russia and its satellites increased their production by only 10.5 per cent.

Under the impetus of the biggest economic boom in its history, the United States increased its production 32 per cent while Russia gained only 10 per cent, producing 49,600,000 tons this year compared with 45,300,000 tons in 1954. United States production this year is estimated at 116,500,000 tons compared with 88,300,000 tons last year.

TOTAL WORLD output was estimated at 293 million tons compared with 245 million in 1954, an increase of 48 million tons. Of this increase the United States accounted for about 28,200,000 tons, or about 59 per cent.

At the yearend, steel demand in the United States was straining the industry's ability to produce despite a slight letdown in the automotive production race. The only apparent effect of the slowing down in Detroit was a tendency to withdraw from costly conversion steel arrangements.

THE HOLIDAY season brought a letdown in steel production and shipments but the industry is trying to hold this to a minimum in view of prospects for full order books through the first half of 1956.

Iron Age said that the outlook for major consuming industries is such that loss of even a small tonnage is important.

Two Are Indicted

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Two men have been indicted for allegedly hatching an elaborate plot to free prisoners from the Federal House of Detention. The Indictment filed yesterday named Frank Piscitello, 35, now in the dentention house, and Florio Isabella, 44, who spent a week there last September. The two are charged with conspiring with each other and with others to effect an escape. The detention house holds 200 prisoners.

Christmas Party Held by Rotarians

The Kingston Rotary Club's annual Christmas party for the children of the local Rotarians was held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. There were 160 in attendance.

An appropriate musical program was enjoyed by the Rotarians and guests. Sam Scudder presided at the piano and Cameron Rylance led the singing.

U. S. Protecting Saipan People In Trade Affairs

Chalan Kanoa, Saipan, Dec. 29 (AP) — No outside businessman can set foot on this island wrested from Japan in 1944. The United States sees to that.

"We have an obligation to the United Nations to protect the local people," says Cmdr. Charles E. Miller, Saipan's naval administrator. "Until they are in a postion to compete evenly, no foreigner will be permitted to land in Saipan for business."

THAT GOES even for businessmen of the United States, which administers Saipan under UN trusteeship agreement.

Ignacio Benavente, 5-foot mayor of Saipan, says:

"We are very much happier now, better off than any other time. We have more luxuries. We are governing ourselves.

"Under the Japanese, all we could aspire for was to be an interpreter, a policeman or a stevedore."

JAPAN OCCUPIED Saipan under a League of Nations mandate, Earlier, Saipan was under the German flag.

"We have plans for establishing a high school here, at least a vocational high school," the mayor continued. "We have a municipal legislature composed of 15 members, half elected every year."

The legislature passes laws for the seven villages scattered over the 47 square miles of land.

..AGRICULTURE, the principal support of the economy, has fallen off, the mayor concedes.

For one thing, public works projects have provided islanders with an easier means of livelihood. For another, there is a shortage of commercial transportation for the fresh vegetables that used to go to Guam.

BUT SAIPAN'S topsoil is rich, suitable for both general and vegetable farming.

"We can easily live on our land and still export some produce," the mayor said.

Miller, the administrator, hails from West Chester, Pa. He says the Saipanese "practically are doing everything here" as far as governing themselves.

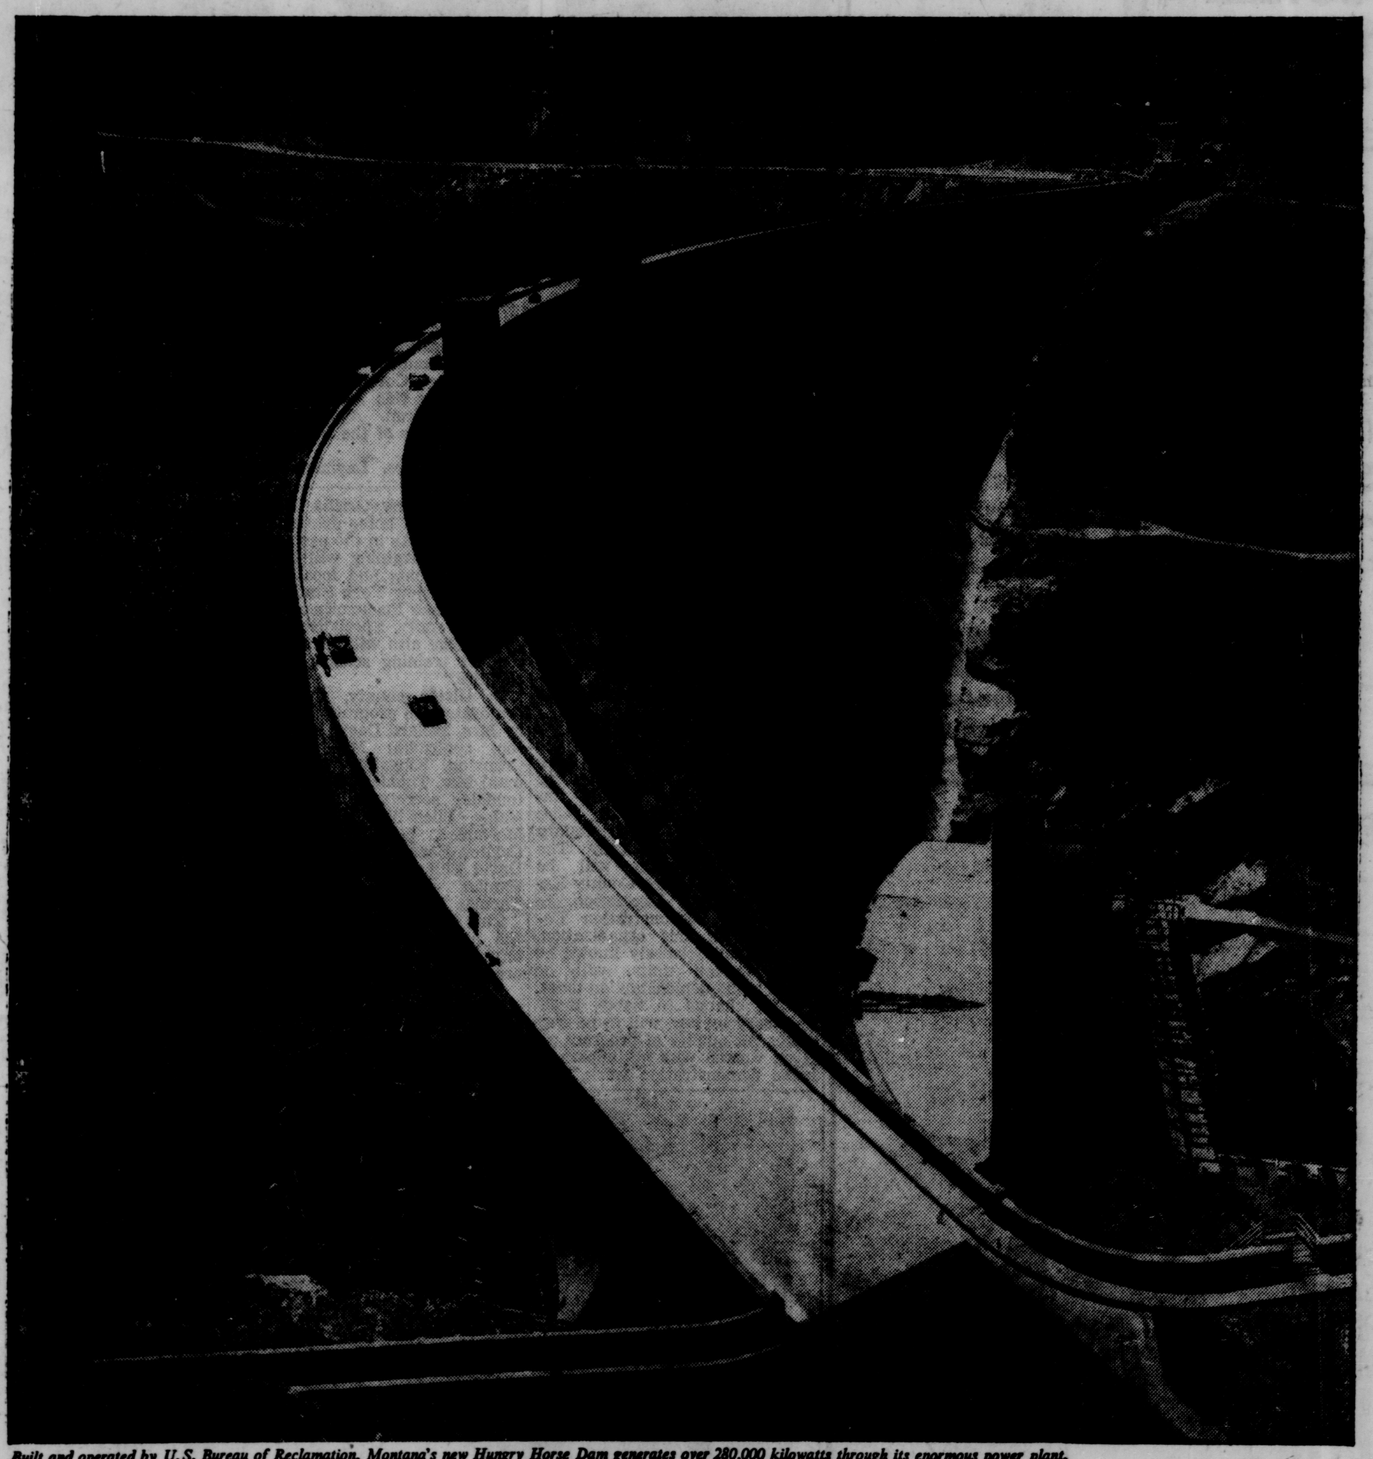

On the economic side, the Navy is teaching farmers the latest agricultural methods. A cross-breeding program has been launched to improve domestic cattle herds. Brahmas or crosses of Brahmas with Angus, Herefords and shorthorns graze on the grasslands.

Lake Susupe, largest lake in the Marianas, has been restocked with "tilapia"—wonder fish—and will be opened to Saipanese fishermen next year.

It takes a GIANT...

It takes a giant to develop the massive amounts of power today's production requires.

But it takes no less a giant to generate the sales power your advertising requires. When it comes to sales power, the newspaper stands like a solitary giant—a giant who lives in every town.

Newspaper circulation is at an all-time high. Over 55,000,000 newspapers are bought daily. No matter what you sell, you'll be able to sell it faster with newspapers.

Last year advertisers spent $2,695,000,000 in newspapers—more than they spent in radio, TV, magazines and outdoor combined!

Today, every selling job is a giant selling job. Use a giant to do that job. Use the newspaper!

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers.

Free World Steel Output Ahead of Communist Lands

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The free world widened its superiority in steelmaking over Russia and other Communist-dominated nations in 1955, the Iron Age, national metalworking weekly said today.

The free world poured 223 million tons in 1955 compared with 68 million tons by Red nations whereas the 1954 free nations produced 182 million tons compared with 62 million by Communist lands, it said.

A SURVEY by Iron Age showed that the free nations of Europe, Asia and the United States boosted their steel output in 1955 by 22.5 per cent over 1954 production while Russia and its satellites increased their production by only 10.5 per cent.

Under the impetus of the biggest economic boom in its history, the United States increased its production 32 per cent while Russia gained only 10 per cent, producing 49,600,000 tons this year compared with 45,300,000 tons in 1954. United States production this year is estimated at 116,500,000 tons compared with 88,300,000 tons last year.

TOTAL WORLD output was estimated at 293 million tons compared with 245 million in 1954, an increase of 48 million tons. Of this increase the United States accounted for about 28,200,000 tons, or about 59 per cent.

At the yearend, steel demand in the United States was straining the industry's ability to produce despite a slight letdown in the automotive production race. The only apparent effect of the slowing down in Detroit was a tendency to withdraw from costly conversion steel arrangements.

THE HOLIDAY season brought a letdown in steel production and shipments but the industry is trying to hold this to a minimum in view of prospects for full order books through the first half of 1956.

Iron Age said that the outlook for major consuming industries is such that loss of even a small tonnage is important.

Two Are Indicted

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Two men have been indicted for allegedly hatching an elaborate plot to free prisoners from the Federal House of Detention. The Indictment filed yesterday named Frank Piscitello, 35, now in the dentention house, and Florio Isabella, 44, who spent a week there last September. The two are charged with conspiring with each other and with others to effect an escape. The detention house holds 200 prisoners.

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Hudson Valley Broadcasting Co. yesterday applied for a new television station at Hagaman, N. Y., to operate on UHF Channel 29.

Christmas Party Held by Rotarians

The Kingston Rotary Club's annual Christmas party for the children of the local Rotarians was held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. There were 160 in attendance.

An appropriate musical program was enjoyed by the Rotarians and guests. Sam Scudder presided at the piano and Cameron Rylance led the singing.

U. S. Protecting Saipan People In Trade Affairs

Chalan Kanoa, Saipan, Dec. 29 (AP) — No outside businessman can set foot on this island wrested from Japan in 1944. The United States sees to that.

"We have an obligation to the United Nations to protect the local people," says Cmdr. Charles E. Miller, Saipan's naval administrator. "Until they are in a postion to compete evenly, no foreigner will be permitted to land in Saipan for business."

THAT GOES even for businessmen of the United States, which administers Saipan under UN trusteeship agreement.

Ignacio Benavente, 5-foot mayor of Saipan, says:

"We are very much happier now, better off than any other time. We have more luxuries. We are governing ourselves.

"Under the Japanese, all we could aspire for was to be an interpreter, a policeman or a stevedore."

JAPAN OCCUPIED Saipan under a League of Nations mandate. Earlier, Saipan was under the German flag.

"We have plans for establishing a high school here, at least a vocational high school," the mayor continued. "We have a municipal legislature composed of 15 members, half elected every year."

The legislature passes laws for the seven villages scattered over the 47 square miles of land.

..AGRICULTURE, the principal support of the economy, has fallen off, the mayor concedes.

For one thing, public works projects have provided islanders with an easier means of livelihood. For another, there is a shortage of commercial transportation for the fresh vegetables that used to go to Guam.

BUT SAIPAN'S topsoil is rich, suitable for both general and vegetable farming.

"We can easily live on our land and still export some produce," the mayor said.

Miller, the administrator, hails from West Chester, Pa. He says the Saipanese "practically are doing everything here" as far as governing themselves.

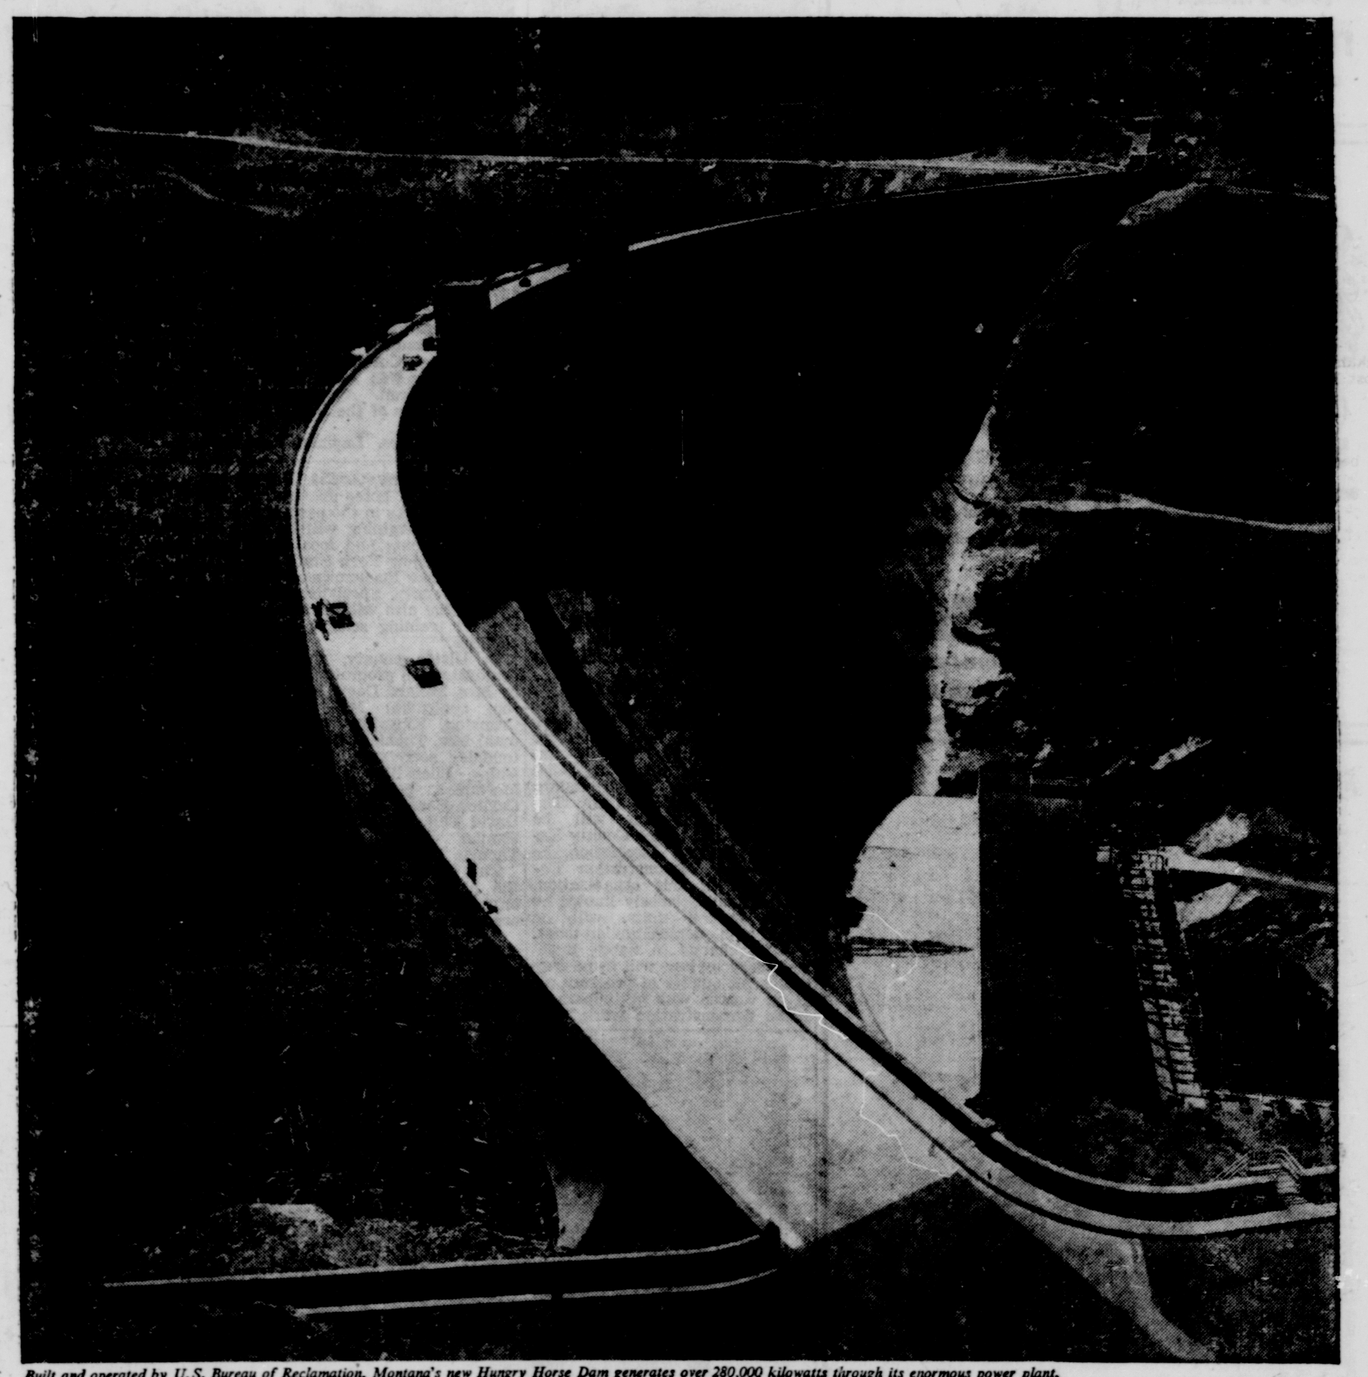

On the economic side, the Navy is teaching farmers the latest agricultural methods. A cross-breeding program has been launched to improve domestic cattle herds. Brahmas or crosses of Brahmas with Angus, Herefords and shorthorns graze on the grasslands.

Lake Susupe, largest lake in the Marianas, has been restocked with "tilapia"—wonder fish—and will be opened to Saipanese fishermen next year.

Winners Named For Decorations

Woodstock, Dec. 29—Winners in the Christmas home decorations contest, sponsored by the businessmen of the entire township of Woodstock, announced Dec. 24, were as follows: Ben Johnson won first prize of $75; Egon Schreiner of Lake Hill won second prize of $50; Mervin Doremus won third prize of $25. Harold Reynolds took the $25 prize for the best lit Christmas tree.

Over 1,000 people braved the brisk Christmas Eve atmosphere to attend the Community Program, which began at 4:50 p. m. with the chimes sounding carols from the belfry of the Dutch Reformed Church.

On the green Clem Nessel and her troupe of Dicken's Minstrels, composed of John Pike, guitar, Bill More, trumpet; and Dave Huffine, string bass, serenaded the gathering audience with Christmas music, led by Clem's accordion. The Christmas Eve audience was welcomed by Walter S. Van Wagenen, who served as master of ceremonies and introduced Abram F. Molyneaux who sang "Holy Night." The invocation was offered by the Rev. James J. O'Reilly of St. Joan of Arc Church, and the Christmas Story was told by the Rev. Olney E. Cook, of Christ Lutheran Church. The Woodstock School Glee Club, led by Jean Cousins, contributed a group of Christmas carols, and were joined by the assemblage, conducted by Allen Waterous, before the benediction was said by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd of the Dutch Reformed Church.

To the ringing chorus of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" the Jolly Old Elf made his entrance this year atop the corner of the Longyear building overlooking the green, and was assisted as is his custom each year from his lofty perch by the Woodstock Fire Company which helped with the distribution of gifts from the truck which annually doubles for Santa's sleigh.

The stage for Santa's arrival on the green this year was set this year by the following: Christmas Star on the Dutch Reformed Church by John Pike; Christmas tree lighting—supervision of Joseph Forno, Chester Nicponski and "Porky" Provenzano; church lighting, supervision of Donald Jackson and Robert Hastie; Christmas tree standard, Courtesy of Aaron Hasbrouck.

The following organizations participated in the preparation of the Christmas Eve Program in conjunction with the Woodstock Square Club: Agapae Rebekah Lodge, American Legion Post 1026, Lake Hill Sportsmen's Club, Mt. Tobias Sportsmen's Club; Odd Fellows Lodge No. 533, Overlook Home Bureau, Wil-La-Shay Social Club, Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, Wittenberg Sportsmen's Auxiliary, Woodstock Country Club, Woodstock Democratic Club; Woodstock Fire Companies No. 1 and 2, Woodstock Home Bureau; Woodstock Market Fair, Woodstock Motor Club, Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee, Woodstock Republican Club, Woodstock Riding Club, Woodstock Rotary Club, Zena Country Club.

The judges for the Chrismas home decorations contest were Joseph Gandino, Kiki Godvin and Mary Harris.

In addition to the program on the village green Christmas Eve, the Community Program included a Christmas dance for "teen agers" and the distribution of food baskets to more people this year as well as Chrismas baskets to those who were ill in their homes or hospitals during the holiday season.

10 Names on File For Citizen Award

Woodstock, Dec. 29—The Citizens Committee announces that it has at present on file 10 names which have been submitted for the Outstanding Citizen Award to be given at the annual Square Club dinner in January.

It is a coincidence that five are women and five are men. The following are those who are to be considered: Mrs. Kay Vance, Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, Mrs. Mary Rapp, Miss Alice Wardwell, Mrs. Norma Champanier, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, John Pike, Joseph Fitzsimmons, C. J. van Rijn and James Nancarvis.

The reasons given for the various selections are reported to be most interesting and give the committee an excellent idea as to what these people are doing for Woodstock. Things done, they are told, are not for any monetary or publicity benefits, but because these people have the interests of Woodstock and the people in their hearts.

The Citizens Committee is going to have a difficult time making the selection of the Outstanding Citizen, but those who are not chosen will receive a letter of thanks from the Committee for their good works and the hope that they will continue this work in view of being the one selected next year.

To Resume Services

Woodstock, Dec. 29—The regular program of services will be resumed again on New Year's Day at the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, with Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the regular service of worship at 11 a. m. The invitation to participate in this is given in the spirit summed up in the well-known words of Henry Ward Beecher,—"Christian brethern, in heaven you are known by the names of Christ. On earth for convenience sake you are known by the name of Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Methodists, Congregationalists and the like. Let me speak the language of heaven, and call you simply Christians. Whoever of you have known the name of Christ and feels Christ's life beating within him is invited to remain and sit with us at the table of the Lord."

Election Planned

Record Steel Output

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A record 5,255,080 ingot tons of steel was produuced at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Lackawanna plant this year. The former record of 4,734,672 tons was produced in 1953, Edmund F. Martin, plant manager said. Employment at the plant reached a record 19,000 during the summer, but Martin said it was now down to about 18,000.

REDS DEMONSTRATE AT MEETING — Former French Premier Pierre Mendez-France (left) points an accusing finger at Jacques Duclos (extreme right), French Communist boss, as the two meet to debate issues in the upcoming Parliamentary elections. The meeting in Paris turned into a heckling session with Red demonstrators drowning out Mendes' words as he tried to speak. Both leaders spoke on different issues, and no real debate developed. Along Capitol Corridors

BY ROBERT KASMIRE

Albany, Dec. 29 (AP) — State Saftey Division employes are plowing through a mountain of paper in an attempt to reduce fire hazards in schools across the state.

The paper consists of about 5,000 questionnaires sent earlier this year to public, private and parochial schools in communities with populations under 125,000.

EACH QUESTIONNAIRE asked 45 questions involving details of each school's fire protection system and whatever fire hazards existed, if any.

The deadline for filing the reports was Dec. 1. They are required under terms of a law enacted by the 1955 Legislature. But they still are trickling in, a division spokesman says.

Some of them are highly critical of local conditions, the spokesman aserts. He adds, however, that at present it is virtually impossible to draw a clear picture, since the questionnaires have not yet been analyzed.

THE LAW DOES not apply to schools in Albany, New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Yonkers.

It requires that all other communities and school districts inspect their schools annually before Dec. 1. Copies of the report must be sent to the local superintendent of schools, the local school governing body, the local fire department, the state education department and the state safety division.

The state safety division is given no power to mandate improvements where they are needed. It can, however, make recommendations, and the local authorities are expected to follow through.

MOST OF THE delayed reports are those of inspections of private and parochial schools. John L. Coffey, executive assistant in the safety division, says his department had no complete list of private and parochial schools. As a result it had to make an appeal to local authorities for information on the private schools and to diocesan superintendents for a list of parochial schools.

At present, Coffey says, a division research analyst and a clerk are making a county-by-county breakdown of the reports. Later, this month, he says, the division hopes to analyze them and make recommendations, using personnel of its bureau of fire mobilization and control.

ALTHOUGH THE state has no power to enforce its recommendations for correcting fire hazards discovered in the survey, the education department may withhold state aid from a school district that fails to meet health and safety standards.

In addition, if a school does not respond to recommendations, parents may bring proceedings before the state education commissioner for action. In extreme cases, an education department spokesman says, the commissioner has the power to remove the local education board.

Woman Is Named

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Dr. Lauretta Bender of New York city has been appointed principal research scientist in in child psychiatry in the state Mental Hygiene Department. Dr. Paul Hoch, mental hygiene commissioner, today announced the creation of the new post and the appointment. Salary range is $10,470 to $12,510 annually. Dr. Bender has been senior psychiatrist in charge of the children's service at Bellevue Hospital for the last 21 years. She has been on the hospital staff since 1930 and will continue to serve as an attending psychiatrist in the children's service.

10 Names on File For Citizen Award

Woodstock, Dec. 29—The Citizens Committee announces that it has at present on file 10 names which have been submitted for the Outstanding Citizen Award to be given at the annual Square Club dinner in January.

It is a coincidence that five are women and five are men. The following are those who are to be considered: Mrs. Kay Vance, Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, Mrs. Mary Rapp, Miss Alice Wardwell, Mrs. Norma Champanier, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, John Pike, Joseph Fitzsimmons, C. J. van Rijn and James Nancarvis.

The reasons given for the various selections are reported to be most interesting and give the committee an excellent idea as to what these people are doing for Woodstock. Things done, they are told, are not for any monetary or publicity benefits, but because these people have the interests of Woodstock and the people in their hearts.

The Citizens Committee is going to have a difficult time making the selection of the Outstanding Citizen, but those who are not chosen will receive a letter of thanks from the Committee for their good works and the hope that they will continue this work in view of being the one selected next year.

To Resume Services

Woodstock, Dec. 29—The regular program of services will be resumed again on New Year's Day at the Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, with Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the regular service of worship at 11 a. m. The invitation to participate in this is given in the spirit summed up in the well-known words of Henry Ward Beecher,—"Christian brethern, in heaven you are known by the names of Christ. On earth for convenience sake you are known by the name of Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Methodists, Congregationalists and the like. Let me speak the language of heaven, and call you simply Christians. Whoever of you have known the name of Christ and feels Christ's life beating within him is invited to remain and sit with us at the table of the Lord."

Election Planned

Record Steel Output

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A record 5,255,080 ingot tons of steel was produuced at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Lackawanna plant this year. The former record of 4,734,672 tons was produced in 1953, Edmund F. Martin, plant manager said. Employment at the plant reached a record 19,000 during the summer, but Martin said it was now down to about 18,000.

REDS DEMONSTRATE AT MEETING — Former French Premier Pierre Mendez-France (left) points an accusing finger at Jacques Duclos (extreme right), French Communist boss, as the two meet to debate issues in the upcoming Parliamentary elections. The meeting in Paris turned into a heckling session with Red demonstrators drowning out Mendes' words as he tried to speak. Both leaders spoke on different issues, and no real debate developed. Along Capitol Corridors

BY ROBERT KASMIRE

Albany, Dec. 29 (AP) — State Saftey Division employes are plowing through a mountain of paper in an attempt to reduce fire hazards in schools across the state.

The paper consists of about 5,000 questionnaires sent earlier this year to public, private and parochial schools in communities with populations under 125,000.

EACH QUESTIONNAIRE asked 45 questions involving details of each school's fire protection system and whatever fire hazards existed, if any.

The deadline for filing the reports was Dec. 1. They are required under terms of a law enacted by the 1955 Legislature. But they still are trickling in, a division spokesman says.

Some of them are highly critical of local conditions, the spokesman aserts. He adds, however, that at present it is virtually impossible to draw a clear picture, since the questionnaires have not yet been analyzed.

THE LAW DOES not apply to schools in Albany, New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Yonkers.

It requires that all other communities and school districts inspect their schools annually before Dec. 1. Copies of the report must be sent to the local superintendent of schools, the local school governing body, the local fire department, the state education department and the state safety division.

The state safety division is given no power to mandate improvements where they are needed. It can, however, make recommendations, and the local authorities are expected to follow through.

MOST OF THE delayed reports are those of inspections of private and parochial schools. John L. Coffey, executive assistant in the safety division, says his department had no complete list of private and parochial schools. As a result it had to make an appeal to local authorities for information on the private schools and to diocesan superintendents for a list of parochial schools.

At present, Coffey says, a division research analyst and a clerk are making a county-by-county breakdown of the reports. Later, this month, he says, the division hopes to analyze them and make recommendations, using personnel of its bureau of fire mobilization and control.

ALTHOUGH THE state has no power to enforce its recommendations for correcting fire hazards discovered in the survey, the education department may withhold state aid from a school district that fails to meet health and safety standards.

In addition, if a school does not respond to recommendations, parents may bring proceedings before the state education commissioner for action. In extreme cases, an education department spokesman says, the commissioner has the power to remove the local education board.

Woman Is Named

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Dr. Lauretta Bender of New York city has been appointed principal research scientist in in child psychiatry in the state Mental Hygiene Department. Dr. Paul Hoch, mental hygiene commissioner, today announced the creation of the new post and the appointment. Salary range is $10,470 to $12,510 annually. Dr. Bender has been senior psychiatrist in charge of the children's service at Bellevue Hospital for the last 21 years. She has been on the hospital staff since 1930 and will continue to serve as an attending psychiatrist in the children's service.

Dons Rout Holy Cross In Garden Game, 67-51

UCLA Wins Over Duquesne, 72-57

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

When a sophomore can sink 43 points in fast college competition, what is he going to do when he becomes a senior?

Southwest Conference coaches must have nightmares when they think of Rice's 6-10 Temple Tucker, a sophomore center, who, it appears, is just beginning to find his way around a basketball court.

The towering youngster scored 43 points to set a tournament record last night while his mates were running up a 110-81 victory over Texas A and M in a first-round game of the Southwest Conference event.

THAT WAS THE highest score rolled up during the night —a night in which basketballs flew all over the United States. Some 25 tournaments got under way, reached the halfway point or concluded during the night.

Rice, which now shows a record of 9-0, of course, was installed as the favorite to win the event. In other first round games, visiting California polished off Baylor 72-59; Texas turned back Texas Christian 66-60 and Southern Methodist whipped Arkansas 67-62.

Only one major tournament was decided. That was the Motor City in Detroit, in which Brigham Young, deprived of its three tallest players at the start of the second half through fouls, defeated Detroit 99-77 in the final.

THE BIG SHOCK of the night took place in Oklahoma City where Oklahoma City University took the measure of the Oklahoma Aggies 48-47 to enter tonight's finals against Tulsa, which upset top-seeded Seattle 68-66.

In New York, the mighty San Francisco Dons ran their two-year winning streak to 35 games by outclassing Holy Cross 67-51 in the semi-final of the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. UCLA, the last team to beat the Dons, halted defending champion Duquesne 72-57 in the other semi-final. The winners will meet Friday.

Bill Russell, the Dons' heralded center, scored 24 points for his team.

The Richmond Invitational also is turning into a red-hot battle, and tonight's semi-final between Cincinnati and Seton Hall shapes up as a corker. Cincinnati crushed Virginia 93-69 and undefeated Seton Hall upended Virginia 64-60.

The other semi-final will pit William and Mary, which set a tournament record by vanquishing Rhole Island 100-96 against Richmond 96-84 victor over Army.

THE SEMI-FINAL of the Big 7 tournament in Kansas City also are slated for tonight, sending Colorado against Iowa State and Kansas against Missouri. The latter pair earned their berths last night, the Jayhawks prevailing over Cornell 75-58 and the Tigers conquering Nebraska 71-66.

Over in Louisville, the finals of the Kentucky Invitation are top-seeded Western Kentucky against Murray State. The Hilltoppers wiped out a 12-point deficit to humble Louisville 86-77, while Murray gained its berth in the finals with a 98-87 victory over Eastern Kentucky.

In the Gator Bowl tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., Clemson and South Carolina meet for the title tonight. The former edged Louisiana State 100-35, and South Carolina buried Georgia 85-68 in the semis last night.

THE ORANGE BOWL tournament at Miami Beach, Fla., confined its action to the afternoon yesterday with West Virgina stopping Florida State 78-69 and Columbia outscoring Santa Clara 76-73 to complete the first round.

Other results last night included: Dayton (No. 2 in the Associated Press Poll and unbeaten) 86 Washington and Lee 54, Ohio State 83 De Paul 72, Washington 54, Wisconsin 53.

PERFECT JUNIOR — Ted Hoffman, Jr., 15, is believed to be the youngest person ever to bowl 300 in league competition. He rolled game in Philadelphia.

TCU, Ol' Miss Rated Even in Cotton Bowl

Dallas, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Cotton Bowl teams—Texas Christian and Mississippi—are rated even enough that the question of which will win may simmer down to which is the hungriest.

On that point it would appear the schools are running virtually a dead heat — both are starved, for bowl victories that is.

Texas Christian has the longest famine—the last time the Horned Frogs won a bowl game was 1939 when they beat Carnegie Tech 15-7 in the Sugar Bowl. Mississippi's last victory was over this same Texas Christian in the now defunct Delta Bowl in 1948.

But Mississippi never has won a major bowl game and it has appeared in three in the past 20 years. Coach Johnny Vaught of Mississippi has coached the team in its last two appearances —both in the Sugar Bowl.

There is still another angle to this Cotton Bowl. It matches champions of two conferences—TCU of the southwest and Mississippi of the Southeastern. Over the years representatives of the two conferences have played eight times in the Cotton Bowl and the Southeastern has won four times, the Southwest three and there has been one tie.

Pep Makes Arel 202nd Victim

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—Willie Pep polished off another "hungry" youngster last night, but the old master of the featherweights didn't emerge from his battle with Andy Arel without lumps.

It took four stitches to close a gash over Willie's left eye and Pep said the wound probably would keep him out of action about a month.

"He was a good, tough kid," Pep said after he had scored a unanimous decision over Arel, 22-year-old southpaw from Messena, N. Y. "He'll beat a lot of guys."

Arel, winner of 20 of his previous 25 pro fights, in the ninth stunned Pep with a left hook, then opened the cut over his eye with a slashing right, but cagy Willie recovered soon enough to win the 10th round.

It was Pep's 202nd victory. He has lost six.

We were in one of those intellectual discussions in which words like conservative and liberal were tossed around with great abandon, and I picked up that word conservative to remark that riflemen as far as stock design was concerned were the most conservative people in the world.

"Whaddya mean, conservative? Look at those California-type stocks now. They're radical enough, aren't they, what with hump-backed butts and whoopte-do grips and curlicue inlays? Call them conservative?" bellowed one of the party.

Needless to say, his outraged howl exemplified exactly what I had in mind, that the average gun nut resists change with the set solidity of Plymouth Rock, as far as the woodwork on his rifles goes.

THERE'S A LOT to be said on both sides. Actually, there has been some slow evolution in the basic lines of the sporting rifle stock. The greats of yesteryear, superb craftsmen and artists in their line, conceived stock forms that were both artistic and functional—but functional in a day when the optical sight was relatively a rarity.

Today's Monte Carlo combs, exaggerated cheekpieces, and I think also today's tight-curved pistol grips, are attempts at answering the problems created by a high sight line and by the growing use, with far-seeing precision sights, of the rifle as a far-shooting precision instrument. Seems reasonable, anyway.

Of course, if you turned loose on gun stock design problems an engineer who'd never shot a rifle in his life, he might well come up with a silhouette unlike anything the conservative gun nut ever saw, much less shot. The general appearance of the Fabrique Nationale semi-automatic rifle being tested against our own T-47 fast-shooting military type is an example. Functional in the extreme, but homely as a mud fence.

ACTUALLY, EVERY now and then the extremists in sporting stock design come up with an idea which is at first sight shocking, but in use turns out to be both good looking and practical. There's a little Guymon-made sporter on my rack, over in my wife's section thereof, which is most extreme in that its fore-end is extremely broad, about two and a half inches, and the fore-grip sides swoop in very quickly toward the barrel.

Curiously enough that shape is very comfortable for prone or sitting shots, aids in steady holding as does the much bulkier fore-end of a target rifle. The extra wood stiffens the whole stock and the little seven pound gun is very accurate.

Radical? Sure, but it has its points, and one definite evolution trend we note in stock design over the past generation is ward the full fore-end. Pear-shaped mebbe but still full. So where does conservatism leave off and radicalism start?

Knicks Defeat Royals, 113-91

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Assn. apparently thrive on work.

They have played four games on as many nights this week and have won the last three to move within 1½ games of the Philadelphia Warriors, leaders of the Eastern division. The Knicks trail the second place Boston Celtics by 14 percentage points.

After losing to Fort Wayne Sunday night, they beat the Warriors in a home-and-home series, jumped a sleeper for Rochester and whipped the Royals 113-91 last night. It was the fourth straight time this season that the Knicks had beaten the Royals.

Carl Braun, whose last second goal Tuesday defeated Philadelphia, paced the New Yorkers with 23 points, one more than teammate Gene Schue, as they pulled away after a close opening period.

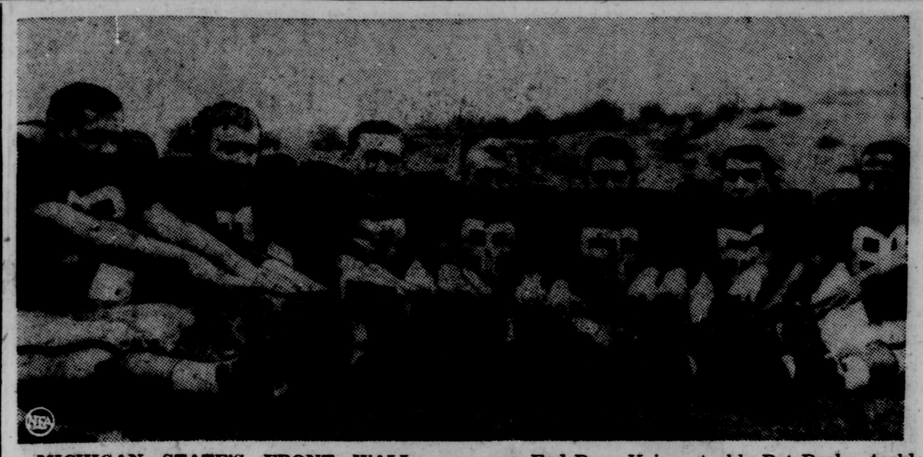

Vernon Downs Loses Money

Vernon, Dec. 29 (AP)—Vernon Downs, the harness race track, reports that it lost $154,724 in 1955, the third year of operation.

The figures were announced yesterday at the annual meeting of Mid-State Raceway Inc., operator of the track near Utica. It made money the first two years.

President Octave Blake attributed the loss to bad weather. Rain fell on 10 Saturday nights. Blake and the other officers and directors were re-elected.

Ground Attack East's Plan

San Francisco, Dec. 29 (AP)—Woody Hayes of Ohio State apparently is going to shoot for victory in the East-West Shrine football game Saturday the same way he won his second straight Big Ten title—on the ground.

Hayes' two quarterbacks—Jerry Reichow of Iowa and Em Lindbeck of Illinois, both among the nation's top 20 passers—didn't throw once in a 40-minute dummy scrimmage yesterday.

Ohio State ripped the Big Ten apart with a crushing ground game pegged on Howard (Hopalang) Cassady—and the All-America halfback is a member of the East squad. So are two linemen who helped make the Buckeyes' running game so powerful, tackle Frank Machinsky and center Ken Vargo.

Hayes has refused consistently to name a first team, but the group he worked with personally yesterday included the Ohio State trio.

Babe Zaharias Ill Again With Pneumonia

Galveston, Tex. Dec. 29 (AP)—Babe Zaharias is back in John Sealy Hospital—this time with pneumonia.

The famous woman athlete was stricken while on a Christmas holiday with friends at Fort Worth and was flown here yesterday afternoon. Attendants at John Sealy said today her condition was satisfactory. Previously she had undergone two operations for cancer.

Back's Cedaraps Blast Hoppey Quintet, 86-75

Carpouzis Hits 29, Kaye Has 26

Like any organization closing out their books for the year Back's Cedaraps were primarily interested in the black side of the ledger last night at the YMCA as, with one deft stroke of his basketball pen, George Carpouzis entered a big 29 points to show a balance in the A division of 86-75 against Hoppey's.

George gunned 11 field goals and received some substantial assistance from Marty Kaye who rimmed 26 and Jerry Kaplan who dumped in 20 points. All of which closed the seven-point breach which Hoppey's opened in the first period. The lead dwindled to four at the intermission and after the respite Back's kept the pace never to be headed.

The scoring triumvirate for Hoppey's was Bill Knott with 24, Ward Dunham, 16, and Skip Brodhead, 14, Back's missed seven gifts from the free throw line and Hoppey's were short on nine but it made little difference as Corpouzis' field goals opened the gap.

The boxscore:

Panthers Given Virus Shots After Five Cases

New Orleans, Dec. 29 (AP)—Pittsburgh football coaches kept a close watch on their squad today to see whether shots against intestinal virus would prevent further cases. Pitt meets Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl Monday.

Five players have had the virus since the team's arrival here Monday. Last night team physician Dr. W. K. Smith gave shots to members of the team and staff.

Regular quarterback Pete Neft and regular halfback Lou Cimarolli missed drills yesterday. The other three already had shaken it off.

"It's not serious," Coach John Michelosen said, "and it goes away after about 36 hours. But it would be serious if several players got it the day before the game that's what we hope the shots will prevent."

Power and punting are the key weapons in Pittsburgh's plans.

"We've banked on them all season and they haven't let us down," Michelosen said. "We've gotten most of our yardage on power plays through the line.

Dons Rout Holy Cross In Garden Game, 67-51

UCLA Wins Over Duquesne, 72-57

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

When a sophomore can sink 43 points in fast college competition, what is he going to do when he becomes a senior?

Southwest Conference coaches must have nightmares when they think of Rice's 6-10 Temple Tucker, a sophomore center, who, it appears, is just beginning to find his way around a basketball court.

The towering youngster scored 43 points to set a tournament record last night while his mates were running up a 110-81 victory over Texas A and M in a first-round game of the Southwest Conference event.

THAT WAS THE highest score rolled up during the night—a night in which basketballs flew all over the United States. Some 25 tournaments got under way, reached the halfway point or concluded during the night.

Rice, which now shows a record of 9-0, of course, was installed as the favorite to win the event. In other first round games, visiting California polished off Baylor 72-59; Texas turned back Texas Christian 66-60 and Southern Methodist whipped Arkansas 67-62.

Only one major tournament was decided. That was the Motor City in Detroit, in which Brigham Young, deprived of its three tallest players at the start of the second half through fouls, defeated Detroit 99-77 in the final.

THE BIG SHOCK of the night took place in Oklahoma City where Oklahoma City University took the measure of the Oklahoma Aggies 48-47 to enter tonight's finals against Tulsa, which upset top-seeded Seattle 68-66.

In New York, the mighty San Francisco Dons ran their two-year winning streak to 35 games by outclassing Holy Cross 67-51 in the semi-final of the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden. UCLA, the last team to beat the Dons, halted defending champion Duquesne 72-57 in the other semi-final. The winners will meet Friday.

Bill Russell, the Dons' heralded center, scored 24 points for his team.

The Richmond Invitational also is turning into a red-hot battle, and tonight's semi-final between Cincinnati and Seton Hall shapes up as a corker. Cincinnati crushed Virginia 93-69 and undefeated Seton Hall upended Virginia 64-60.

The other semi-final will pit William and Mary, which set a tournament record by vanquishing Rhole Island 100-96 against Richmond 96-84 victor over Army.

THE SEMI-FINAL of the Big 7 tournament in Kansas City also are slated for tonight, sending Colorado against Iowa State and Kansas against Missouri. The latter pair earned their berths last night, the Jayhawks prevailing over Cornell 75-58 and the Tigers conquering Nebraska 71-66.

Over in Louisville, the finals of the Kentucky Invitation are top-seeded Western Kentucky against Murray State. The Hilltoppers wiped out a 12-point deficit to humble Louisville 86-77, while Murray gained its berth in the finals with a 98-87 victory over Eastern Kentucky.

In the Gator Bowl tournament at Jacksonville, Fla., Clemson and South Carolina meet for the title tonight. The former edged Louisiana State 100-95, and South Carolina buried Georgia 85-68 in the semis last night.

THE ORANGE BOWL tournament at Miami Beach, Fla., confined its action to the afternoon yesterday with West Virginia stopping Florida State 78-69 and Columbia outscoring Santa Clara 76-73 to complete the first round.

Other results last night included: Dayton (No. 2 in the Associated Press Poll and unbeaten) 86 Washington and Lee 54, Ohio State 83 De Paul 72, Washington 54, Wisconsin 53.

PERFECT JUNIOR — Ted Hoffman, Jr., 15, is believed to be the youngest person ever to bowl 300 in league competition. He rolled game in Philadelphia.

TCU, Ol' Miss Rated Even in Cotton Bowl

Dallas, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Cotton Bowl teams—Texas Christian and Mississippi—are rated even enough that the question of which will win may simmer down to which is the hungriest.

On that point it would appear the schools are running virtually a dead heat — both are starved, for bowl victories that is.

Texas Christian has the longest famine—the last time the Horned Frogs won a bowl game was 1939 when they beat Carnegie Tech 15-7 in the Sugar Bowl. Mississippi's last victory was over this same Texas Christian in the now defunct Delta Bowl in 1948.

But Mississippi never has won a major bowl game and it has appeared in three in the past 20 years. Coach Johnny Vaught of Mississippi has coached the team in its last two appearances—both in the Sugar Bowl.

There is still another angle to this Cotton Bowl. It matches champions of two conferences—TCU of the southwest and Mississippi of the Southeastern. Over the years representatives of the two conferences have played eight times in the Cotton Bowl and the Southeastern has won four times, the Southwest three and there has been one tie.

Pep Makes Arel 202nd Victim

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—Willie Pep polished off another "hungry" youngster last night, but the old master of the featherweights didn't emerge from his battle with Andy Arel without lumps.

It took four stitches to close a gash over Willie's left eye and Pep said the wound probably would keep him out of action about a month.

"He was a good, tough kid," Pep said after he had scored a unanimous decision over Arel, 22-year-old southpaw from Messena, N. Y. "He'll beat a lot of guys."

Arel, winner of 20 of his previous 25 pro fights, in the ninth stunned Pep with a left hook, then opened the cut over his eye with a slashing right, but cagy Willie recovered soon enough to win the 10th round.

It was Pep's 202nd victory. He has lost six.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

BY WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

We were in one of those intellectual discussions in which words like conservative and liberal were tossed around with great abandon, and I picked up that word conservative to remark that riflemen as far as stock design was concerned were the most conservative people in the world.

"Whaddya mean, conservative? Look at those Californiatype stocks now. They're radical enough, aren't they, what with hump-backed butts and whoopte-do grips and curlicue inlays? Call them conservative?" bellowed one of the party.

Needless to say, his outraged howl exemplified exactly what I had in mind, that the average gun nut resists change with the set solidity of Plymouth Rock, as far as the woodwork on his rifles goes.

THERE'S A LOT to be said on both sides. Actually, there has been some slow evolution in the basic lines of the sporting rifle stock. The greats of yesteryear, superb craftsmen and artists in their line, conceived stock forms that were both artistic and functional—but functional in a day when the optical sight was relatively a rarity.

Today's Monte Carlo combs, exaggerated cheekpieces, and I think also today's tight-curved pistol grips, are attempts at answering the problems created by a high sight line and by the growing use, with far-seeing precision sights, of the rifle as a farshooting precision instrument. Seems reasonable, anyway.

Of course, if you turned loose on gun stock design problems an engineer who'd never shot a rifle in his life, he might well come up with a silhouette unlike anything the conservative gun nut ever saw, much less shot. The general appearance of the Fabrique Nationale semi-automatic rifle being tested against our own T-47 fast-shooting military type is an example. Functional in the extreme, but homely as a mud fence.

ACTUALLY, EVERY now and then the extremists in sporting stock design come up with an idea which is at first sight shocking, but in use turns out to be both good looking and practical. There's a little Guymon-made sporter on my rack, over in my wife's section thereof, which is most extreme in that its fore-end is extremely broad, about two and a half inches, and the fore-grip sides swoop in very quickly toward the barrel.

Curiously enough that shape is very comfortable for prone or sitting shots, aids in steady holding as does the much bulkier fore-end of a target rifle. The extra wood stiffens the whole stock and the little seven pound gun is very accurate.

Radical? Sure, but it has its points, and one definite evolution trend we note in stock design over the past generation is ward the full fore-end. Pear-shaped mebbe but still full. So where does conservatism leave off and radicalism start?

Knicks Defeat Royals, 113-91

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Assn. apparently thrive on work.

They have played four games on as many nights this week and have won the last three to move within 1½ games of the Philadelphia Warriors, leaders of the Eastern division. The Knicks trail the second place Boston Celtics by 14 percentage points.

After losing to Fort Wayne Sunday night, they beat the Warriors in a home-and-home series, jumped a sleeper for Rochester and whipped the Royals 113-91 last night. It was the fourth straight time this season that the Knicks had beaten the Royals.

Carl Braun, whose last second goal Tuesday defeated Philadelphia, paced the New Yorkers with 23 points, one more than teammate Gene Schue, as they pulled away after a close opening period.

Vernon Downs Loses Money

Vernon, Dec. 29 (AP)—Vernon Downs, the harness race track, reports that it lost $154,724 in 1955, the third year of operation.

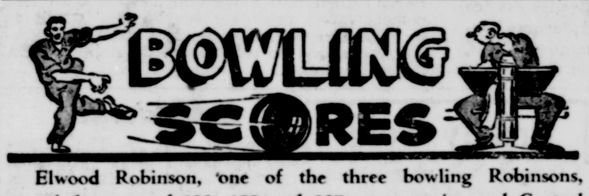

The figures were announced yesterday at the annual meeting of Mid-State Raceway Inc., operator of the track near Utica. It made money the first two years.

President Octave Blake attributed the loss to bad weather. Rain fell on 10 Saturday nights. Blake and the other officers and directors were re-elected.

Ground Attack East's Plan

San Francisco, Dec. 29 (AP)—Woody Hayes of Ohio State apparently is going to shoot for victory in the East-West Shrine football game Saturday the same way he won his second straight Big Ten title—on the ground.

Hayes' two quarterbacks—Jerry Reichow of Iowa and Em Lindbeck of Illinois, both among the nation's top 20 passers—didn't throw once in a 40-minute dummy scrimmage yesterday.

Ohio State ripped the Big Ten apart with a crushing ground game pegged on Howard (Hopalang) Cassady—and the All-America halfback is a member of the East squad. So are two linemen who helped make the Buckeyes' running game so powerful, tackle Frank Machinsky and center Ken Vargo.

Hayes has refused consistently to name a first team, but the group he worked with personally yesterday included the Ohio State trio.

Babe Zaharias Ill Again With Pneumonia

Galveston, Tex. Dec. 29 (AP)—Babe Zaharias is back in John Sealy Hospital—this time with pneumonia.

The famous woman athlete was stricken while on a Christmas holiday with friends at Fort Worth and was flown here yesterday afternoon. Attendants at John Sealy said today her condition was satisfactory. Previously she had undergone two operations for cancer.

Football Giants Nix Million Offer

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League says the owners of the New York Giants have turned down a million dollar offer for their franchise.

Bell said yesterday he had made the offer on behalf of a group of men, whom he declined to identify, to Giant owners Tim Mara and his sons, Wellington and Jack.

The Giants, although a losing proposition in recent years, have the league's largest population area from which to draw crowds plus potentially large television revenues. In addition, the club appears to be back on the way up.

Tim Mara bought the Giants franchise in 1925 for $2,500.

Carpouzis Hits 29, Kaye Has 26

Like any organization closing out their books for the year Back's Cedaraps were primarily interested in the black side of the ledger last night at the YMCA as, with one deft stroke of his basketball pen, George Carpouzis entered a big 29 points to show a balance in the A division of 86-75 against Hoppey's.

George gunned 11 field goals and received some substantial assistance from Marty Kaye who rimmed 26 and Jerry Kaplan who dumped in 20 points. All of which closed the seven-point breach which Hoppey's opened in the first period. The lead dwindled to four at the intermission and after the respite Back's kept the pace never to be headed.

The scoring triumvirate for Hoppey's was Bill Knott with 24, Ward Dunham, 16, and Skip Brodhead, 14, Back's missed seven gifts from the free throw line and Hoppey's were short on nine but it made little difference as Corpouzis' field goals opened the gap.

The boxscore:

Panthers Given Virus Shots After Five Cases

New Orleans, Dec. 29 (AP)—Pittsburgh football coaches kept a close watch on their squad today to see whether shots against intestinal virus would prevent further cases. Pitt meets Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl Monday.

Five players have had the virus since the team's arrival here Monday. Last night team physician Dr. W. K. Smith gave shots to members of the team and staff.

Regular quarterback Pete Neft and regular halfback Lou Cimarolli missed drills yesterday. The other three already had shaken it off.

"It's not serious," Coach John Michelosen said, "and it goes away after about 36 hours. But it would be serious if several players got it the day before the game that's what we hope the shots will prevent."

Power and punting are the key weapons in Pittsburgh's plans.

"We've banked on them all season and they haven't let us down," Michelosen said. "We've gotten most of our yardage on power plays through the line.

Joneses-Packer Match Saturday Headlines HVBL

Second Round Action Starts at Bowlodrome

Second-round action in the Hudson Valley Bowling League begins Saturday night, highlighted by a battle between the first and fourth-place teams at the Bowlodrome.

Jones Dairy, currently on top of the circuit, squares off against the ever-dangerous Forst Packers, who are tied for the fourth position with the Ellenville Shanahans.

The Jones boys, boasting the highest team average in the league and the two best single averages, led the first round by winning 32 games and losing 13. Mardi-Bob Lanes of Poughkeepsie is a scant one game behind.

The Middletown Merchants trail Jones Dairy by three games, with the Packers and Shanahans another length back.

TWO OTHER Kingston teams are still in contention. Tony's Pizzeria has a 27-18 record and also the second highest team average. The Tony's trundlers could give anybody trouble. Rapp's Express is a length behind the Pizzeria quintet.

Saturday's matches, other than the Jones-Forst fracas, pair the Pizzeria against the Walden entry at Central Rec and Rapp's vs. Elston's Sports Shop at the Bowlodrome.

The Jones bowlers have a 969-per game average—20 pins better than the Mardi-Bob squad. The locals also have the season's high single of 1,123 and the high triple, 3,124. Jackie Ferraro owns the individual high marks, 279 and 751, set two weeks ago.

JACKIE'S FATHER, John Ferraro Sr., has the top average, a sparkling 207.18. Junior upped his over the 200 mark during his last outing and is now hitting 202.05.

The local bowlers are dominating the circuit. Of the top 25 individual averages, 19 are owned by members of Kingston teams. The entire Tony's Pizzeria outfit is among this group, which accounts for the team's good average. Four members of the Jones team are also in the upper part of the averages.

The standings:

Chess Expert Plans Meeting To Organize Local League

Plans for a chess club in Kingston were announced today by John D. Majer of 54 Clinton avenue, a topnotch player and prominent chess organizer who came to the city from Plainfield, N. J., about 10 months ago.

Mr. Majer, who operates a manufacturing plant at Tillson, has called a meeting for Sunday, Jan. 8 at 8 p. m. at the Moose Lodge for all persons interested in playing chess on a regular basis.

AN EXHIBITION dealing with the various phases of chess will be given by Mr. Majer at the organizational meeting.

Majer was captain of the 1952-53 North Jersey Chess League champions and served as president, program director and captain of the Plainfield Chess Club. He was club champion several years.

All players are invited to the meeting. Those who cannot attend but wish to register for the chess club may call Mr. Majer at 7253.

Clarkson, Larries Win Holiday Hockey Games

Boston, Dec. 29 (AP)—Clarkson and St. Lawrence won third-round games last night in the third annual Holiday Hockey tournament here.

In an Arena doubleheader, Clarkson walloped Harvard 11-5 and St. Lawrence trounced Boston College 6-2. It was unbeaten Clarkson's seventh victory of the season.

St. Lawrence, which blanked Boston University 6-0 Tuesday night, now has a season record of four triumphs and one defeat. The Harvard loss was its fifth in eight games.

Buffalo Tourney Opening Today

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Queen City Invitational Basketball tournament gets under way today with Georgia Tech meeting Westminster College (Pa.) in the first of four games scheduled at Memorial auditorium.

Canisius College, the defending champions, and host club, will meet Layayette College in the second game of the afternoon doubleheader.

Undefeated Xavier University of Cincinnati, Ohio, the tournament favorite, takes on Niagara University in the opening game of tonight's twin bill. St. Bonaventure and Georgetown tangle in the second game.

After today's games, all teams will be idle until Saturday when semi-final afternoon and evening doubleheader will be played. A tripleheader Monday night will wind up the tourney.

Abbey Sets World Speedboat Record

Miami, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Howard Abbey, of Miami, set a world record for F service runabouts today when he averaged 59.801 mph in time trials of the Orange Bowl Regatta.

The old record was set in 1951 by Edison Hedges, of Red Bank, N. J., at 57.280 mph.

Driving his 18-year-old engine at 9,200 rpm's Ezio Selva, of Milan, Italy, set an American record for Limited Class boats at 141.767 mph but failed in his assault on the world speed mark. His best time was 144 mph on one of two runs.

Selva drove his 800 kilogram speedster faster than any other class boat had ever traveled in American waters, raising the course record by approximately 10 miles.

Faces Jail Term

Sumner, Miss., Dec. 29 (AP)—Elmer Kimbell faced three months in jail today after a preliminary hearing rejected bond on charges he murdered a Negro service station attendant. Three justices of the peace yesterday returned Kimbell to jail to await grand jury action in March. Kimbell, a white cotton gin operator, was accused of the shotgun slaying of Clinton Melton, a Negro service station attendant at nearby Glendora and the father of four children.

Dust Poses Threat

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The threat of new dust storms hangs over wide areas of the Great Plains, the Agriculture Department reported today. Reports from the field as of Dec. 1 indicated, the department said, that dry soils and below normal rain and snowfall have left about 20 million acres of land in 10 Great Plains states in a condition to suffer wind damage.

Gets Around

Salt Lake City—(NEA)—Art Bunet, Utah's All-America candidate, hold the scoring records for both Colorado and Utah. The 6-4 pivot shot artist set the Colorado mark in 1953 with 39. Last season, as a transfer, he got 43 to set Utah's mark.

Spooner Inks Pact for $8,000

Karl Spooner

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who now expect Karl Spooner to be a valuable piece of furniture in their Flatbush household what with the expected induction of Johnny Podres into the armed services, signed the lefthander to an estimated $8,000 contract yesterday.

Spooner agreed to the 1956 terms just before leaving for winter ball in the Dominican Republic. Completing his auto-sales work in Hollis, L. I., and took to replace Kenny Lehman, another southpaw, on the roster of the Escogido Reds.

The third Dodger to sign, inking the pact after Don Newcombe and Pee Wee Reese, several notches above him in both experience and pay departments, Spooner will come out of the wings now into the spotlight with Podres expected to be lost to the Brooks.

Morrow Equals World Century Mark in 9.3

Auckland, New Zealand, Dec. 28 (AP)—Bobby Morrow, of Abilene, Tex., helped by a following wind, equaled the world record today in winning a special 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds.

The feat cannot be placed alongside the world mark held by Mel Patton and Hector Hogan because the wind was three feet a second beyond the allowable limit for international records.

Parry O'Brien put the shot and hurled the discus farther than ever done before in New Zealand competition. The Los Angeles muscle man registered 58 feet, 6 inches in the shot and 159 feet, 3 inches in the discus.

Envoys Summoned Home

London, Dec. 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has summoned home Britain's envoys in the turbulent Middle East for consultations next week, the Foreign Office announced today. The action by Britain's new foreign secretary indicated Middle Eastern affiairs will figure prominently in the discussion later next month when Prime Minister Eden and Lloyd travel to Washington to meet President Eisenhower and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Sees Peace Progress

Jerusalem, Dec. 29 (AP)—Blaming both Israel and Egypt for the delay, the UN Palestine truce group has indicated that progress may be made soon on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's frontier peace proposals. In a communique issued from its headquarters here, the truce group said negotiations were still open and further discussions will be held soon on Hammarskjold's plan for establishing peace in the El Auja-Nizana demilitarized area between Israel and Egypt.

Tatum, Wilkinson Tactics Differ for Bowl Workouts

Miami, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Maryland and Oklahoma football teams may play a lot alike, but their coaches are exhibiting different ideas in getting them ready for their struggle Monday in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Jim Tatum is having his Maryland players bang each other with all the power in their rugged bodies. Coach Bud Wilkinson is ignoring any hard contact.

Tatum acknowledged beforehand he was gambling on some vital injuries. But he believes it is necessary to apply the teaching to make it stick.

HE LET HIS squad have it out at full hitting power for an hour yesterday. As a result, Dick Bittner, sophomore right tackle from Cumberland, Md., on the alternate team, suffered a rib injury.

If the injury doesn't respond to treatment, Joe Lazzarino of Brooklyn or Don Healy of Rome, N. Y., will move up to his second team spot.

There were scads of lumps raised and blood let in the bargain. In the heat of things, one teammate socked another.

"We were very fortunate to get by with only that many injuries," Tatum said afterward. He planned another stiff workout for this afternoon.

LIGHT CONTACT work was the order of the day in the Oklahoma camp and Wilkinson was happy with the attitude of his Sooners.

"I like their effort," he said. "They are all trying and you can't ask more than that."

Most of Oklahoma's practice session yesterday was devoted to running and passing. The first string backfield included Jim Harris at quarter, Tommy McDonald and Robert Burris at halfback and Billy Pricer at fullback.

Lightweight boxing champion Wallace (Bud) Smith formerly worked for his father-in-law who is an undertaker.

Toronto Blanks Montreal, 2-0

(By The Associated Press)

The end of the National Hockey League season is still some three months away, but a three-team battle for the third and fourth playoff spots already is shaping up.

As of today the Detroit Red Wings hold down third but only by a margin of two points over the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Leafs moved into a tie with the Hawks for fourth place last night as they blanked the league leading Montreal Canadiens 2-0 in the circuit's only game.

"Buzz" Andrews, halfback, Attleboro Falls, Mass.; Bill Ormsby, end, Newton, Mass.; Mark Farnum, guard, East Hartford, Conn.; Pierre Teets, tackle, Rockville Center, N. Y.; Dr. Joshua "Josh" Weeks, end, New Bedford, Mass.; and Dr. Edgar "Spike" Staff, guard, Providence, R. I. (AP Wirephoto).

Chess Expert Plans Meeting To Organize Local League

Plans for a chess club in Kingston were announced today by John D. Majer of 54 Clinton avenue, a topnotch player and prominent chess organizer who came to the city from Plainfield, N. J., about 10 months ago.

Mr. Majer, who operates a manufacturing plant at Tillson, has called a meeting for Sunday, Jan. 8 at 8 p. m. at the Moose Lodge for all persons interested in playing chess on a regular basis.

AN EXHIBITION dealing with the various phases of chess will be given by Mr. Majer at the organizational meeting.

Majer was captain of the 1952-53 North Jersey Chess League champions and served as president, program director and captain of the Plainfield Chess Club. He was club champion several years.

All players are invited to the meeting. Those who cannot attend but wish to register for the chess club may call Mr. Majer at 7253.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By hal sharp

TRIGGER TEST FOR A USED GUN

LOOK FOR UNSAFE TRIGGER WHEN BUYING A USED GUN!

COCK THE UNLOADED GUN, THEN SLOWLY PULL TRIGGER. IF YOU FEEL JUMPS OR ROUGHNESS DURING PULL, TRIGGER NEEDS REPAIRING.

PRESS HARD ON A COCKED HAMMER OR BOLT'S FIRING PIN. IF IT LETS GO, GUN IS DANGEROUS.

TEST A TRIGGER'S PULL, AS SHOWN. TIE CORD TO THE TRIGGER TO GENTLY LIFT KNOWN WEIGHTS OFF THE FLOOR. RELEASE UNDER 3 POUNDS IS DANGEROUS, OVER 6 POUNDS IS TOO HARD.

Clarkson, Larries Win Holiday Hockey Games

Boston, Dec. 29 (AP)—Clarkson and St. Lawrence won third-round games last night in the third annual Holiday Hockey tournament here.

In an Arena doubleheader, Clarkson walloped Harvard 11-5 and St. Lawrence trounced Boston College 6-2. It was unbeaten Clarkson's seventh victory of the season.

St. Lawrence, which blanked Boston University 6-0 Tuesday night, now has a season record of four triumphs and one defeat. The Harvard loss was its fifth in eight games.

Buffalo Tourney Opening Today

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Queen City Invitational Basketball tournament gets under way today with Georgia Tech meeting Westminster College (Pa.) in the first of four games scheduled at Memorial auditorium.

Canisius College, the defending champions, and host club, will meet Layayette College in the second game of the afternoon doubleheader.

Undefeated Xavier University of Cincinnati, Ohio, the tournament favorite, takes on Niagara University in the opening game of tonight's twin bill. St. Bonaventure and Georgetown tangle in the second game.

After today's games, all teams will be idle until Saturday when semi-final afternoon and evening doubleheader will be played. A tripleheader Monday night will wind up the tourney.

Abbey Sets World Speedboat Record

Miami, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Howard Abbey, of Miami, set a world record for F service runabouts today when he averaged 59.801 mph in time trials of the Orange Bowl Regatta.

The old record was set in 1951 by Edison Hedges, of Red Bank, N. J., at 57.280 mph.

Driving his 18-year-old engine at 9,200 rpm's Ezio Selva, of Milan, Italy, set an American record for Limited Class boats at 141.767 mph but failed in his assault on the world speed mark. His best time was 144 mph on one of two runs.

Selva drove his 800 kilogram speedster faster than any other class boat had ever traveled in American waters, raising the course record by approximately 10 miles.

Faces Jail Term

Sumner, Miss., Dec. 29 (AP)—Elmer Kimbell faced three months in jail today after a preliminary hearing rejected bond on charges he murdered a Negro service station attendant. Three justices of the peace yesterday returned Kimbell to jail to await grand jury action in March. Kimbell, a white cotton gin operator, was accused of the shotgun slaying of Clinton Melton, a Negro service station attendant at nearby Glendora and the father of four children.

Dust Poses Threat

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The threat of new dust storms hangs over wide areas of the Great Plains, the Agriculture Department reported today. Reports from the field as of Dec. 1 indicated, the department said, that dry soils and below normal rain and snowfall have left about 20 million acres of land in 10 Great Plains states in a condition to suffer wind damage.

Gets Around

Salt Lake City—(NEA)—Art Bunet, Utah's All-America candidate, hold the scoring records for both Colorado and Utah. The 6-4 pivot shot artist set the Colorado mark in 1953 with 39. Last season, as a transfer, he got 43 to set Utah's mark.

Spooner Inks Pact for $8,000

Karl Spooner

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who now expect Karl Spooner to be a valuable piece of furniture in their Flatbush household what with the expected induction of Johnny Podres into the armed services, signed the lefthander to an estimated $8,000 contract yesterday.

Spooner agreed to the 1956 terms just before leaving for winter ball in the Dominican Republic. Completing his auto-sales work in Hollis, L. I., and took to replace Kenny Lehman, another southpaw, on the roster of the Escogido Reds.

The third Dodger to sign, inking the pact after Don Newcombe and Pee Wee Reese, several notches above him in both experience and pay departments, Spooner will come out of the wings now into the spotlight with Podres expected to be lost to the Brooks.

Morrow Equals World Century Mark in 9.3

Auckland, New Zealand, Dec. 28 (AP)—Bobby Morrow, of Abilene, Tex., helped by a following wind, equaled the world record today in winning a special 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds.

The feat cannot be placed alongside the world mark held by Mel Patton and Hector Hogan because the wind was three feet a second beyond the allowable limit for international records.

Parry O'Brien put the shot and hurled the discus farther than ever done before in New Zealand competition. The Los Angeles muscle man registered 58 feet, 6 inches in the shot and 159 feet, 3 inches in the discus.

Envoys Summoned Home

London, Dec. 29 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has summoned home Britain's envoys in the turbulent Middle East for consultations next week, the Foreign Office announced today. The action by Britain's new foreign secretary indicated Middle Eastern affairs will figure prominently in the discussion later next month when Prime Minister Eden and Lloyd travel to Washington to meet President Eisenhower and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Sees Peace Progress

Jerusalem, Dec. 29 (AP)—Blaming both Israel and Egypt for the delay, the UN Palestine truce group has indicated that progress may be made soon on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's frontier peace proposals. In a communique issued from its headquarters here, the truce group said negotiations were still open and further discussions will be held soon on Hammarskjold's plan for establishing peace in the El Auja-Nizana demilitarized area between Israel and Egypt.

Tatum, Wilkinson Tactics Differ for Bowl Workouts

Miami, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Maryland and Oklahoma football teams may play a lot alike, but their coaches are exhibiting different ideas in getting them ready for their struggle Monday in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Jim Tatum is having his Maryland players bang each other with all the power in their rugged bodies. Coach Bud Wilkinson is ignoring any hard contact.

Tatum acknowledged beforehand he was gambling on some vital injuries. But he believes it is necessary to apply the teaching to make it stick.

HE LET HIS squad have it out at full hitting power for an hour yesterday. As a result, Dick Bittner, sophomore right tackle from Cumberland, Md., on the alternate team, suffered a rib injury.

If the injury doesn't respond to treatment, Joe Lazzarino of Brooklyn or Don Healy of Rome, N. Y., will move up to his second team spot.

There were scads of lumps raised and blood let in the bargain. In the heat of things, one teammate socked another.

"We were very fortunate to get by with only that many injuries," Tatum said afterward. He planned another stiff workout for this afternoon.

LIGHT CONTACT work was the order of the day in the Oklahoma camp and Wilkinson was happy with the attitude of his Sooners.

"I like their effort," he said. "They are all trying and you can't ask more than that."

Most of Oklahoma's practice session yesterday was devoted to running and passing. The first string backfield included Jim Harris at quarter, Tommy McDonald and Robert Burris at halfback and Billy Pricer at fullback.

Lightweight boxing champion Wallace (Bud) Smith formerly worked for his father-in-law who is an undertaker.

Toronto Blanks Montreal, 2-0

(By The Associated Press)

The end of the National Hockey League season is still some three months away, but a three-team battle for the third and fourth playoff spots already is shaping up.

As of today the Detroit Red Wings hold down third but only by a margin of two points over the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Leafs moved into a tie with the Hawks for fourth place last night as they blanked the league leading Montreal Canadiens 2-0 in the circuit's only game.

Faith Group Told Old Political Ideas Being Outmoded

Athens, Ohio, Dec. 29 (AP)—The 3,500 delegates attending the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission have been told that "old political ideas are going bankrupt."

Dr. C. J. Eliezer of the University of Ceylon told the conference last night that people who have lived for centuries "in the political backwaters of the world are experiencing a quickening of the pulse of life."

They are now seeking their "rightful place in the community of nations," he added.

The Rev. Jerald C. Brauer of the University of Chicago related how the Church "is responsible for encouraging research for equality and justice."

Conference delegates, mostly college students, represent more than 80 nations and 50 Christian denominations. They are studying their role in furthering the church's work throughout the world.

The six-day meeting, held every four years, is sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement (a branch of the National Council of Churches), the world student Christian movement and the United Student Christian Council. The sessions at Ohio University will end Sunday.

Mystified by Sendoff

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Herman Welker (R-Idaho) says he's just as mystified as anybody else about the send off he got from longshore union bigwigs two weeks ago when he and his family sailed on a Caribbean cruise. A big delegation from the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. had startled reporters and union members working on the pier with the unprecedented turnout just before the liner Santa Rosa sailed. They saw to it that the senatorial luggage was whisked aboard the ship in quick time, then repaired to the senator's suite with baskets of fruit and flowers. Among them was Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, union boss on the Brooklyn waterfront.

Reports Damage

Duane J. Forman, RD 3, Kingston, reported to the Ulster county sheriff's office that his 1955 sedan was damaged about 4:50 p. m. Wednesday when a truck operated by Victor D. Roglieri of Poughkeepsie backed into his vehicle on Lucas avenue extension. According to the report, the truck was turning around in the road at the time of the accident. Mr. Forman reported that his left front door was damaged and the chrome stripping bent.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The stock market made modest progress today. Trading was quiet.

Neither the professionals nor the investing public seemed to care much about the market with only one more trading day to go in this calendar year.

Prices were up around 2 points at the best, but most gains and losses were quite small. Many leaders held unchanged for considerable periods.

Stepfather Cleared

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 29 (AP)—The stepfather of Joe King, 14-year-old victim of a strangler, has been cleared, at least temporarily in the youngster's death, and police are searching for a new lead in the case. T/Sgt. James R. King was released from custody last night after taking a lie detector test, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Sam Hallum said he had been "cleared for the time being." Sheriff Tom Gulley said the air force sergeant would be questioned again.

Elephant Is for Sale

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP)—Anybody want to buy an elephant? A large department store here (John Wanamaker) has one on sale for $4,995. "It's a bargain," the salesman said, "Hannibal originally cost $7,800 but we reduced the price in line with the store's two-day Christmas season sale."

or more workers rose to 26 compared with 18 in 1954. The average worker involved in these stoppages was idle about 11 working days in 1955 compared with 17 in 1954.

Many of the larger 1955 disputes were relatively brief, but several continued for two months or longer. These included two springtime disputes in the south—a 58-day stoppage by employes of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and a 72-day strike affecting the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

THE PROLONGED strike of 700,000 employes of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., which began Oct. 17 continued in effect as the new year approached.

Disputes over wages and related issues were a major cause in 19 of the 26 largest strikes in 1955. Another involved wages combined with union security. In two others union security was the predominant issue. Grievances over job security and other working conditions led to four major stoppages.

Four of the major stoppages were in the transportation equipment industry. The electrical products and farm equipment industries each had three, and the construction, shipping, steel, telephone and trucking industries each had two. Other major strikes occurred in the copper mining, railroad, rubber products, scientific and engineering instruments, shoe and textile industries.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through January 3 all Kingston state police will be on duty round-the-clock in order to handle heavy New Year weekend traffic and keep down accidents as much as possible, it was reported today from the local barracks on Route 9W just north of Kingston.

Wood's Bottling Works Is Sold

Wood's Bottling Works, 7 Jansen avenue, one of the city's oldest established businesses, has changed hands. As of December 1 the business was sold to Charles Spada and Joseph Apa by the Wood family which has operated it since its establishment by Abram Wood 105 years ago.

Mr. Spada has been a resident of Kingston for 15 years and has been engaged in the construction business while Mr. Apa, a graduate of Utica Tech, is presently manager of the G. R. Kinney, Co., Inc., shoe store on Wall street.

Theodore C. Wood, Jr., who has operated the business for the past several years, said the business had been sold as of December 1 and he was severing his associations with the business this week. The business is that of manufacturing and bottling soft drinks and sodas.

again to call for repeal of the Condon-Wadlin law, which forbids public employes from striking.

Harriman is understood to take the position that the law makes proper labor relations difficult. He feels further, it is reported, that it is more important to establish machinery for maintaining smooth labor relations.

Harriman also will tell the legislature he intends to disclose in a special message later in the session proposals for periodic inspection of motor vehicles, physical examinations for drivers and protecting the insured driver against the uninsured.

In addition the governor will report the state has in the last year employed an increasing number of physically handicapped and older workers.

Workers Named For Ulster Hose

Committees for the coming year were appointed by President Alfrederick A. Kilmer of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Inc., during its semi-monthly meeting Tuesday night.

They were:

Banquet—Roger Boice, Nick Marino, Harold Smith and Ed Fischang.

Athletics — Paul Werner, chairman; Ed Devine, Joe Maiola and Joe Senor.

House — Gene Kolts, chairman; Ray Bellows and Al Mason.

Publicity—Ted Musialkiewicz.

IT WAS REPORTED that the company had received many compliments from residents of the fire district for the traditional arrival of Santa Claus on Dec. 17 when Santa distributed candy to the children. George Berry, chairman of the event, was congratulated for a job well done. It also was pointed out that children from the Lake Katrine School District had sent Christmas cards to the company thanking the members for the Christmas donation of candy and the appearance of Santa Claus.

Among other business was the unanimous acceptance of Ray Bellows as a new member and the approval of a purchase of a television set for the members. President Kilmer announced that the next meeting would be held Jan. 9

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge following the business meeting.

Meat Eaters

The average U. S. male's lifetime quota of meat in terms of live animals, represents 33 hogs, 10 lambs, 8 steers and 4 veal calves.

Faith Group Told Old Political Ideas Being Outmoded

Athens, Ohio, Dec. 29 (AP)—The 3,500 delegates attending the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission have been told that "old political ideas are going bankrupt."

Dr. C. J. Eliezer of the University of Ceylon told the conference last night that people who have lived for centuries "in the political backwaters of the world are experiencing a quickening of the pulse of life."

They are now seeking their "rightful place in the community of nations," he added.

The Rev. Jerald C. Brauer of the University of Chicago related how the Church "is responsible for encouraging research for equality and justice."

Conference delegates, mostly college students, represent more than 80 nations and 50 Christian denominations. They are studying their role in furthering the church's work throughout the world.

The six-day meeting, held every four years, is sponsored by the Student Volunteer Movement (a branch of the National Council of Churches), the world student Christian movement and the United Student Christian Council. The sessions at Ohio University will end Sunday.

Mystified by Sendoff

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Herman Welker (R-Idaho) says he's just as mystified as anybody else about the send off he got from longshore union bigwigs two weeks ago when he and his family sailed on a Caribbean cruise. A big delegation from the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. had startled reporters and union members working on the pier with the unprecedented turnout just before the liner Santa Rosa sailed. They saw to it that the senatorial luggage was whisked aboard the ship in quick time, then repaired to the senator's suite with baskets of fruit and flowers. Among them was Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, union boss on the Brooklyn waterfront.

Reports Damage

Duane J. Forman, RD 3, Kingston, reported to the Ulster county sheriff's office that his 1955 sedan was damaged about 4:50 p. m. Wednesday when a truck operated by Victor D. Roglieri of Poughkeepsie backed into his vehicle on Lucas avenue extension. According to the report, the truck was turning around in the road at the time of the accident. Mr. Forman reported that his left front door was damaged and the chrome stripping bent.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The stock market made modest progress today. Trading was quiet.

Neither the professionals nor the investing public seemed to care much about the market with only one more trading day to go in this calendar year.

Prices were up around 2 points at the best, but most gains and losses were quite small. Many leaders held unchanged for considerable periods.

Stepfather Cleared

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 29 (AP)—The stepfather of Joe King, 14-year-old victim of a strangler, has been cleared, at least temporarily in the youngster's death, and police are searching for a new lead in the case. T/Sgt. James R. King was released from custody last night after taking a lie detector test, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Sam Hallum said he had been "cleared for the time being." Sheriff Tom Gulley said the air force sergeant would be questioned again.

Elephant Is for Sale

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP)—Anybody want to buy an elephant? A large department store here (John Wanamaker) has one on sale for $4,995. "It's a bargain," the salesman said. "Hannibal originally cost $7,800 but we reduced the price in line with the store's two-day Christmas season sale."

or more workers rose to 26 compared with 18 in 1954. The average worker involved in these stoppages was idle about 11 working days in 1955 compared with 17 in 1954.

Many of the larger 1955 disputes were relatively brief, but several continued for two months or longer. These included two springtime disputes in the south—a 58-day stoppage by employes of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and a 72-day strike affecting the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

THE PROLONGED strike of 700,000 employes of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., which began Oct. 17 continued in effect as the new year approached.

Disputes over wages and related issues were a major cause in 19 of the 26 largest strikes in 1955. Another involved wages combined with union security. In two others union security was the predominant issue. Grievances over job security and other working conditions led to four major stoppages.

Four of the major stoppages were in the transportation equipment industry. The electrical products and farm equipment industries each had three, and the construction, shipping, steel, telephone and trucking industries each had two. Other major strikes occurred in the copper mining, railroad, rubber products, scientific and engineering instruments, shoe and textile industries.

Full Duty Planned

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through January 3 all Kingston state police will be on duty round-the-clock in order to handle heavy New Year weekend traffic and keep down accidents as much as possible, it was reported today from the local barracks on Route 9W just north of Kingston.

Wood's Bottling Works Is Sold

Wood's Bottling Works, 7 Jansen avenue, one of the city's oldest established businesses, has changed hands. As of December 1 the business was sold to Charles Spada and Joseph Apa by the Wood family which has operated it since its establishment by Abram Wood 105 years ago.

Mr. Spada has been a resident of Kingston for 15 years and has been engaged in the construction business while Mr. Apa, a graduate of Utica Tech, is presently manager of the G. R. Kinney, Co., Inc., shoe store on Wall street.

Theodore C. Wood, Jr., who has operated the business for the past several years, said the business had been sold as of December 1 and he was severing his associations with the business this week. The business is that of manufacturing and bottling soft drinks and sodas.

again to call for repeal of the Condon-Wadlin law, which forbids public employes from striking.

Harriman is understood to take the position that the law makes proper labor relations difficult. He feels further, it is reported, that it is more important to establish machinery for maintaining smooth labor relations.

Harriman also will tell the legislature he intends to disclose in a special message later in the session proposals for periodic inspection of motor vehicles, physical examinations for drivers and protecting the insured driver against the uninsured.

In addition the governor will report the state has in the last year employed an increasing number of physically handicapped and older workers.

Workers Named For Ulster Hose

Committees for the coming year were appointed by President Alfrederick A. Kilmer of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Inc., during its semi-monthly meeting Tuesday night.

They were:

Banquet—Roger Boice, Nick Marino, Harold Smith and Ed Fischang.

Athletics — Paul Werner, chairman; Ed Devine, Joe Maiola and Joe Senor.

Publicity—Ted Musialkiewicz.

IT WAS REPORTED that the company had received many compliments from residents of the fire district for the traditional arrival of Santa Claus on Dec. 17 when Santa distributed candy to the children. George Berry, chairman of the event, was congratulated for a job well done. It also was pointed out that children from the Lake Katrine School District had sent Christmas cards to the company thanking the members for the Christmas donation of candy and the appearance of Santa Claus.

Among other business was the unanimous acceptance of Ray Bellows as a new member and the approval of a purchase of a television set for the members. President Kilmer announced that the next meeting would be held Jan. 9

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge following the business meeting.

Meat Eaters

The average U. S. male's lifetime quota of meat in terms of live animals, represents 33 hogs, 10 lambs, 8 steers and 4 veal calves.

The Weather

THURSDAY, DEC. 29, 1955

Sun rises at 7:23 a. m.; sun sets at 4:31 p. m. EST.

Weather: Partly cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 13 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 28 degrees.

Weather Forecast

NEW YORK CITY and vicinity: Northern New Jersey and Long Island—Mostly cloudy and slightly milder this afternoon with the highest temperature from 35 to 40 degrees. Cloudy and continued mild tonight and Friday with possibility a few showers late tonight and Friday. Low tonight in the 30s and high tomorrow in the low 40s. Gentle to moderate easterly winds this afternoon becoming southeasterly tonight and increasing to moderate to fresh on Friday and shifting to fresh to strong northwesterly late Friday.

SLIPPERY DRIVING WEATHER

OUTLOOKS—Saturday mostly fair and colder, Sunday fair and continued cold.

EASTERN New York: Increasing cloudiness today followed by some light snow or rain by tonight and mostly light rain tomorrow. Some possibility of a period of light freezing rain or drizzle. High temperature today ranging from the mid-20s to the low 30s; little if any drop in temperatures tonight.

Boasts That . . .

ments race," said the stocky Communist leader, as 1,400 members of the supreme Soviet listened attentively.

(As far as U. S. officials could recall it was the first time any major Soviet leader had used such critical language about President Eisenhower since the Summit conference in Geneva; in fact since the Bulganin regime took over in February after Georgi K. Malenkov quit.)

Khrushchev repeated the statement he made in India after the recent H-bomb test explosion in the Soviet Union—that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

HE SAID that although "we do not want to boast about our military and technical strength," he wanted to remind the west about the test explosion.

"The power of this weapon was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives and it can be considerably increased," he added. "People who are trying to increase tension should remember the results of this test."

(The telephone line over which part of this story was dictated was broken by the Soviet censor for five minutes after mention was made of Khrushchev's statement about the H-bomb).

KHRUSCHEV followed Premier Nikolai Bulganin to the rostrum. Both speeches bristled with attacks on "western colonialism."

On the Middle East Khrushchev put forth these contensions:

1. The Baghdad pact violated the Geneva spirit and was signed almost before the ink on the Geneva agreement was dry. Turkey is "mistakenly linking her fate with the aggressive Baghdad pact."

2. The Soviet Union sympathizes with the desire of Arab nations to win and maintain independence. Jordan is the latest example of western efforts to involve Arabs "in an aggressive military bloc."

3. "From the first day of its existence, the State of Israel has been taking a hostile, threatening position toward its neighbors. Imperialists are behind Israel, trying to exploit it against the Arabs for their own benefit."

TURNING to Germany Khrushchev said the actual existence of two German states must be taken into account if the West sincerely wants European security. The western powers' "position is that the German Democratic republic should join West Germany and that all its social achievements should be liquidated," he said. He argued that this and the inclusion of a rearmed Germany with the West "would not only fail to guarantee peace and security in Europe but would increase the danger of a new war."

He said that while western policy now prevents German reunification, it does not mean "there is no possibility of guaranteeing European security." He said the Soviet Union sees no other solution than a system of general European security including the United States.

"NO ONE WILL force us to strengthen by our own hand a bloc (NATO) which is directed against the Soviet Union and other peace-loving countries," he added.

Khrushchev spoke of Africa as "divided among European and non-European nations.

"It is held down by chains which are choking the people of Africa, who are rising in the fight against colonialism," he declared. "We support these fighters for independence, and wish them success."

Khrushchev cited Russia's return of the Porkkala naval base to Finland, the Austrian Independence treaty and the reduction of Soviet armed forces by 640,000 men as Soviet contributions to reducing international tension during 1955.

"Who is undermining the Geneva spirit and who is supporting it?" he asked. "We do not see what the United States is doing to lessen international tension.

"Some western politicians have a strange idea of the Geneva spirit," he said. "They want us to disarm our army and also to disarm morally and politically. Such conditions are unacceptable to us. The most eager proponents of such unrealistic policy are in the United States, particularly Secretary of State Dulles, who plays a leading role in advocating massive retaliation and other absurdities.

"They are even still using such out-of-date language of the policy of the position-of-strength as 'forcing the Reds to withdraw.'" considerably larger than this year's small crop. The New York state crop, however, may not be as large. Heavy increases can be expected in the southern states where spring freezes practically eliminated production.

PEARS—The state pear crop may not be as large in 1956 as this year. The national crop will continue at about the same level as this year's average crop. Demand for pears can be expected to continue strong, Palmer added.

GRAPES—New York's 1956 grape crop is expected to keep pace with the 75,400-ton crop production this year. This coming year's national grape crop will probably be moderately smaller than the near-record 1955 crop.

SOUR CHERRIES — Production in the state may equal the '55 crop. At the same time production estimates for the country are expected to reach the near-record crop of this year.

SWEET CHERRIES — The United States sweet cherry crop is likely to be moderately smaller. The greatest reduction in the sweet cherry crop can be expected in the Pacific coast states and New York where larger crops were harvested this year.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury Dec. 23: Balance, $4,937,049,586.95; deposits fiscal year July 1, $28,358,399,307.01; withdrawals fiscal year, $34,877,385,259.60; total debt, $280,704,221,959.16x; gold assets, $21,689,828,781.15; x—includes $474,061,379.80 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Grosbeaks Reported In Kingston Today

A flock of about six to eight evening grosbeaks, a small bird, made a rare visit to Kingston today, according to a reader of The Freeman.

Byron Stevens of 63 West Chester street said he noticed the small birds early today in his apple tree and on the ground.

Mr. Stevens pointed out that today's visit of the grosbeaks was the first he knew of in this area since about five years ago.

Faces Murder Charges

Tallulah, La., Dec. 29 (AP)—A 21-year-old Negro, who wanted $35 to pay off a debt, faces murder charges in the shotgun-robbery slaying of two 66-year-old planters. Sheriff C. E. Hester of Madison parish said last night that D. C. Bailey admitted killing the two men after removing 10 cents from the pocket of one and $46 from the cash register of the other. In the hurried robbery, the sheriff said, Bailey overlooked more than $500 on his victims, Jesse Nelson and Eddie Montgomery.

ments race," said the stocky Communist leader, as 1,400 members of the supreme Soviet listened attentively.

(As far as U. S. officials could recall it was the first time any major Soviet leader had used such critical language about President Eisenhower since the Summit conference in Geneva; in fact since the Bulganin regime took over in February after Georgi K. Malenkov quit.)

Khrushchev repeated the statement he made in India after the recent H-bomb test explosion in the Soviet Union—that the new Russian weapon "was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives."

HE SAID that although "we do not want to boast about our military and technical strength," he wanted to remind the west about the test explosion.

"The power of this weapon was equivalent to many million tons of ordinary explosives and it can be considerably increased," he added. "People who are trying to increase tension should remember the results of this test."

(The telephone line over which part of this story was dictated was broken by the Soviet censor for five minutes after mention was made of Khrushchev's statement about the H-bomb).

KHRUSCHEV followed Premier Nikolai Bulganin to the rostrum. Both speeches bristled with attacks on "western colonialism."

On the Middle East Khrushchev put forth these contensions:

1. The Baghdad pact violated the Geneva spirit and was signed almost before the ink on the Geneva agreement was dry. Turkey is "mistakenly linking her fate with the aggressive Baghdad pact."

2. The Soviet Union sympathizes with the desire of Arab nations to win and maintain independence. Jordan is the latest example of western efforts to involve Arabs "in an aggressive military bloc."

3. "From the first day of its existence, the State of Israel has been taking a hostile, threatening position toward its neighbors. Imperialists are behind Israel, trying to exploit it against the Arabs for their own benefit."

TURNING to Germany Khrushchev said the actual existence of two German states must be taken into account if the West sincerely wants European security. The western powers' "position is that the German Democratic republic should join West Germany and that all its social achievements should be liquidated," he said. He argued that this and the inclusion of a rearmed Germany with the West "would not only fail to guarantee peace and security in Europe but would increase the danger of a new war."

He said that while western policy now prevents German reunification, it does not mean "there is no possibility of guaranteeing European security." He said the Soviet Union sees no other solution than a system of general European security including the United States.

"NO ONE WILL force us to strengthen by our own hand a bloc (NATO) which is directed against the Soviet Union and other peace-loving countries," he added.

Khrushchev spoke of Africa as "divided among European and non-European nations.

"It is held down by chains which are choking the people of Africa, who are rising in the fight against colonialism," he declared. "We support these fighters for independence, and wish them success."

Khrushchev cited Russia's return of the Porkkala naval base to Finland, the Austrian Independence treaty and the reduction of Soviet armed forces by 640,000 men as Soviet contributions to reducing international tension during 1955.
